Anti-Bombing Section Added To Rights Bill

Transportation Clause Tacked On By Senators

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate voted a broad transportation clause into the antibombing section of its civil rights bill Thursday and then adopted the section 86-1.

The "no" vote was cast by Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Republican leader. He said the Senate was straying far afield from civil rights.

However, it was a persistent advocate of civil rights legislation Sen. Kenneth B. Keating (R-NY) who offered the transportation proposal.

It would prohibit transporting in interstate commerce any explosive with knowledge or intent that it would be used against any building or property to interfere with its use for educational, religious, charitable, residential, business or civil purposes.

Original Form Broadened

The section in its original form would have made it a federal crime to flee across a state line to avoid prosecution for the bombing of a church or school. Earlier this week the Senate voted to broaden this flight-from-prosecution penalty to embrace the bombing of any kind of property.

The Keating amendment was adopted 87-0, with Dirsken recorded as not voting but paired against it—meaning he and a backer of the amendment agreed to cancel each other's vote.

Thursday's 86-1 adoption of the bombing section marked the first time the Senate has approved any section of the administration's seven-point 1960 civil rights program.

House Makes Little Headway

Meanwhile, the House was making little headway with the various civil rights amendments before it. There had been a chance it would vote Thursday on the voting rights section.

Debate on Southern-sponsored amendments occupied the House members during the day. One proposal would require Negroes or others complaining of voting discrimination to give strict proof.

In one other development, Senate leaders agreed they would not call for a Saturday session because members have other duties calling for their attention.

Official Probe Of Mine Blaze Slated Tuesday

LOGAN, W. Va. (AP)—An official inquiry will be held next Tuesday by federal and state officials seeking the cause of a fire which killed 18 coal miners.

Arrangements for the formal investigation were made as rescue crews found the body of the last victim of the Holden 22 mine disaster.

The West Virginia State Mines Department and the U.S. Bureau of Mines will open next week their official probe of the Island Creek Coal Co. clubhouse at nearby Holden.

A rescue crew late Thursday afternoon came upon the last body, that of Louis Workman, 32. A few hours earlier another crew found the body of Charles Adams, 49.

Meanwhile, funeral services were held for the first of the dead recovered three days ago — one week after the fire and slate fall occurred in a tunnel, filling the mine with poisonous fumes.

Ike Launches Drive To Boost Export Trade

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower Thursday launched a many-sided governmentwide drive to increase American exports, and thereby to reduce the nation's international payments deficit and outflow of gold.

In a special message to Congress, Eisenhower announced that the government for the first time will guarantee exporters against losses arising from political risks abroad—in effect, a federal credit insurance plan for export sales.

Such risks include curbs on the movement of currency, seizures of property, barriers to imports, and losses arising from war or civil strife. These have deterred many U.S. businesses from seeking foreign markets.

The President said the "cooperation and support of the Congress are vital to the success of the program," although he added much can be done under existing law.

Eisenhower did not specifically say so, but it appeared that the main contribution expected of Congress would be to provide the money for expanded staffs and facilities in the Commerce, State and Agriculture departments to step up trade promotion activities here and overseas.

Eisenhower announced he will seek shortly "supplemental appropriations necessary for rapid progress' in the drive. Other officials said privately these may total more than 10 million dollars.

U.S. Suggests Missile Test Flight Alerts

Proposal Advanced To Eliminate Danger Of War By Accident

GENEVA (AP) — The Western powers proposed at the 10-nation disarmament conference Thursday that all nations agree at once to report their missile test flights in advance to avoid the danger of war by accident.

U.S. delegate Frederick M. Eaton linked this idea with two other suggestions for easing world tensions—banning weapons of mass destruction in outer space and prompt halting of production of nuclear materials for war purposes.

In the two-hour session the Communist side exhibited the first sign of interest in the Western plan since the talks began Tuesday.

Hopeful Development

Between them, Polish delegate Marian Naszkowski and Czechoslovak delegate Jiri Nosek asked seven questions relating to mechanics of the three-phrased arms cut system advanced by the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada.

This development in itself was regarded as a hopeful sign in the Western camp. One source said it showed at least that the conference was moving into the realm of detailed discussions.

Eaton said the world should not expect the conference to give birth suddenly to a complete disarmament agreement "like Venus arising from the sea."

Eaton Stresses Controls

He also warned the Communist side—the Soviet Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Bulgaria—that the U.S. government would never enter into a disarmament agreement which failed to contain a central element of control.

Eaton did not go into detail concerning his proposal for a notification system on missile flights. Other Westerners suggested, however, it might be possible to work out such a system using some existing international body.

Judge Rules Carole Can Go Free On Bond

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carole Tregoff can go free on $25,000 bail pending a retrial on murder charges, a judge ruled Thursday.

Tears rolled down the pretty 23-year-old's cheeks as Superior Court Judge John G. Barnes spoke. He also:

Refused to release Dr. R. Bernard Finch, her codefendant, on bail.

Set May 23 as the date for their second trial on a charge they murdered his wife, Barbara Jean, 36, last July 18.

Refused to allow the defendants separate trials.

They were tried together in a three-month case which ended last Saturday with a hung jury and a mistrial.

The 42-year-old doctor comforted Carole and apparently offered his congratulations, as tears spilled from her cheeks to splotch the V-neck tan-plaid dress she wore to court.

It appeared doubtful that Miss Tregoff would be freed until Friday.

Photos Taken By Slain Women Provide Clues

OTTAWA, Ill. (AP) — Photographs taken by three socially prominent women shortly before they were slain gave investigators new leads in the case Thursday.

State's Atty. Harland Warren told newsmen the films had given new leads, but he declined to go into detail or to allow reporters to have a close look.

The pictures were taken on 35 mm. color film in a camera owned by one of the women. They were taken Monday, when the women arrived in Starved Rock State Park to hike and rest.

The camera was retrieved near the entrance to the cave in St. Louis Canyon where the battered bodies of the victims were found Wednesday.

The state's attorney said he had two clear color slides mounted on cardboard. The camera, he added, also yielded a partial double exposure.

He said he will not discuss the pictures "until we have been able to find where the pictures were taken."

He declined to say what they show but acknowledged they had been taken in the park.

However, a deputy sheriff, who didn't give his name, told reporters and photographers that one picture shows two of the women standing on the floor of the canyon facing the cave where their bodies were recovered, he said.

Warren declined to confirm that information or to say whether the films point the investigation toward any individual. He promised a statement Friday.

Earlier, a $30,000 reward was offered in the hope of cracking the shell of mystery surrounding the triple murder.

The reward was announced in Chicago by the companies in which the husbands of the victims hold executive posts. The money is being donated by the firms and their employes, business associates and friends of the three families.

The victims were Frances Murphy, 47, wife of Robert Murphy, a vice president of Borg-Warner Corp.; Mildred Lindquist, 50, wife of Robert Lindquist, a vice president of the Harris Trust & Savings Bank; and Lillian Oetting, 50, wife of George Oetting, an audit supervisor for the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Flame throwers were used to melt snow and ice around the cave in an effort to find clues.

Ike's Immigration Liberalization Plan Criticized By Walter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower called Thursday for a sweeping overhaul of the nation's immigration laws to double the number of persons admitted under annual quotas and provide a haven for homeless refugees.

He asked Congress to liberalize entry of Asiatics and drastically revise the controversial national origins quota system. The system has been blamed for alleged discrimination against Italy and other eastern and southern European nations.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), co-author of present basic immigration law and chairman of the House Immigration Subcommittee, immediately accused the President of playing "election-year politics."

Walter, long opposed to any changes in the basic McCarran-Walter Act, said the President was trying to reap "political dividends" by catering to special groups. He said the problem should be tackled by sociologists and economists, not "Republican political advisers to the President."

The politics charge was flung back at the Democrats by Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) who called the President's proposals "fair and wise." Scott said he hoped Democrats wouldn't repeat what he called their past habit of loading such legislation with politically inspired amendments designed to share votes.

Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-N.Y.) agreed with Scott that Congress should not overburden a "good plan."

At present, about 154,000 immigrants may enter this country annually under the McCarran-Walter Act's quota system. The President would raise this to about 300,000 by permitting quota immigration equal to one-sixth of one per cent of the U.S. population each year.

The President also proposed an increase in immigration from the so-called Asiatic-Pacific Triangle by removing the 2,000-person ceiling on the quota from that area.

Laraine Day, Leo Durocher Plan Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After months in shoal waters, the 12-year marriage of Laraine Day and Leo Durocher is on the rocks.

Since November rumors have been popping that all was not well in the home life of the beautiful ex-actress and baseball's onetime stormy petrel.

But the couple denied the rift that many blamed on Durocher's more than passing fancy in dancer Larri Thomas, estranged wife of actor John Bromfield.

Wednesday night Laraine and Leo sat down with attorneys to thrash out a property settlement before she files for divorce.

From the beginning, Hollywood considered their marriage one of the most improbable in a town where novel matches are commonplace.

Durocher, now 54, was 16 years older than the blue-eyed movie queen, who was starring in such films as the Dr. Kildare series and "Keep Your Powder Dry."

Leo was a graduate of the rough and tumble St. Louis Cardinals Gas House Gang of the 1930s. His cafe society pub crawling and near-underworld friends earned him a year's suspension from baseball in 1947 from then Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

Macmillan's Party Wins Two Elections

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative party triumphed in two special elections Friday and increased its House of Commons majority to 102.

It held on to a safe parliamentary seat in the London suburban district of West Harrow and captured the grimy industrial district of Brighouse in Yorkshire from its Laborite opponents.

They were the first elections—caused by the death of two legislators—since last October's national poll.

Tanker Carrying Gas Ruptured In Collision

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A gasoline-laden tanker and a Norwegian motor vessel collided at the fog-bound entrance to Hampton Roads early Thursday, dumping 150,000 gallons gasoline from the ruptured tanker.

A dangerous slick spread across the mouth of the harbor of this huge naval and shipping center but the hazard of fire or explosion diminished as the tides washed it out to sea.

Florida Floods Drive Hundreds From Homes

By The Associated Press

Buffeting winds and smashing rains belted central Florida Thursday, and the fourth major storm of the month plastered the Northeast with ice and snow.

Three days before spring's official debut, portions of the Midwest and South were buried under the deepest snow of the winter. New snow fell in far west Texas.

The snow storms were blamed for at least 22 deaths.

Marathon rains continued in Florida, bursting the Lake Magdalene Dam in North Tampa. Water from the lake, a catch basin for northern Hillsborough and Pasco counties, threatened the homes of 25,000 persons.

Police and rescue crews aided about 200 persons distressed by rising waters at Dade City, 45 miles northeast of Tampa. About 40 or 50 families in a low area near Orlando, where 7.28 inches of rain fell since Monday, were taken from their homes.

In the hard-hit Plant City area where some 600 persons were driven from their homes by high water Wednesday, water appeared to be receding.

A tornado skipped across the town of Seffner near Tampa without causing any damage. A tornado ripped through the Plant City, Fla., airport Wednesday.

A violent thunderstorm lashed the Cape Canaveral area. Electric service was knocked out and scheduled missile firings were postponed.

Three days of violent weather in Florida has driven hundreds from their homes and caused heavy damage to roads and crops.

Heavy snow piled up throughout New England making driving hazardous. This was the tail end of a vast storm that started Monday in the Rockies and churned across the Plains, Midwest and parts of the South.

The recent snows have smashed many records in the East. The 19.7 inches of snow that has fallen this month in Richmond, Va., is a March record for that city. The 150.3 inches measured at Rochester, N. Y., established a winter record there.

TV Quiz Whiz Flunks Census Taker Exam

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)) — "It makes me look like a nitwit," said Teddy Nadler Thursday after flunking a test for prospective census takers. "I think I'll hide for two years."

The one-time clerk, who pocketed $264,000 in television quiz show winnings, met his master in the form of a written examination on vocabulary and map reading. So did about 25 others in his class of 50.

"All of my knowledge was of no value to me," he moaned.

The former quiz whiz, who fidgeted and fretted through an examination for the $13-a-day job, said he did well on the English phase, but fizzled on map reading.

Jack W. Traverse Jr., regional director of the Bureau of the Census, said the map reading consisted of finding symbols and measuring distances.

Bits Of Plane Strewn Over Indiana Area

Shredded Clothes, Pieces Of Bodies Widely Scattered

TELL CITY, Ind. (AP) — A Northwest Airlines turboprop exploded in the air Thursday, hurling wreckage and 63 bodies into southern Indiana's rugged Ohio River hills.

All aboard died.

So much wreckage rained over a wide area that it was first believed two planes had collided.

However, the Federal Aviation Agency and the Indiana state police said all the pieces they could find were from one plane—Northwest's Flight No. 710 from Minneapolis to Miami, Fla.

A wing and two engines were found about five miles from the main wreckage.

The body of the plane rammed a huge hole into the earth.

A State Police spokesman said: "Shredded clothes were found all over the area. Our men have been unable to find any complete bodies."

Twenty state troopers searched the densely wooded hills along the Ohio River on foot. They tried using jeeps but made little progress. There are few roads in the area.

Farmer Sees Crash

"Those hills are almost straight up and down, almost mountains," a trooper said. The scene was midway between Louisville, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., on the Kentucky-Indiana border.

Ed Laparle of Minneapolis was captain of the plane—the ninth to go down in major air disasters throughout the world this year.

Eighteen passengers boarded plane in Minneapolis, the rest in Chicago.

Officials said the widely scattered wreckage showed that the plane had exploded in flight.

Albert Harpe, a farmer saw the crash.

"I heard a plane going over in an easterly direction, and all at once I heard popping sounds," he said. "It sounded like shotgun shells or a little louder."

"I looked, and two parts were coming down. One was not over three-fourths of a mile from home.

"It's so messed up, I can just say it looks terrible."

Another farmer, Frank Whitehead, described the scene: "Clothes were hanging from trees. Pieces of bodies were scattered around everywhere. But there wasn't enough to them to tell how many."

Fingerprint Experts Called In

State Police continued searching the woods as darkness fell. "Our big problem is lights," an officer said. "You can't describe how tough that country is in the dark."

All Indiana State Police were alerted and told to speed men into the area. They took disaster equipment, portable radio equipment and portable laboratories to assist in making identifications.

Northwest Airlines asked the FBI disaster squad to help with fingerprint identification of bodies. After getting a list of passengers and crew, the FBI was to check its files for available prints, then fly to the scene, probably Friday.

In addition to Laparle, 57, members of the plane's crew were: Joe Mills, 27, copilot, Hopkins, Minn.; Arnie Kowa, 40, flight engineer, Minneapolis; Connie Nutter, 21, stewardess, Minneapolis; Barbara Schreiber, 23, stewardess, Minneapolis, and Mitch Foster, 41, flight service attendant, Somerset, Wis.

9th Major Air Crash Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The crash of a Northwest Airlines plane near Tell City, Ind., Thursday was the year's ninth major plane disaster. Nearly 400 persons have been killed in less than three months.

Previous crashes were:

Jan. 6—34 killed in a National Airlines plane at Bolivia, N.C.

Jan. 18—50 killed in a Capital Airlines plane near Holdcroft, Va.

Jan. 19—58 killed in two separate crashes in Turkey, 42 in a Scandinavian plane and 16 in a U. S. Navy reconnaissance plane.

Jan. 21—37 killed in an Avianca plane at Jamaica.

Feb. 5—59 killed near La Paz, Bolivia, in the crash of a Lloyd Aerio Boliviano plane.

Feb. 25—90 killed in two separate crashes, 29 in a DC7 Italian airliner at Shannon, Ireland, and 61 in the collision of a U.S. Navy plane and a Brazilian airliner over Rio de Janeiro.

Racial Tension Flares In Florida And Georgia

By The Associated Press

Racial outbursts flared in Florida and Georgia Thursday and authorities, aware of what one termed the rumble of mobs, moved quickly to halt disorder.

Eight Negro college students leaving a variety store in St. Augustine, Fla., where sitdown demonstrations have been staged three days in succession, were attacked by a group of white men. Fists flew and the Negroes fled with the white men pursuing.

A crowd gathered but dispersed when an officer threatened it with tear gas. The Negroes were hurried away in a taxi called by police.

Sixty policemen, armed with tear gas, and State Police dispersed crowds of jeering Negro and white teen-agers in downtown Savannah, Ga., following a St. Patrick's Day parade.

Twenty state troopers were sent to Savannah earlier after police advised they feared trouble because of crowds attracted by the parade. An integration sitdown demonstration in the city Wednesday caused the arrest of three Negroes.

A white man reported Negroes in Savannah, showered his car with rocks. Officers arrested three persons after the parade and kept crowds moving.

Gov. Leroy Collins of Florida called for the full force of the law to halt lunch counter demonstrations by Negroes. At the same time he said, social adjustments must be made to restore racial harmony.

Collins said communities throughout the South could hear the rumble of mobs and leader ship is badly needed to find the right, proclaim it and apply it.

Castro Finance Minister Quits; Blames Ill Health

HAVANA (AP) — Rufo Lopez Fresquet resigned Thursday as finance minister in Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government. He gave poor health as the reason, but it appeared his moderate financial policies were not in line with those of the fiery Castro.

Rolando Diaz Aztarain, a 35-year-old navy captain, was sworn in quickly as successor to Lopez Fresquet.

Diaz Aztarain, a newcomer to the cabinet, was kicked out of the navy during ex-President Fulgencio Batista's dictatorship because of pro-Castro sympathies. Since December he has been minister for recovery of misappropriated public funds.

(Lt. Cmdr. Miguel Pons, Cuba's naval attache and chief military representative in the United States, announced his resignation in Washington. He accused Castro's government of being a Communist front.)

The change in Castro's Cabinet seemed likely to clear more ground for the policies of Ernesto Guevara, leftist head of the National Bank and already the dominant voice in directing Cuba's economy.

A central planning board was set up Wednesday to give the government a stronger hand in controlling all Cuban industry. As finance minister, Lopez Fresquet would have been a member of the board.

Lopez Fresquet, 47, an economist who did graduate work at Columbia University where he met and married an American girl, said he has been in poor health for a long time.

The victims were Frances Murphy, 47, wife of Robert Murphy, a vice president of Borg-Warner Corp.; Mildred Lindquist, 50, wife of Robert Lindquist, a vice president of the Harris Trust & Savings Bank; and Lillian Oetting, 50, wife of George Oetting, an audit supervisor for the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

Flame throwers were used to melt snow and ice around the cave in an effort to find clues.

Macmillan's Party Wins Two Elections

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's Conservative party triumphed in two special elections Friday and increased its House of Commons majority to 102.

It held on to a safe parliamentary seat in the London suburban district of West Harrow and captured the grimy industrial district of Brighouse in Yorkshire from its Laborite opponents.

They were the first elections—caused by the death of two legislators—since last October's national poll.

Ike's Immigration Liberalization Plan Criticized By Walter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Eisenhower called Thursday for a sweeping overhaul of the nation's immigration laws to double the number of persons admitted under annual quotas and provide a haven for homeless refugees.

He asked Congress to liberalize entry of Asiatics and drastically revise the controversial national origins quota system. The system has been blamed for alleged discrimination against Italy and other eastern and southern European nations.

Rep. Francis E. Walter (D-Pa.), co-author of present basic immigration law and chairman of the House Immigration Subcommittee, immediately accused the President of playing "election-year politics."

Walter, long opposed to any changes in the basic McCarran-Walter Act, said the President was trying to reap "political dividends" by catering to special groups. He said the problem should be tackled by sociologists and economists, not "Republican political advisers to the President."

The politics charge was flung back at the Democrats by Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) who called the President's proposals "fair and wise." Scott said he hoped Democrats wouldn't repeat what he called their past habit of loading such legislation with politically inspired amendments designed to share votes.

Sen. Kenneth Keating (R-N.Y.) agreed with Scott that Congress should not overburden a "good plan."

At present, about 154,000 immigrants may enter this country annually under the McCarran-Walter Act's quota system. The President would raise this to about 300,000 by permitting quota immigration equal to one-sixth of one per cent of the U.S. population each year.

The President also proposed an increase in immigration from the so-called Asiatic-Pacific Triangle by removing the 2,000-person ceiling on the quota from that area.

Laraine Day, Leo Durocher Plan Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — After months in shoal waters, the 12-year marriage of Laraine Day and Leo Durocher is on the rocks.

Since November rumors have been popping that all was not well in the home life of the beautiful ex-actress and baseball's onetime stormy petrel.

But the couple denied the rift that many blamed on Durocher's more than passing fancy in dancer Larri Thomas, estranged wife of actor John Bromfield.

Wednesday night Laraine and Leo sat down with attorneys to thrash out a property settlement before she files for divorce.

From the beginning, Hollywood considered their marriage one of the most improbable in a town where novel matches are commonplace.

Durocher, now 54, was 16 years older than the blue-eyed movie queen, who was starring in such films as the Dr. Kildare series and "Keep Your Powder Dry."

Leo was a graduate of the rough and tumble St. Louis Cardinals Gas House Gang of the 1930s. His cafe society pub crawling and near-underworld friends earned him a year's suspension from baseball in 1947 from then Commissioner A. B. (Happy) Chandler.

Tanker Carrying Gas Ruptured In Collision

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — A gasoline-laden tanker and a Norwegian motor vessel collided at the fog-bound entrance to Hampton Roads early Thursday, dumping 150,000 gallons gasoline from the ruptured tanker.

A dangerous slick spread across the mouth of the harbor of this huge naval and shipping center but the hazard of fire or explosion diminished as the tides washed it out to sea.

TV Quiz Whiz Flunks Census Taker Exam

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP)) — "It makes me look like a nitwit," said Teddy Nadler Thursday after flunking a test for prospective census takers. "I think I'll hide for two years."

The one-time clerk, who pocketed $264,000 in television quiz show winnings, met his master in the form of a written examination on vocabulary and map reading. So did about 25 others in his class of 50.

"All of my knowledge was of no value to me," he moaned.

The former quiz whiz, who fidgeted and fretted through an examination for the $13-a-day job, said he did well on the English phase, but fizzled on map reading.

Jack W. Traverse Jr., regional director of the Bureau of the Census, said the map reading consisted of finding symbols and measuring distances.

Florida Floods Drive Hundreds From Homes

By The Associated Press

Buffeting winds and smashing rains belted central Florida Thursday, and the fourth major storm of the month plastered the Northeast with ice and snow.

Three days before spring's official debut, portions of the Midwest and South were buried under the deepest snow of the winter. New snow fell in far west Texas.

The snow storms were blamed for at least 22 deaths.

Marathon rains continued in Florida, bursting the Lake Magdalene Dam in North Tampa. Water from the lake, a catch basin for northern Hillsborough and Pasco counties, threatened the homes of 25,000 persons.

Police and rescue crews aided about 200 persons distressed by rising waters at Dade City, 45 miles northeast of Tampa. About 40 or 50 families in a low area near Orlando, where 7.28 inches of rain fell since Monday, were taken from their homes.

In the hard-hit Plant City area where some 600 persons were driven from their homes by high water Wednesday, water appeared to be receding.

A tornado skipped across the town of Seffner near Tampa without causing any damage. A tornado ripped through the Plant City, Fla., airport Wednesday.

A violent thunderstorm lashed the Cape Canaveral area. Electric service was knocked out and scheduled missile firings were postponed.

Three days of violent weather in Florida has driven hundreds from their homes and caused heavy damage to roads and crops.

Heavy snow piled up throughout New England making driving hazardous. This was the tail end of a vast storm that started Monday in the Rockies and churned across the Plains, Midwest and parts of the South.

The recent snows have smashed many records in the East. The 19.7 inches of snow that has fallen this month in Richmond, Va., is a March record for that city. The 150.3 inches measured at Rochester, N. Y., established a winter record there.

Castro Finance Minister Quits; Blames Ill Health

HAVANA (AP) — Rufo Lopez Fresquet resigned Thursday as finance minister in Prime Minister Fidel Castro's government. He gave poor health as the reason, but it appeared his moderate financial policies were not in line with those of the fiery Castro.

Rolando Diaz Aztarain, a 35-year-old navy captain, was sworn in quickly as successor to Lopez Fresquet.

Diaz Aztarain, a newcomer to the cabinet, was kicked out of the navy during ex-President Fulgencio Batista's dictatorship because of pro-Castro sympathies. Since December he has been minister for recovery of misappropriated public funds.

(Lt. Cmdr. Miguel Pons, Cuba's naval attache and chief military representative in the United States, announced his resignation in Washington. He accused Castro's government of being a Communist front.)

The change in Castro's Cabinet seemed likely to clear more ground for the policies of Ernesto Guevara, leftist head of the National Bank and already the dominant voice in directing Cuba's economy.

A central planning board was set up Wednesday to give the government a stronger hand in controlling all Cuban industry. As finance minister, Lopez Fresquet would have been a member of the board.

Lopez Fresquet, 47, an economist who did graduate work at Columbia University where he met and married an American girl, said he has been in poor health for a long time.

Bits Of Plane Strewn Over Indiana Area

Shredded Clothes, Pieces Of Bodies Widely Scattered

TELL CITY, Ind. (AP) — A Northwest Airlines turboprop exploded in the air Thursday, hurling wreckage and 63 bodies into southern Indiana's rugged Ohio River hills.

All aboard died.

So much wreckage rained over a wide area that it was first believed two planes had collided.

However, the Federal Aviation Agency and the Indiana state police said all the pieces they could find were from one plane—Northwest's Flight No. 710 from Minneapolis to Miami, Fla.

A wing and two engines were found about five miles from the main wreckage.

The body of the plane rammed a huge hole into the earth.

A State Police spokesman said: "Shredded clothes were found all over the area. Our men have been unable to find any complete bodies."

Twenty state troopers searched the densely wooded hills along the Ohio River on foot. They tried using jeeps but made little progress. There are few roads in the area.

Farmer Sees Crash

"Those hills are almost straight up and down, almost mountains," a trooper said. The scene was midway between Louisville, Ky., and Evansville, Ind., on the Kentucky-Indiana border.

Ed Laparle of Minneapolis was captain of the plane—the ninth to go down in major air disasters throughout the world this year.

Eighteen passengers boarded plane in Minneapolis, the rest in Chicago.

Officials said the widely scattered wreckage showed that the plane had exploded in flight.

Albert Harpe, a farmer saw the crash.

"I heard a plane going over in an easterly direction, and all at once I heard popping sounds," he said. "It sounded like shotgun shells or a little louder."

"I looked, and two parts were coming down. One was not over three-fourths of a mile from home.

"It's so messed up, I can just say it looks terrible."

Another farmer, Frank Whitehead, described the scene: "Clothes were hanging from trees. Pieces of bodies were scattered around everywhere. But there wasn't enough to them to tell how many."

Fingerprint Experts Called In

State Police continued searching the woods as darkness fell. "Our big problem is lights," an officer said. "You can't describe how tough that country is in the dark."

All Indiana State Police were alerted and told to speed men into the area. They took disaster equipment, portable radio equipment and portable laboratories to assist in making identifications.

Northwest Airlines asked the FBI disaster squad to help with fingerprint identification of bodies. After getting a list of passengers and crew, the FBI was to check its files for available prints, then fly to the scene, probably Friday.

In addition to Laparle, 57, members of the plane's crew were: Joe Mills, 27, copilot, Hopkins, Minn.; Arnie Kowa, 40, flight engineer, Minneapolis; Connie Nutter, 21, stewardess, Minneapolis; Barbara Schreiber, 23, stewardess, Minneapolis, and Mitch Foster, 41, flight service attendant, Somerset, Wis.

9th Major Air Crash Of Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The crash of a Northwest Airlines plane near Tell City, Ind., Thursday was the year's ninth major plane disaster. Nearly 400 persons have been killed in less than three months.

Previous crashes were:

Jan. 6—34 killed in a National Airlines plane at Bolivia, N.C.

Jan. 18—50 killed in a Capital Airlines plane near Holdcroft, Va.

Jan. 19—58 killed in two separate crashes in Turkey, 42 in a Scandinavian plane and 16 in a U. S. Navy reconnaissance plane.

Jan. 21—37 killed in an Avianca plane at Jamaica.

Feb. 5—59 killed near La Paz, Bolivia, in the crash of a Lloyd Aerio Boliviano plane.

Feb. 25—90 killed in two separate crashes, 29 in a DC7 Italian airliner at Shannon, Ireland, and 61 in the collision of a U.S. Navy plane and a Brazilian airliner over Rio de Janeiro.

Pay Of Mrs. Kimble's Son Slashed By Legislature

$15,000 Job For Pasarew Eliminated

BALTIMORE (AP) — Elimination of a $15,000 job for I. Alvin Pasarew, former director of the State Planning Commission, and a $1,900 salary reduction for the son of two other state officials were quietly done by the 1960 Legislature, the Baltimore Sun reported Thursday.

The salary axe fell on William Richard Welsh, son of Mrs. Margaret Kimble, deputy director of the Department of Labor and Industry. Mrs. Kimble's husband, Robert, is director of the Department of Employment Security.

Pasarew had been under some heat last year when it was disclosed he had assigned one of his employes to do personal work at his home on state time.

The 1959 Legislature reorganized the Planning Commission and James J. O'Donnell, former director of public improvements, replaced Pasarew as director. But Pasarew was retained at the same $15,000 salary under a new title of special projects analyst.

This new job was deleted from the new budget by the 1960 Legislature.

Russell S. Davis, commissioner of personnel, said he understood that Pasarew is eligible for a pension.

Davis said he also is asking the attorney general to rule on the legislative action affecting Welsh. He was appointed assistant to his mother last fall.

The Board of Public Works fixed the salary for the new position at $6,660 a year. It was set at $7,050 in the personnel plan submitted to the 1960 Legislature by Gov. Tawes.

The Legislature amended it to be no higher than $5,150 for an industrial examiner. That was the same position and salary held by Welsh before his promotion.

His mother's salary as deputy commissioner is $9,815. Her husband's salary as director of employment security is $15,000.

Please Don't Die Is Village Plea; No Grave Space

MARKET DEEPING, England (AP)—The village elders of little Market Deeping—Pop. 888—have passed a solemn resolution.

They appealed officially Wednesday night to old and young: "Please don't die until somewhere has been found to bury you."

It was the latest move in a three-year fight by the Lincolnshire village's Parish Council to extend the local cemetery. Only eight burial plots remain unoccupied in Market Deeping's pretty churchyard — and they already have been spoken for.

Even the paths have been dug up for grave space.

"We have tried everywhere in the district for land on which to start a new cemetery, but no one will sell," explained a councilman.

Southerners Threaten Bolt Of Demo Party

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spokesman for a group of House Southerners brought into the open Thursday a threat of secession from the Democratic party. This could give Republicans control of the next Congress without winning the election.

The outward reaction of some Democratic leaders was one of amusement rather than concern about the threat voiced by Rep. Jamie L. Whitten (D-Miss).

"I thought he was kidding," said House Democratic Leader John W. McCormack of Massachusetts. Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) declined comment.

Whitten tossed out the ultimatum during debate on a civil rights bill. He did so after accusing the present Democratic and Republican leadership of running roughshod over the South for political purposes.

The Mississippian told the House 26 Southern members are pledged to take whatever steps they feel necessary "not merely to prevent another Reconstruction era in the South but to save the nation from destruction."

The total pledged climbed to 32 following his speech, Whitten told newsmen, and they plan to hold a strategy meeting here on Nov. 11 —three days after the national election. He declined to identify the 32.

Whitten cited the House rules stipulating that a majority of the membership can change speakers anytime it wants.

If the Republican - Democratic division in the next House is as close as expected, he said, a group of Southern Democrats would hold the balance of power on election of officers. The House now is divided 280 Democrats, 152 Republicans and 5 vacancies.

Dublin's Irish Celebrate With Sly Drinking On Side

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The bar was as dark as the inside of a hearse-driver's hat.

The man at the bar was O'Hara, and the heart of O'Hara was weighed down with grief.

For every draught of stout he lowered was a felony, and a lookout had just reported that a civic guard was on the street.

"Trapped," sighed O'Hara, "condemned to cower here, wan and woeful, wary and woebegone, the drink turning to gall by dint of the fear that is on us."

For it is a fact that on St. Patrick's Day, Dublin is supposed to be as dry as a bone, and the only place where one may foregather to raise a glass to Ireland's patron saint is at the dog show at Ballsbridge Show Grounds.

The 1961 celebration may be different, for a new liquor law is before Parliament.

A crowd close on 150,000 lined O'Connell Street 10 deep and watched as fine a parade as the old city has seen. Gay motor floats were interpersed with gaelic bands blowing their heads off.

Prime Minister Sean Lemass, with other officials watched the procession from the post office, and got off his annual St. Patrick's Day message to the millions of Irish in the United States.

'Labor Senator' Tag Accepted By Humphrey

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn) said Thursday he accepts the tag of "labor senator" because he agrees with labor union goals.

Humphrey told an AFL-CIO group organized labor operates as a "people's lobby." He said for that reason he is glad to be counted as advocating the same principles.

Labor's demand for an increase in the $1-an-hour federal minimum wage, Humphrey said, won't help most union members already receiving more than that. But he said it will help millions of nonunion workers earning less.

"The $1.25 minimum wage will do more for the economy," he said, "than all the administration fiscal programs put together."

Two other candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination—Sens. Stuart Symington (D-Mo) and Wayne Morse (D-Ore)—also received ovations from the 3,000 delegates to the sixth annual legislative conference of the AFL-CIO Building Trades Department.

Richard J. Gray, building trades president, reported that conference delegates buttonholing congressmen for labor - favored measures have been told no labor legislation will pass this year. Gray said he thought this was due to fears of political opposition from business interests.

The peak strength of the United States Army in World War II was 8,291, 336 on May 31, 1945.

San Pedro Pier Swept By Fire

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UPI)—A spectacular waterfront fire apparently ignited by a spark from a welder's torch swept through a multi-million dollar Matson pier Thursday, damaging two berths and destroying a loaded lumber barge.

Authorities made a preliminary estimate of damage as $1,500,000 to the new pier, or wharf, area and another $500,000 to existing facilities. Also still in danger late Thursday night was a $350,000 gantry crane on the pier still under construction.

Flames were still licking under the pier Thursday night. An estimated 225 city firemen, with 45 units, sought to prevent spreading of the blaze.

A 1500-foot segment of the new Matson pier—valued at 11 million dollars—was consumed by the fast-moving flames, which sent clouds of black smoke climbing thousands of feet over the entire harbor area.

Car Insurance Spot Check Set By MVD

BALTIMORE (AP) — Motorists who falsely said they had at least minimum insurance when they applied for car license tags are coming under scrutiny of the Motor Vehicles Department.

Commissioner John R. Jewell announced Thursday that a spot check will be made.

Letters will be sent to some car owners asking the name of the insurance company and the number of the policy. When MVD offices don't get a reply, they'll move promptly to speed up the investigation, said Jewell.

U.N. Conference To End Old Sea Tradition Opens

GENEVA (AP)—Delegates from 86 nations opened a conference Thursday to bury one of the oldest traditions of the sea—the 3-mile limit of territorial waters.

Even Britain, one of the last holdouts, has abandoned hope of saving the once generally recognized rule that a nation's sovereignty extends only 3 miles from its shores.

John Hare, British minister of agriculture and fisheries, told newsmen as the second U.N. conference on the law of the sea formally opened that the 3-mile limit is out of date.

"Britain will abide by whatever the majority of the conference decides on the extent of territorial waters and how far beyond these limits coastal nations should have exclusive fishing rights," he said.

The conference opened amid a truce in the "fishing war" between Britain and Iceland. Britain still demands the right for her long-range trawlers to operate in their traditional fishing grounds not less than 6 miles from Iceland. Iceland still insists on her 1958 limit of 12 miles.

The 3-mile limit, set in the time of sailing vessels and cast-iron cannonballs became obsolete with the development of modern navies and of powerful trawlers able to exploit fishing grounds off distant coasts.

San Pedro Pier Swept By Fire

SAN PEDRO, Calif. (UPI)—A spectacular waterfront fire apparently ignited by a spark from a welder's torch swept through a multi-million dollar Matson pier Thursday, damaging two berths and destroying a loaded lumber barge.

Authorities made a preliminary estimate of damage as $1,500,000 to the new pier, or wharf, area and another $500,000 to existing facilities. Also still in danger late Thursday night was a $350,000 gantry crane on the pier still under construction.

Flames were still licking under the pier Thursday night. An estimated 225 city firemen, with 45 units, sought to prevent spreading of the blaze.

A 1500-foot segment of the new Matson pier—valued at 11 million dollars—was consumed by the fast-moving flames, which sent clouds of black smoke climbing thousands of feet over the entire harbor area.

Car Insurance Spot Check Set By MVD

BALTIMORE (AP) — Motorists who falsely said they had at least minimum insurance when they applied for car license tags are coming under scrutiny of the Motor Vehicles Department.

Commissioner John R. Jewell announced Thursday that a spot check will be made.

Letters will be sent to some car owners asking the name of the insurance company and the number of the policy. When MVD offices don't get a reply, they'll move promptly to speed up the investigation, said Jewell.

Grand Jury Indicts Silva In Slaying Of His Wife

SALISBURY (AP) — A 39-year-old Californian was indicted by the Wicomico County grand jury Thursday on a first-degree murder charge in the slaying of his wife.

Walter William Silva, a laborer from Hayward, Calif., will be arraigned before Circuit Judge Rex A. Taylor at Friday morning on the charge of slaying Katherine Joyce Silva, 23.

Under normal court procedure, Silva would be tried next week.

Silva surrendered to police early Feb. 14 shortly after his wife was strangled in a motel near Salisbury where Silva had been staying. Police said he arrived from Hayward a few hours before the slaying.

Dr. Earl L. Royer, county medical examiner, said Mrs. Silva had been beaten on the head, but apparently died from strangulation.

The young woman had lived in Salisbury with her mother and stepfather, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Kerr, and the Silva's 2-year-old daughter, Kristine.

Mrs. Kerr told newsmen after the slaying that her daughter returned to Salisbury from California last August with her baby. Mrs. Kerr said Silva called from the motel on the night of the murder, and that Mrs. Silva agreed to meet her husband later that night.

Mrs. Silva was reared in Baltimore while her stepfather was an Army man stationed at Ft. Meade. She married Silva in 1956.

Accused Killer Will Be Quizzed In Bank Holdups

BALTIMORE (AP) — A man scheduled to go on trial April 25 in Hackensack, N.J. for murder is being questioned about a series of bank robberies in the Baltimore area and other Atlantic seaboard cities, the FBI said Thursday.

James J. Kelly, special agent in charge of the Baltimore FBI, said Robert Urbano, 37, is a suspect in the bank holdups staged by the "leaping bandit."

Urbano has been charged with the fatal shooting of Leo Zaretsky, manager of a Paramus, N.J. department store, during a holdup attempt. Urbano was knocked unconscious by a store employe and captured.

The FBI declined to list the Baltimore bank robberies they are questioning Urbano about, but Baltimore City police said they wanted to talk with him about three holdups which netted about $29,500.

They include the First National Bank on Pulaski highway, March 28, 1958; Fidelity-Baltimore National Bank branch on Erdman avenue Jan. 91 1956, and another Fidelity-Baltimore branch on North Charles street Jan. 24, 1957.

German Woman Will Fly To Bedside Of Dying Son

BALTIMORE (AP) — Mrs. Hildy Sowart's first visit to the United States won't be pleasant. Her son is dying in a Baltimore hospital.

Mrs. Sowart, 56, of Duisburg, Germany, is ready to fly to her son's bedside as soon as State Department officials in Washington grant her an emergency visa.

The son, Ralf Sowart, is in the U.S. Health Department Hospital here with leukemia.

The 30-year-old draftsman contracted the fatal disease while serving with the Army in Korea in the mid-50s. He has been bedridden since November but does not know how serious his condition is.

"Doctors said Ralf can go anytime," Sowart's wife, Ursula, said Thursday. "He is in a semi-coma and still expects to get well."

Until he was stricken last November, Sowart was apparently healthy. The only previous indication of his illness came with a slight attack about a year ago.

When it was learned how serious his illness was, friends collected about $600 to fly Sowart's mother here.

HOPE To Equip And Staff Floating Medical School, Send It To Southeast Asia

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy Wednesday officially turned an old hospital ship over to a private group which will equip it, staff it and send it to Southeast Asia.

The ship is the USS Consolation and the private organization is called HOPE. That stands for Health, Opportunity for People Everywhere, and the idea is that the ship, staffed by physicians, dentists and nurses, will be able to spread the latest in U.S. medical techniques.

L. F. McCollum, a Texas oilman, is chairman of the board, or head HOPEful.

But when this reporter dropped by Wednesday he looked as embarrassed as a renowned tough guy caught red-handed doing a kindly act.

"I'm not a do-gooder professionally," McCollum said. "But my business"—he's president of Continental Oil Co.—"extends over a lot of the world.

"I'm strong for this people-to-people business. I think you get more miles per dollar spend than you do in a government-to-government project, and you don't have to worry so much that you might hurt somebody's feelings either."

So McCollum has been putting the bite on some of his oil friends, and other businesses, unions and plain ordinary people are chipping in to meet the 3½-million-dollar budget needed to run the ship for a year.

Dr. William B. Walsh, a Washington internist, is president of HOPE. He hopes to have the ship —a World War II job that now is berthed in San Francisco — ready to sail in late August or early September. First stop: Indonesia.

In order to make the trip more attractive, 34 doctors will be rotated so that they will serve only four months each.

McCollum especially likes the idea that this is primarily a teaching project, helping native doctors to help themselves.

"Most of the professional help will be paid," McCollum said. "You can't expect a man to give up his practice, go away and work at something like this while his friends stay home and make money.

"And yet—."

He paused thoughtfully.

"One doctor has been after me to let him and his wife—she's also a doctor—go for the full year, with no pay."

20 FLED TO SAFETY — Smoke billows high into the air yesterday as fire destroys a three-story business and apartment building in Braddock, Pa., 10 miles east of Pittsburgh. Twenty residents of eight apartments on second and third floors escaped injury. The first floor was occupied by electronics and television firms. Firemen estimated the loss at $350,000. Cause of fire was not determined. (AP Photofax)

FBI Reports Sharp Increase In Violent Crimes

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The FBI reported Wednesday that crimes of violence showed an "alarming" increase last year and arrests of juveniles "continued their upward climb."

A preliminary report said that, taken as a whole, major crimes were up only 1 per cent over 1958. Robberies and burglaries declined.

But violent crimes against individuals jumped by 7 per cent. In this category, aggravated assaults were up 7 per cent, murders 5 per cent and rapes 4 per cent.

Murders rose by 21 per cent in cities of between 500,000 and 700,000 population.

In an article written for United Press International, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said the statistics "point up the growing seriousness" of crimes of violence throughout the nation.

He urged "all elements of society" to help law enforcement officials combat such crimes. To ignore them, he said, "can only lead to disaster."

The FBI crime report is based on statistics from police departments in all cities of more than 25,000 population. It will publish more complete data later this year.

The FBI report showed that New York City led the nation in homicides, with 390, followed by Chicago with 330, Los Angeles 134, Philadelphia 119, and Houston, Tex., 115.

Rape: Los Angeles, Calif., 1,057; New York City 790; Philadelphia 642; Chicago 597, and Detroit 278.

Robbery: Chicago 8,073; New York 6,200; Los Angeles 4,371; Detroit 3,196, St. Louis 2,096.

Rugged Raft Sailor Plans 2-Year Voyage

By ED O'CONNOR

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. — (UPI) — A rugged [illegible] sailor from the little town of Tremonton, Utah, is preparing for an adventure to pale even those of the late Richard Hallburton.

For 44-year-old De Vere Baker, his next voyage aboard a raft will be the climax to an amazing series of thrilling sea experiences. For years now he has longed to drift from the Indian Ocean to the China Sea and across the Pacific to Guatemala.

The trip, including time spent in various parts along the way, will take two years. Baker estimates. He is preparing the Raft Lehi V for the long voyage, on which he will be accompanied by a group of scientists.

"We plan to launch the ship here in June," Baker said. "Then we'll spend about six months on a shakedown cruise off the coast. After that the raft will be put on a freighter and shipped to Masqat in Oman.

"From Masqat — in a year or 18 months — we'll drift to Bombay, India, for reprovisioning," Baker said. "From Bombay we'll go to Colombo, Ceylon, and reprovision again. Then from Colombo we'll head for Sumatra and thence to Malaya, the Philippines, Japan, Seattle, Wash., and from Seattle to Guatemala."

Baker's greatest achievement heretofore came in September, 1958 when he sailed the Lehi IV from here to Hawaii.

Most of his shipmates already have signed in: Don McFarland, Mexico City; Don Johnson, Philippine Islands; Don White, Redondo Beach, and Ed Kekuala, Provost, Utah, are among those scheduled to make the voyage. All are specialists in such fields as bacteriology an sociology.

Still to join are an archaeologist from India and an anthropologist from Japan, as well as several others.

Russia has turned down an offer by Baker to have one of its scientists go along on the trip. The Russians told Baker they were busy working on major projects and were "not interested in small projects."

Four doctors already have announced they are interested in joining the great adventure. Three of the doctors definitely are committed but the fourth, Dr. Donald Collins of Hollywood, is not sure whether he will be able to spare the time or not.

The three signed on are John Clark, Honolulu; Joseph Smith, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Jerry Greenhut, Redondo Beach. They each will spend three months aboard the boat.

The raft itself is under construction by Baker. Costing more than $30,000, it is a little larger than the Lehi IV, because of the space requirements of the additional scientists and their equipment.

The raft is 40-feet long, 25-feet wide and has a diesel lighting system so the scientists will be able to use electronic microscopes to study finds in their respective fields.

"We'll depend mainly on drifting. Ancient records claim it took 344 days to make the trip," said Baker. "The raft has two small outboard motors with enough power to push her out of the way of larger ships at night."

He said the raft also is equipped with radar, direction finders, LORAN (a navigation aid) and radios.

"We'll probably hit some typhoons, but shipbuilding is my field, so the ship will be able to take a lot of punishment. The Lehi IV went through a rough storm off the coast of Mexico without trouble."

Promising Oil Field Discovered In Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—A new, "very promising" oil field has been discovered on the Kenai Peninsula southwest of here, oil company officials reported Wednesday.

The discovery well produced 1,879 barrels daily through a half-inch choke, the announcement, made jointly by Standard of California and Richfield Oil Corporation said.

The well, Soldatna Wildcat No. 1, was drilled on the 72,000 acre drilling unit situated south of the Swanson River unit. The Swanson River site, also on the Kenai Peninsula, is the only commercial oil field in the state, with six wells producing.

Woman To Woman

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Lydia Heller is a calculating woman.

She's so good at calculating that she teaches engineer, company executives, university researchers and scientists how to calculate her way—using electronic computers.

Mrs. Heller, a blonde egg-head, has worked in electronic computer programming and operating for five years. She recently was named director of the Royal McBee Corp. computer programming school in New York.

The graduate mathematician, 30, teaches her august students how to program computers. That is—how to feed information into the machine, give it commands and thereby solve problems that ordinarily would take many more hours and many persons to work out.

"You might say," Mrs. Heller said, "that I am a teacher of mechanical languages."

The computer Mrs. Heller currently works with can accept — and "remember" — more than 4,096 bits of information.

The programmer who feeds information into the machine decides about the specific language the machine will speak. Some engineers program the computer to help with problems connected with the building of bridges or highway design.

The computers are being used more and more to help solve problems in banking and payroll departments. They also are used for inventorying, Mrs. Heller said.

"One engineering firm using the computer estimates that it can do the calculating and problem solving once done by 30 engineers," she said.

"But the machine doesn't replace people," Mrs. Heller said. "It frees them for other work."

The field in which Mrs. Heller is employed is one in which few women are prominent.

"But there is an excellent future for any woman willing to enter this field," she said. During the next ten years, she estimated, 45,000 programmers will be needed.

Recent pictures of the sun have disclosed swirling gas storms 200 to 600 miles across.

Rugged Raft Sailor Plans 2-Year Voyage

By ED O'CONNOR

REDONDO BEACH, Calif. — (UPI) — A rugged ra... sailor from the little town of Tremonton, Utah, is preparing for an adventure to pale even those of th late Richard Hallburton.

For 44-year-old De Vere Baker, his next voyage aboard a raft will be the climax to an amazing series of thrilling sea experiences. For years now he has longed to drift from the Indian Ocean to the China Sea and across the Pacific to Guatemala.

The trip, including time spent in various parts along the way, will take two years. Baker estimates. He is preparing the Raft Lehi V for the long voyage, on which he will be accompanied by a group of scientists.

"We plan to launch the ship here in June," Baker said. "Then we'll spend about six months on a shakedown cruise off the coast. After that the raft will be put on a freighter and shipped to Masqat in Oman.

"From Masqat — in a year or 18 months — we'll drift to Bombay, India, for reprovisioning," Baker said. "From Bombay we'll go to Colombo, Ceylon, and reprovision again. Then from Colombo we'll head for Sumatra and thence to Malaya, the Philippines, Japan, Seattle, Wash., and from Seattle to Guatemala."

Baker's greatest achievement heretofore came in September, 1958 when he sailed the Lehi IV from here to Hawaii.

Most of his shipmates already have signed in: Don McFarland, Mexico City; Don Johnson, Philippine Islands; Don White, Redondo Beach, and Ed Kekuala. Provost, Utah, are among those scheduled to make the voyage. All are specialists in such fields as bacteriology an sociology.

Still to join are an archaeologist from India and an anthropologist from Japan, as well as several others.

Russia has turned down an offer by Baker to have one of its scientists go along on the trip. The Russians told Baker they were busy working on major projects and were "not interested in small projects."

Four doctors already have announced they are interested in joining the great adventure. Three of the doctors definitely are committed but the fourth, Dr. Donald Collins of Hollywood, is not sure whether he will be able to spare the time or not.

The three signed on are John Clark, Honolulu; Joseph Smith, Salt Lake City, Utah, and Jerry Greenhut, Redondo Beach. They each will spend three months aboard the boat.

The raft itself is under construction by Baker. Costing more than $30,000, it is a little larger than the Lehi IV, because of the space requirements of the additional scientists and their equipment.

The raft is 40-feet long, 25-feet wide and has a diesel lighting system so the scientists will be able to use electronic microscopes to study finds in their respective fields.

"We'll depend mainly on drifting. Ancient records claim it took 344 days to make the trip," said Baker. "The raft has two small outboard motors with enough power to push her out of the way of larger ships at night."

"We'll probably hit some typhoons, but shipbuilding is my field, so the ship will be able to take a lot of punishment. The Lehi IV went through a rough storm off the coast of Mexico without trouble."

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Some Wall Street experts feel that Washington won't let the stock market experience too bad a time in this presidential election year.

They can depend on history, for one thing. Seldom in a presidential election year has the market been poor.

"With more than 13 million people—one out of every eight adults—now owning corporate stock, a real bear market would have very substantial business and political repercussions," says the analyst of Prentice-Hall, Inc., which publishes in the business and financial field.

"So, despite official pronouncements that all is well, it's unlikely that the administration will sit on its hands and 'let nature take its course' in Wall Street."

Prentice-Hall predicts modest but definite moves by the administration to ease money, spur government public works, encourage more road and home building and step up defense outlays.

Walter K. Gutman, analyst for Shields & Co., recalls that on March 4 he said: "This market has to be rescued by Washington. I think it will be, but when and where? My guess would be not until it is under 600 on the Dow Jones industrial stock average."

That level was reached last week.

Now Gutman says, "The rescue seems to have been made Monday when 21 senators petitioned the Federal Reserve Board to change its policy."

These senators asked action to ease the tight money situation.

New Mexico first was explored in 1540, colonized by the Spanish in 1588, became an American territory in 1846, and a state of the Union in 1912.

Weather Conditions Put B&O In Red

BALTIMORE (AP) — High operating expenses due to unusual weather conditions resulted in a loss of about $1,670,000 for February, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said Wednesday.

Severe snow storms over the system were the principal factor, the B&O said.

President Howard E. Simpson said the railroad operated at a loss last month for the first time since January 1959, when serious floods and storms had a similar effect on operating expenses.

The railroad earned a net income of $790,000 in February, 1959.

The poet Chaucer called the daisy "ee of the daie." In Ben Johnson's time, the flower was called "Day's Eye," and later became known as "daisy," according to the National Geographic Society.

Autos Seized By T-Men Save Taxpayers Money

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury agents not only lock up moonshiners, narcotic peddlers, counterfeiters and smugglers, they also ride around in the gangsters' cars.

So do high Washington officials, sometimes, including Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Internal Revenue Commissioner Dana Latham.

Anderson occasionally rides in a pale green 1959 luxury-class car when his long black, rented limousine is being used by an aide or to accommodate a visitor.

The glossy green car is owned by the Treasury. T-men seized it when it was used to deliver a sack of drugs to an undercover narcotics agent. Fitted on its rear shelf now is a mobile telephone, standard equipment for a cabinet member's vehicle.

Parked outside Latham's office is an expensive, black sedan which once belonged to a York County, Va., moonshiner. Agents raiding a farmhouse distillery found several hundred pounds of sugar in the car's back seat.

Anderson punctures the staid tradition of deep black cars for cabinet members in the interest of economy. The green car is one of five owned by the Treasury and used for daily business around town by department officials. All the cars were seized by T-men in raids or arrests and came to the Treasury free.

One Treasury arm, the Internal Revenue Service, pulled in 2,301 cars and 699 trucks last year. Some were returned to owners or finance companies. "A car really stands trial like an individual," an IRS official commented. "Sometimes these moonshiners make a 'straw' sale of the car so someone else can claim ownership and say that he didn't know what the car was being used for by the guys who 'borrowed' it. Then we have to prove it was really a phoney sale and the guy we caught really owns it."

IRS seizures run so high that the service buys virtually no cars. Nor does the Narcotics Bureau. These two Treasury arms make excess vehicles available to the department itself and its other law enforcement branches.

Under the contraband transportation act of 1939, the Treasury can keep vehicles used in the delivery of illegal goods, such as narcotics, non-tax-paid whisky or counterfeit money. But if agents fail to prove their case against the car or if the owner is innocent, the Treasury must return the car. If there is a substantial lien on a vehicle it goes to the lienholder.

A vehicle need not actually have carried contraband to be confiscated. Agents can keep it if a dope trafficker used it to drive a buyer to the place where the drugs were delivered, or, if it was only a lead car in front of another car which actually contained the narcotics.

The Narcotics Bureau captures 350 to 400 cars a year and keeps about half of them. The Secret Service and the Customs Bureau, both Treasury agencies, each seizes and keeps 12 or 15 vehicles a year.

FBI law enforcement activities do not include seizing vehicles as a rule. Though the General Services Administration, the FBI gets a few cars seized by Treasury agents. It buys most of its autos in fleet lots.

The Treasury turns over to GSA cars in excess of its needs. GSA offers them to other government agencies. But because of style, age or worn out condition many vehicles are of no use to any government agency and are sold.

To avoid high maintenance and repair costs, the government tries to avoid older cars. Cash purchase of new ones is limited by Congress, which says how many an agency may buy each year and the top price it may pay.

The Orion stars are said to be the most massive and hottest.

Wall Street Views

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Some Wall Street experts feel that Washington won't let the stock market experience too bad a time in this presidential election year.

They can depend on history, for one thing. Seldom in a presidential election year has the market been poor.

"With more than 13 million people—one out of every eight adults—now owning corporate stock, a real bear market would have very substantial business and political repercussions," says the analyst of Prentice-Hall, Inc., which publishes in the business and financial field.

"So, despite official pronouncements that all is well, it's unlikely that the administration will sit on its hands and 'let nature take its course' in Wall Street."

Prentice-Hall predicts modest but definite moves by the administration to ease money, spur government public works, encourage more road and home building and step up defense outlays.

Walter K. Gutman, analyst for Shields & Co., recalls that on March 4 he said: "This market has to be rescued by Washington. I think it will be, but when and where? My guess would be not until it is under 600 on the Dow Jones industrial stock average."

That level was reached last week.

Now Gutman says, "The rescue seems to have been made Monday when 21 senators petitioned the Federal Reserve Board to change its policy."

These senators asked action to ease the tight money situation.

New Mexico first was explored in 1540, colonized by the Spanish in 1588, became an American territory in 1846, and a state of the Union in 1912.

Weather Conditions Put B&O In Red

BALTIMORE (AP) — High operating expenses due to unusual weather conditions resulted in a loss of about $1,670,000 for February, the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said Wednesday.

Severe snow storms over the system were the principal factor, the B&O said.

President Howard E. Simpson said the railroad operated at a loss last month for the first time since January 1959, when serious floods and storms had a similar effect on operating expenses.

The railroad earned a net income of $790,000 in February, 1959.

The poet Chaucer called the daisy "ee of the daie." In Ben Johnson's time, the flower was called "Day's Eye," and later became known as "daisy," according to the National Geographic Society.

Autos Seized By T-Men Save Taxpayers Money

By EDWARD COWAN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury agents not only lock up moonshiners, narcotic peddlers, counterfeiters and smugglers, they also ride around in the gangsters' cars.

So do high Washington officials, sometimes, including Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson and Internal Revenue Commissioner Dana Latham.

Anderson occasionally rides in a pale green 1959 luxury-class car when his long black, rented limousine is being used by an aide or to accommodate a visitor.

The glossy green car is owned by the Treasury. T-men seized it when it was used to deliver a sack of drugs to an undercover narcotics agent. Fitted on its rear shelf now is a mobile telephone, standard equipment for a cabinet member's vehicle.

Parked outside Latham's office is an expensive, black sedan which once belonged to a York County, Va., moonshiner. Agents raiding a farmhouse distillery found several hundred pounds of sugar in the car's back seat.

Anderson punctures the staid tradition of deep black cars for cabinet members in the interest of economy. The green car is one of five owned by the Treasury and used for daily business around town by department officials. All the cars were seized by T-men in raids or arrests and came to the Treasury free.

One Treasury arm, the Internal Revenue Service, pulled in 2,301 cars and 699 trucks last year. Some were returned to owners or finance companies. "A car really stands trial like an individual," an IRS official commented. "Sometimes these moonshiners make a 'straw' sale of the car so someone else can claim ownership and say that he didn't know what the car was being used for by the guys who 'borrowed' it. Then we have to prove it was really a phoney sale and the guy we caught really owns it."

IRS seizures run so high that the service buys virtually no cars. Nor does the Narcotics Bureau. These two Treasury arms make excess vehicles available to the department itself and its other law enforcement branches.

Under the contraband transportation act of 1939, the Treasury can keep vehicles used in the delivery of illegal goods, such as narcotics, non-tax-paid whisky or counterfeit money. But if agents fail to prove their case against the car or if the owner is innocent, the Treasury must return the car. If there is a substantial lien on a vehicle it goes to the lienholder.

A vehicle need not actually have carried contraband to be confiscated. Agents can keep it if a dope trafficker used it to drive a buyer to the place where the drugs were delivered, or, if it was only a lead car in front of another car which actually contained the narcotics.

The Narcotics Bureau captures 350 to 400 cars a year and keeps about half of them. The Secret Service and the Customs Bureau, both Treasury agencies, each seizes and keeps 12 or 15 vehicles a year.

FBI law enforcement activities do not include seizing vehicles as a rule. Though the General Services Administration, the FBI gets a few cars seized by Treasury agents. It buys most of its autos in fleet lots.

The Treasury turns over to GSA cars in excess of its needs. GSA offers them to other government agencies. But because of style, age or worn out condition many vehicles are of no use to any government agency and are sold.

To avoid high maintenance and repair costs, the government tries to avoid older cars. Cash purchase of new ones is limited by Congress, which says how many an agency may buy each year and the top price it may pay.

The Orion stars are said to be the most massive and hottest.

Things Going Just Fine In West Germany, Or So It Seems To Ace Court Bailiff

BONN (UPI) — Court bailiffs get an unusual view of the state of a nation, and to hear them tell it, things are going just fine in West Germany.

"Ten years ago," says Hermann Ludwig of Hanover, "we usually attached furniture, carpets and radios.

"Today, we deal mainly with vacuum cleaners, television sets, hi-fi record players and washing machines."

"There is hardly a household in Hanover that doesn't have an electric toaster," Ludwig added thoughtfully.

Ludwig is one of the top-ranking bailiffs in Hanover, and chairman of the Lower Saxony Association of Bailiffs.

Ludwig discussed the problems he and others of the trade run into carrying out attachments ordered by courts for non-payment and other causes.

"Ours is a noble profession," said Ludwig. "Of course, not everyone understands that. Some of the people knock out a few of our teeth.

"A bailiff must have a strong personality, be honest, free of debts and always correct towards the women. That's not always easy."

Going into a more philosophic mood, Ludwig added, "We are the doctors of the economy. Bailiffs ought to have courses in economics, so they can answer some of the questions put to them. Once I stilled a debtor, as I attached a piece of his property, by saying to him, 'Money is the yield of fruitful labor. That's why you'll never have any.'"

Ludwig said a chicken farmer once hit him right in the face when he came to call.

But, said Ludwig, his own best story grew out of an effort to attach a hi-fi record player in Hanover for failure of the purchaser to pay the last 80 marks he owed on it.

"When I arrived, there were two record players in the living room," Ludwig recalled. "The man said, 'I knew you were coming to get the first record-player, so I ran out and paid 20 marks down on another one."

Heart And Kidney Banks May Come In Next Decade

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Soon, the man's sick heart will halt.

So surgeons take it out, and replace it with the healthy heart of a young man killed by an automobile.

A woman dying of blood poisoning receives a healthy kidney from a kidney bank. A boy gets a new hand or leg for the one he lost.

Such miracles may come in 5 to 10 years, by the most optimistic estimates. Longer, in the view of other experts working to foil natures' law forbidding your keeping living skin, glands or organs from another person.

The dream foresees a steady supply or even banks of spare-part human organs taken from accident victims, or persons whose fatal diseases did not impair some organs needed by other persons.

Grafts of bone, blood vessels, and blood transfusions, of course, are possible today.

But the bones and blood vessels apparently serve only as scaffolds for new growth of your own bone or artery tissue. You soon replace all the borrowed blood cells.

But you will deliberately, unwillingly destroy the skin, kidney or heart borrowed from someone else, unless it is your identical twin.

You apparently create antibodies against some substance—called an antigen—in the foreign tissue.

This is the same natural reaction through which, fortunately, you create antibodies to destroy invading foreign germs.

Some researchers seek means of removing the offending antigen from the borrowed tissue before it is transplanted.

Most are seeking means of preventing your body from starting up the destructive reaction.

Some few successes are raising hopes this can be done.

Just a year ago, a young man poisoned by his diseased kidneys had perhaps only one more week to live.

Today he's back in college, living on a healthy kidney borrowed from his brother, a twin but not an identical twin. His own sick kidneys were removed.

The borrowed kidney "took" after a team of physicians, surgeons and scientists at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston had first bathed the young man in a near-lethal dose of X-rays over his whole body.

The plan: knock out temporarily his own system which produces antibodies. When his system recovered, perhaps it wouldn't recognize the foreign kidney tissue.

It has worked at least temporarily for this or other reasons.

Great doses of X-rays, though, can hold hazards. Some researchers seek chemical methods of altering the body's immune reaction.

Surgeons are developing the technical skills to transplant organs, and hook them up to blood vessels or even nerves.

The Soviet Union's Dr. Vladimir Demikhov has grafted a puppy's head onto another neck, and put another heart beating inside the same dog.

American and other researchers have transplanted hearts, lungs, kidneys, livers, into other animals, and the transplants survived for short times.

Such experiments may yield clues to hurdling nature's transplant barrier. Other researchers are seeking means of preserving living organs in special banks, ready for use.

In Ireland you can rent a horse-drawn, gypsy-type wagon to wander through country lanes away from the highways for $37.80 a week. The wagons, equipped with stove and refrigerator, have berths to sleep four.

Baldness is slow and gradual, even in the most common forms. The source of the most common causes are mistreatment and neglect.

He will determine the type of individual treatment required, explain to you what results you can expect, how long you will have to use Erickson treatment, and how much the cost will be, which is usually less than imitators.

Free Examination

There is absolutely no charge or obligation for your free hair and scalp examination. The only obligation is to yourself, to save your hair and gain more coverage if your "hair factory" is still producing even

Just a year ago, a young man poisoned by his diseased kidneys had perhaps only one more week to live.

Today he's back in college, living on a healthy kidney borrowed from his brother, a twin but not an identical twin. His own sick kidneys were removed.

The borrowed kidney "took" after a team of physicians, surgeons and scientists at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital in Boston had first bathed the young man in a near-lethal dose of X-rays over his whole body.

The plan: knock out temporarily his own system which produces antibodies. When his system recovered, perhaps it wouldn't recognize the foreign kidney tissue.

It has worked at least temporarily for this or other reasons.

Great doses of X-rays, though, can hold hazards. Some researchers seek chemical methods of altering the body's immune reaction.

Surgeons are developing the technical skills to transplant organs, and hook them up to blood vessels or even nerves.

The Soviet Union's Dr. Vladimir Demikhov has grafted a puppy's head onto another neck, and put another heart beating inside the same dog.

American and other researchers have transplanted hearts, lungs, kidneys, livers, into other animals, and the transplants survived for short times.

Such experiments may yield clues to hurdling nature's transplant barrier. Other researchers are seeking means of preserving living organs in special banks, ready for use.

In Ireland you can rent a horse-drawn, gypsy-type wagon to wander through country lanes away from the highways for $37.80 a week. The wagons, equipped with stove and refrigerator, have berths to sleep four.

Creamed Eggs

¼ cup butter or margarine
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon ground pepper
⅛ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon grated onion
2 cups milk
6 hard-coked eggs, sliced or chopped

Add eggs and parsley; heat thoroughly. If desired, add more seasoning. Serve hot on toast or waffles, in noodle nests or over corn bread. For brunch serve over sliced tomatoes or cooked asparagus on toast. Makes 4 servings.

Variations:

Add 1 cup cooked vegetables, diced cooked meat or shredded dried beef to cream sauce just before adding eggs.

Real Hush Puppies

Whether or not you live in the South, here's a recipe for Hush Puppies that will have your family and friends drooling! And what a conversation piece for your next party, either as a before-meal snack or at the table. They are crispy and tangy with a flavor your guests will rave about.

2 cups corn meal
1 teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon salt
6 tablespoons chopped onion
2 tablespoons flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
1 egg
2 cups buttermilk

Mix all dry ingredients. Add chopped onion, then milk and egg beaten together. Drop by small spoonfuls into boiling deep fat. They will float when done. Drain on brown paper.

The cooking time for Hush Puppies is extremely short. Be careful they don't burn. When they are a nice brown (about one quick turning) they are ready.

And if you want to impress your guests with your knowledge of this famous Southern recipe . . . here's the story:

The unusual name originated around the campfire when these tasty bits were tossed to the hounds to keep them quiet!

We'll bet you won't have any left to toss at your house!

Add Interest To Your Lenten Meals

It can easily be said that the Lenten period is very demanding of even the most ingenious cook. Favorite recipes for this season are tempting at first but constant repetition over a short period can make even perennial favorites lose their appeal. Here are some unusual ways to make those trusty Lenten staples, tuna fish and salmon. And the cheese and vegetable dishes are bound to please your family as well. A new product, redi-flavored bread crumbs, helps to give eac of these dishes a delightfully different taste.

Tuna Fish Celauro

(Serves 4 to 6)

1 tblsp. butter
1 tblsp. flour
1 c. light cream or top milk
1 3 oz. can evaporated milk undiluted
Pinch nutmeg
1 7 oz. can chunk style tuna fish
8 oz. green noodles
½ c. commercial sour cream
½ tsp. coarsely ground black pepper
½ c. 4-C's flavored bread crumbs
1 tsp. ground lemon peel (or grated lemon rind)
½ pimento cut in strips

Melt butter over low flame; add flour gradually. Slowly stir in light cream or top milk, evaporated milk and nutmeg. Add tuna fish with all its oil, stirring gently to avoid breaking up chunks of tuna fish too much.

Cook noodles in boiling water for about nine minutes. Drain well. Dress with sour cream and ground pepper and arrange in well buttered casserole. Fill center with creamed tuna fish. Pour 4-C's flavored bread crumbs over all and sprinkle noodles with grated lemon peel. Garnish tuna with pimento strips. Bake in 375° oven for 15 minutes until top is nicely browned.

Scalloped Vegetable Casserole

(Serves 4)

2 medium-size potatoes
2 small (4") zucchini
1 medium size (8 oz.) yellow squash
1 tblsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. freshly ground pepper
1 c. milk or chicken broth
½ c. 4-C's flavored bread crumbs

In a well buttered casserole or baking dish alternate layers of thinly sliced potatoes, zucchini and yellow squash. Sprinkle top with flour, salt and pepper, and only ¼ cup of 4-C's flavored bread crumbs. Pour milk or chicken broth over all and sprinkle top with remaining ¼ cup of redi-flavored bread crumbs. Bake in 400° oven for 20 to 30 minutes until potatoes are done.

Suggestion: Use slices of sweet red pepper or pimento as top layer for pretty color accent.

Salmon Fricassee

(Serves 6)

2 tblsp. butter
2 tblsp. flour
2 c. liquid (Liquid from cans of salmon plus water)
2 7 oz. cans red salmon
2 tsp. dry mustard
Ready-to-bake baking powder biscuits
½ c. 4-C's flavored bread crumbs

Over low flame melt butter and add flour gradually, mixing till smooth. Very gradually add liquid (consisting of liquid from salmon and water to equal two cups) to mixture, stirring constantly until very smooth consistency of White sauce is reached (about 8 minutes). Add dry mustard.

Break up salmon in one inch pieces and place in shallow baking dish. Pour sauce over salmon. Brush baking powder biscuits with melted butter and place in ring around baking dish. Sprinkle 4-C's flavored bread crumbs over all including biscuits. Bake in 400° oven for twelve minutes till biscuits are brown.

Spicy Cheese Tart

(Serves 6)

1½ c. 4-C's flavored bread crumbs
4 tblsp. melted butter or margarine

Filling:

1 c. cottage cheese
Juice and grated rind of 1 lemon
1 tblsp. finely minced parsley
2 eggs
¼ c. milk
Pinch of rosemary

Mix one cup of the 4-C's flavored bread crumbs with 3 tblsp. of the melted butter or margarine. (Reserve the remaining crumbs and melted butter for later). Line sides and bottom of 8-inch tart tin (straight edge pan) with crumb and butter mixture and let stand while preparing the filling.

Filling:

To cottage cheese add juice and grated rind of lemon, parsley, and eggs beaten with milk and rosemary. Spoon carefully into pan. Bake at 350° for 40 minutes. Mix remaining crumbs with melted butter and sprinkle over baked cheese tart. Turn off heat and let stand in oven about an hour to cool, for easier cutting.

Serving Suggestions: As a luncheon dish it can be served with a crisp salad or with a hot dish such as asparagus Hollandaise or a Spanish omelet. It can also be served as an accompaniment to meat in place of potato.

As a dessert for a teen-age romp, you might offer this Apple Sauce Ice Cream Fluff: Simply blend softened vanilla ice cream and sweetened canned apple sauce—1 pint of the ice cream to 2 cups of apple sauce is a good proportion. You can count on 6 generous servings. (And what a low-cost dessert!)

Lenten Idea

Looking for ways to vary menus during Lent? Here is a main dish that is both tasty and different. These Shrimp Roll-Ups are tender pancakes that have been rolled and filled with a creamy shrimp sauce. Make the pancakes with your favorite pancake mix using a shaker or glass jar for mixing. Bake them to a golden brown and they are ready to be filled. It's a delightful dish for Lent as well as for the rest of the year!

SHRIMP ROLL-UPS
Makes 8 roll-ups

Shrimp Sauce:
- 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
- ⅓ cup flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1¾ cups milk
- ¼ cup sharp process cheese
- ½ cup drained cooked peas
- 2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
- Two 4½ oz. cans cleaned shrimp, drained

Pancakes:
- 1 cup milk
- 1 egg
- 1 tablespoon liquid or melted shortening
- 1 cup pancake mix

For shrimp sauce, melt butter; blend in flour and salt. Add milk all at once. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add cheese, stirring until completely melted. Add peas and pimiento. Continue cooking, stirring frequently, about 5 minutes. During last minute or 2 of cooking, stir in shrimp.

For pancakes, place milk, egg and shortening in shaker or glass jar. (If melted shortening is used, add after pancake mix.) Add pancake mix and shake vigorously 10 to 15 times or until batter is fairly smooth.

For each pancake, pour about ¼ cup batter onto hot lightly greased griddle. Bake to a golden brown, turning only once. Place small amount of hot shrimp sauce across center of each baked pancake; roll up and serve immediately with additional sauce.

Zesty Baked Eggs

- ⅓ cup salad dressing or mayonnaise
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ⅛ teaspoon ground pepper
- ½teaspoon paprika
- ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ cup milk
- 1 cup (¼ lb.) grated sharp cheese
- 8 eggs

Combine salad dressing or mayonnaise and seasoning. Gradually add milk stirring until smooth. Add cheese and cook over low heat until cheese is melted, about 5 minutes. Pour 2 tablespoons of the sauce into each of 4 individual greased baking dishes. Break 2 eggs into each dish and top with remaining sauce. Place in pan of hot water. Bake in a moderate oven (350°F.) until eggs are desired consistency, 12 to 15 minutes. Make 4 servings.

Oriental Omelet

Here to "orient" the busy homemaker to the land of little luncheon pleasures is an Oriental omelet. For an exotic flavor, add a little tomato juice to beaten eggs seasoned with soy sauce and salt, plus a dash of monosodium glutamate. Cook in a skillet until mixture is partially set. Then add drained pineapple tidbits and finish cooking—folding in half, omelet style. Serve over hot toast points.

Baked Eggs Au Gratin

Can't-be-beat breakfast satisfaction and originality team up as a crunchy baked eggs au gratin, a toast 'n egg dish. Here's how: Arrange hard-cooked and halved eggs in a well-greased casserole. Top with medium white sauce sparked with paprika, to which is added chopped green pepper, grated process cheese, and plenty of toasted bread cubes. Add a topping of the cubes and bake in a moderate oven (350° F.) for 20 minutes.

WIFE PRESERVERS

Use your stale bread to make croutons for soup. Cut into cubes, then bake at 325 degrees about 20 minutes, until golden brown.

Oysters Parmesan

Lenten meal planning yields this catch—tasty oysters parmesan. A delightfully-seasoned recipe, the oysters are simmered in milk with a little chopped onion. Celery salt gives the just-right taste to the medium white sauce to which Parmesan cheese and chopped parsley are added. The oyster mixture and cheese sauce are combined, then served hot and steaming over split hard rolls.

Italian Egg Pie

- ½ pkg. pie crust mix (using 9½ to 10 oz. pkg.)*
- 4 eggs
- ¼ cup milk
- 1 can (6½ or 7 oz.) tuna, flaked, or 1 cup flaked cooked fish
- ½ pound Mozzarella cheese, grated
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground pepper
- ½ teaspoon basil
- ½ teaspoon oregano

Prepare pie crust according to package directions. Line a 9-inch pie pan; trim edge and flute. Beat eggs and milk together until blended. Add remaining ingredients and stir well. Spoon into unbaked crust. Bake in a hot oven (425°F.) until brown, 30 to 35 minutes. Serve hot cut in wedges. Makes 6 servings.

If desired, serve with hot Spanish or tomato sauce.

Rep. Foley To Visit Here Next Week

Rep. John R. Foley (D. Sixth District) will be at his local office in the Post Office building March 26 to meet local individuals and organizations on various matters.

Mrs. Ann Everline, secretary at the office, is scheduling persons and groups wishing to confer with Rep. Foley.

Binghamton, N.Y. Kills Fluoridation

The City Council of Binghamton, N.Y., last week defeated by a vote of eight to four a proposal to fluoridate the city's water supply.

At the same meeting, the council asked the city health officer to study the advisability of distributing fluoride pills to those who may want them.

Ham Slice Big Bonus In Planning

Here's a way to capture the family's admiration in just 45 minutes. You might call it a culinary quartet since four main ingredients comprise the basic makeup of this recipe. The recipe itself in called Ham Slice On Rice.

It will bring music to the ears of those that hear it's to be included in tonight's menu.

Essentially, this dish is a rice casserole. Atop the casserole, a ham slice finds its place in the honored spotlight.

Center-cut ham slices have always provided for the so-called "quick and easy" type meals. Frequently a ham slice is prepared by using it as a base for a spicy topping. For a real harvest or winter treat try combining ⅔ cup apple butter with 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Spread this combination on top of a center-cut ham slice and bake for one hour in a slow oven (300°F.).

A ham slice can be baked, broiled, panbroiled or panfried.

Ham Slice On Rice

- 1 smoked ham slice, cut ¾ inch thick
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 cups cooked rice
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, defrosted
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 can (10½ ounces) cream of celery soup
- ½ cup milk

Combine all ingredients except ham slice. Spoon mixture into a greased 8 x 8 x 2-inch baking dish. Place ham slice on top of rice mixture and bake in a slow oven (300°F.) 45 minutes. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Tasty morsel for a party tidbit tray: Mix canned apple sauce with cream cheese. Form into tiny balls and roll in ground peanuts. Spear each ball or a toothpick.

Party Dessert Mold

Party Fruit Dessert

Your guests — or the family may all rise and bow delightedly to you, when you serve this Party Fruit Dessert . . . or at least that's what they'll feel like doing. For it is a light, inviting dessert, cool and glinting, with juicy little chunks and slices of fruits and puffs of marshmallow crowded in jellied apple sauce.

The real fun and surprise of this dessert is this canned apple sauce. Jellied, it stands tender-firm, gently golden, with its own bright apple tang surrounding and adding to the other fruit flavors. Cut it down in quivering wedges. Serve with whipped cream or without, as desired. It gives vast pleasure either way.

One especially cheery fact is that to make the mold calls for but a thimbleful of effort. And what does that immediately suggest? Family meals, too, of course! Who, indeed, could offer a happier choice than this dessert for family meal, for party, or for sociable coffee-and-dessert occasions!

- 2 cups canned apple sauce
- 1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- ¼ cup orange juice
- 1 cup miniature marshmallows
- ⅔ cup maraschino cherries, chopped
- 1 cup diced canned pineapple slices
- 1 cup sliced bananas
- Whipped cream, if desired

Heat apple sauce to boiling point; remove from heat. Add gelatin, stir until dissolved. Add orange rind and juice. Cool. Stir in marshmallows, maraschino cherries, pineapple and bananas; pour into 1 quart mold. Chill until set. Unmold. Serve with whipped cream, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Eyes strained by wind can be refreshed by a five-minute treatment. Saturate two cotton balls with warm water and lie down with them on your eyelids.

Egg-Lasagna Casserole

Sauce:

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 can (1 lb. 12 oz.) tomatoes (3½ cups)
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1½ teaspoons crushed sweet basil
- 1 teaspoon crushed rosemary

- ½ lb. lasagna noodles
- 8 oz. creamed cottage cheese
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground pepper
- 8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 12 oz. Mozzarella cheese, thinly sliced

Prepare Sauce: Melt butter or margarine, add garlic and onion and cook until onion is transparent, but not brown. Add remaining sauce ingredients and cook slowly until thick, 1½ to 2 hours, stirring occasionally. (Sauce can be cooked in advance and refrigerated until ready to be used.)

Cook lasagna noodles according to package directions. Drain, rinse with hot water and arrange on wax paper to prevent lasagna from sticking together. Combine cottage cheese, the 2 eggs, parsley, salt and pepper. Spread one-third of the Sauce in a shallow baking dish about 11½ x 7½ x 1½ inches. Arrange in layers: one-half of the lasagna, one-half of the cottage cheese mixture, one-half of the hard-cooked eggs (reserve several center slices for garnish), one-half of the Parmesan cheese and one-half of the Mozzarella cheese. Repeat Sauce and layers, ending with Sauce. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) until bubbly around the edges, about 1 hour. Garnish with egg slices and parsley. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Famous Chef Creates Exciting New Dip Recipes

With the chip 'n dip innovation now an integral part of all entertaining, busy hostesses are constantly looking for new dips to vary their party fare. Some very interesting dips, particularly tasty with crisp potato chips, are these developed by a renowned culinary artist.

The easy-to-make basic dip has the mellow flavor of Swiss cheese, cream and sweet butter combined with the intriguing tang of nutmeg. And the nine variations that can be made starting with the basic dip, are equally taste-tempting.

The 10-In-1 Chip Dip

(Serves 4-6)

- 1¼ c. imported Swiss cheese, grated
- ¼ c. heavy cream
- ⅛ c. water
- ½ c. sweet butter
- Salt, Pepper, Nutmeg to taste

Mix cheese and cream thoroughly and force through sieve. Beat butter with water until very fluffy, add cheese mixture to beaten butter and blend well. Season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. If a thinner dip is required, add a little more water. Using the above basic chip dip, here are nine appetizing variations:

1. To 2⅛ c. of Basic Chip Dip add 1½ tblsp. puree of anchovies. Mix well.
2. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add 2 tblsp. French mustard. Mix well.
3. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add ¾ c. finely diced bologna and 2 tblsp. French mustard. Mix well.
4. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add ½ c. finely chopped egg yolk. Mix well.
5. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add ½ c. diced red pepper. Mix well.
6. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add 1½ c. finely chopped ham, ¾ c. diced dill pickle and 4 tblsp. French mustard. Mix well.
7. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add ½ c. diced pineapple and 4 tblsp. French mustard. Mix well.
8. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add 3 tblsp. finely cut chives. Mix well.
9. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add 3 tblsp. grated Sapsago Cheese. Mix well.

Binghamton, N.Y. Kills Fluoridation

The City Council of Binghamton, N.Y., last week defeated by a vote of eight to four a proposal to fluoridate the city's water supply.

At the same meeting, the council asked the city health officer to study the advisability of distributing fluoride pills to those who may want them.

Ham Slice Big Bonus In Planning

Here's a way to capture the family's admiration in just 45 minutes. You might call it a culinary quartet since four main ingredients comprise the basic makeup of this recipe. The recipe itself in called Ham Slice On Rice.

It will bring music to the ears of those that hear it's to be included in tonight's menu.

Essentially, this dish is a rice casserole. Atop the casserole, a ham slice finds its place in the honored spotlight.

Center-cut ham slices have always provided for the so-called "quick and easy" type meals. Frequently a ham slice is prepared by using it as a base for a spicy topping. For a real harvest or winter treat try combining ⅔ cup apple butter with 1 tablespoon grated orange rind. Spread this combination on top of a center-cut ham slice and bake for one hour in a slow oven (300°F.).

A ham slice can be baked, broiled, panbroiled or panfried.

Ham Slice On Rice

- 1 smoked ham slice, cut ¾ inch thick
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 2 cups cooked rice
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, defrosted
- 2 tablespoons minced onion
- 1 can (10½ ounces) cream of celery soup
- ½ cup milk

Combine all ingredients except ham slice. Spoon mixture into a greased 8 x 8 x 2-inch baking dish. Place ham slice on top of rice mixture and bake in a slow oven (300°F.) 45 minutes. Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Tasty morsel for a party tidbit tray: Mix canned apple sauce with cream cheese. Form into tiny balls and roll in ground peanuts. Spear each ball on a toothpick.

Party Dessert Mold

Your guests — or the family may all rise and bow delightedly to you, when you serve this Party Fruit Dessert . . . or at least that's what they'll feel like doing. For it is a light, inviting dessert, cool and glinting, with juicy little chunks and slices of fruits and puffs of marshmallow crowded in jellied apple sauce.

The real fun and surprise of this dessert is this canned apple sauce. Jellied, it stands tender-firm, gently golden, with its own bright apple tang surrounding and adding to the other fruit flavors. Cut it down in quivering wedges. Serve with whipped cream or without, as desired. It gives vast pleasure either way.

One especially cheery fact is that to make the mold calls for but a thimbleful of effort. And what does that immediately suggest? Family meals, too, of course! Who, indeed, could offer a happier choice than this dessert for family meal, for party, or for sociable coffee-and-dessert occasions!

Party Fruit Dessert

- 2 cups canned apple sauce
- 1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatin
- 1 tablespoon grated orange rind
- ¼ cup orange juice
- 1 cup miniature marshmallows
- ⅔ cup maraschino cherries, chopped
- 1 cup diced canned pineapple slices
- 1 cup sliced bananas
- Whipped cream, if desired

Heat apple sauce to boiling point; remove from heat. Add gelatin, stir until dissolved. Add orange rind and juice. Cool. Stir in marshmallows, maraschino cherries, pineapple and bananas; pour into 1 quart mold. Chill until set. Unmold. Serve with whipped cream, if desired. Makes 8 servings.

Eyes strained by wind can be refreshed by a five-minute treatment. Saturate two cotton balls with warm water and lie down with them on your eyelids.

Egg-Lasagna Casserole

Sauce:

- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 clove garlic, finely chopped
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 1 can (1 lb. 12 oz.) tomatoes (3½ cups)
- 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- 1½ teaspoons crushed sweet basil
- 1 teaspoon crushed rosemary

- ½ lb. lasagna noodles
- 8 oz. creamed cottage cheese
- 2 eggs
- ¼ cup chopped parsley
- 1 teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground pepper
- 8 hard-cooked eggs, sliced
- ½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 12 oz. Mozzarella cheese, thinly sliced

Prepare Sauce: Melt butter or margarine, add garlic and onion and cook until onion is transparent, but not brown. Add remaining sauce ingredients and cook slowly until thick, 1½ to 2 hours, stirring occasionally. (Sauce can be cooked in advance and refrigerated until ready to be used.)

Cook lasagna noodles according to package directions. Drain, rinse with hot water and arrange on wax paper to prevent lasagna from sticking together. Combine cottage cheese, the 2 eggs, parsley, salt and pepper. Spread one-third of the Sauce in a shallow baking dish about 11½ x 7½ x 1½ inches. Arrange in layers: one-half of the lasagna, one-half of the cottage cheese mixture, one-half of the hard-cooked eggs (reserve several center slices for garnish), one-half of the Parmesan cheese and one-half of the Mozzarella cheese. Repeat Sauce and layers, ending with Sauce. Bake in moderate oven (350°F.) until bubbly around the edges, about 1 hour. Garnish with egg slices and parsley. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Famous Chef Creates Exciting New Dip Recipes

With the chip 'n dip innovation now an integral part of all entertaining, busy hostesses are constantly looking for new dips to vary their party fare. Some very interesting dips, particularly tasty with crisp potato chips, are these developed by a renowned culinary artist.

The easy-to-make basic dip has the mellow flavor of Swiss cheese, cream and sweet butter combined with the intriguing tang of nutmeg. And the nine variations that can be made starting with the basic dip, are equally taste-tempting.

The 10-In-1 Chip Dip

(Serves 4-6)

- 1¼ c. imported Swiss cheese, grated
- ¼ c. heavy cream
- ⅛ c. water
- ½ c. sweet butter
- Salt, Pepper, Nutmeg to taste

Mix cheese and cream thoroughly and force through sieve. Beat butter with water until very fluffy, add cheese mixture to beaten butter and blend well. Season with salt, pepper and nutmeg. If a thinner dip is required, add a little more water. Using the above basic chip dip, here are nine appetizing variations:

1. To 2⅛ c. of Basic Chip Dip add 1½ tblsp. puree of anchovies. Mix well.
2. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add 2 tblsp. French mustard. Mix well.
3. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add ¾ c. finely diced bologna and 2 tblsp. French mustard. Mix well.
4. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add ½ c. finely chopped egg yolk. Mix well.
5. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add ½ c. diced red pepper. Mix well.
6. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add 1½ c. finely chopped ham, ¾ c. diced dill pickle and 4 tblsp. French mustard. Mix well.
7. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add ½ c. diced pineapple and 4 tblsp. French mustard. Mix well.
8. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add 3 tblsp. finely cut chives. Mix well.
9. To 2 c. of Basic Chip Dip add 3 tblsp. grated Sapsago Cheese. Mix well.

Blaney Urges Study Of Water Needs

Sometime during the 1960s, a drought is to occur and a study by the Water Department on what could be a serious condition if it should happen has prompted Sanitary Engineer Franklin J. Blaney to offer to head a committee for reviewing and making a report on the situation.

The committee would include Blaney, a member of the Health Department, businessman, construction official, lawyer and a layman.

"Since the situation is serious, we should have a 'pool of brains' to prepare any recommendations which might be necessary," Blaney said.

The drought flow of Evitts Creek which feeds the two dams —Lakes Gordon and Koon—along with the runoff and springs, is far below what is needed.

Calculations based on periods of drought show an average daily use of 11,000,000 gallons a day. The sources of water—springs, runoff, seepage and groundwater —supply approximately 2,000,000 gallons a day during drought times and 30,000,000 over a long period during average times.

This water flows into the creek and directly into the dams.

During extreme hot weather, evaporation from the surface of the two lakes is greater than the yield of the creek and the city can lose 10 to 15 per cent of its supply through evaporation, Blaney said.

Leakage—water escaping from lines—accounts for 1,000,000 gallons a day but last fall steps were taken to correct this condition. Cold weather prevented completion of the project but it will be resumed when the weather breaks. Blaney said he is designing a repair band which will be used in this work.

Another source of loss which has been drastically reduced is "wash water" used in cleaning out filters. In this process, water is forced back (reversed) through the filter to wash out all impurities caught in the original filtering.

At one time, loss of water from this process, amounted to eight per cent of the water supply. In the past year, this has been reduced to one per cent, Blaney said, and the quality of water improved at the same time. In breaking down the percentage figure of waste to gallons, Blaney said that using 14.5 million gallons daily average, the loss of "wash water" a year ago amounted to 300,000 to 500,000 gallons of water. Today, that has been reduced to 50,000 to 90,000 gallons.

Conservatively looking at the situation, it is estimated that during a period of heavy drought and by pumping from Lake Gordon, the city would have a six-month water supply at the present rate of consumption.

During that six months, it is assumed that there will be no rainfall and lakes began the dry period in a full condition. However, it is to be further assumed that the lower the water level in the lakes through the process of pumping, the less desirable would become the quality of water until the point is reached near the bottom where the supply would be hardly fit for consumption because of stagnation, dead marine life and other allied causes.

Blaney, who has been studying the local water situation since coming here in June 1959, says that water is the most important single thing that a city has.

In his report, he notes that the daily average consumption of water is nearly 4,000,000 gallons over the average daily drought yield of Evitts Creek, the source of the local supply.

"We are using water faster than the average daily drought-period yield of Evitts Creek in the available storage. What makes the matter the more serious is the fact our consumption will go up during the summer months when our yield is down," he states.

Over a long period of time and during times of heavy yield (wet summers), the flow of Evitts Creek is more than adequate, so it is therefore the necessary conclusion, Blaney stated, that the excess water should be stored, preferably within the limits of the State of Maryland. (In other words, a third storage dam should be constructed downstream in Maryland).

Some additional water could be saved by raising the level of Lake Gordon by a few feet, he adds.

Some have suggested another source of supply such as the Savage River Dam as an answer to any problem which might occur here in the future, but the cost of such an undertaking is believed to be prohibitive, both from the standpoint of getting the water here and because it would require construction of another filtration plant mounting into the millions of dollars.

Blaney believes it would be better to exhaust the present source before branching out into a search for another. It would be less expensive to expand the present filtration plant and operate it with the same number of men.

The present plant has a designed capacity of 18,000,000 gallons a day. The two 36-inch mains into the city, Blaney estimates, are capable of transmitting 22,000,000 to 24,000,000 gallons a day and the filtration plant, if pushed, can produce that larger amount during peak consumption provided it does not make that demand for a full 24-hour period. Peak water loads vary. Between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m., the peak draw of 18,000,000 gallons is reached. This drops during the late afternoon and at night.

But regardless, average daily consumption is up from 11,000,000 gallons of two years ago to nearly 15,000,000 gallons today.

There are a number of reasons.

Consumption in Cumberland has increased because of gains in building and conversion to automatic washers, installation of more showers and the fact many have become two-car families.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 on North Branch processed its own water from the Potomac River for a while, but Blaney says to the best of the city's knowledge, this was not satisfactory because of the unstable quality of the water. As a result it began buying all its water from the city and consumption increased almost 400 per cent.

Other customers of the city, Wiley Ford, Ridgeley, Cresaptown, LaVale and Valley Road, have also upped consumption.

Total usable capacity of Lakes Gordon and Koon is 3,077,000,000 gallons including losses by evaporation, wash water and leakage.

In the opinion of Blaney and based on present daily consumption, in a period of extreme drought the city will need a storage capacity of 4,320,000,000 gallons to fully meet its needs.

This in effect, means that the city needs another body of water or storage facility comparable in size to Lake Gordon.

During the 1954 drought here, the level of Lake Koon dropped 26 feet and Lake Gordon approximately five feet. Consumption then was not as great as today but if it had been, Lake Koon would have been emptied.

A possible answer to the storage problem would be this: Raise the height of Gordon Dam permanently; or, and the effect of this suggestion has not been fully studied, take some of the watershed roads and highways, dike them up, and increase the size of Gordon and its capacity.

Injured Men Still 'Critical'

The two young men badly injured in the one-car accident on Route 36 Saturday that claimed the life of Paul C. Barnard, 19, of Westernport, remained in critical condition.

Frederick Leo Keller, 25, Westernport, is still in "poor" condition in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown.

Keller was taken to that hospital due to a spinal injury that required the services of a neurosurgeon.

The condition of Harold Grove, 19, also of Westernport, remained unchanged yesterday and hospital spokesmen said he was listed as being critical.

Surplus Food Budget Submitted

The budget for the surplus federal food program for the fiscal year starting July 1 is listed at $17,132.76 by Grant A. Wiebel, supervisor.

The budget includes $7,000 for salaries for Wiebel and two clerical assistants. Storage, handling of food and transportation is listed at $7,553.96 and office expenses of $2,478.80.

The budget under which the program is currently operating is $12,941.

Commissioner John T. Mason said Wiebel will meet with the board in a few days to give data on the number of persons receiving the food, the value of the foods donated by the federal government and similar facts.

Chins Up?

It's not fair if you own up to more than one chin. A woman is allowed only one to begin with . . . and she should do her most to keep it from doubling.

Before your neck and chin start to look older than you are, take care of them. These seem to be the most neglected areas in a woman's grooming. And it is unfortunate, because they are so obvious, all the time.

They are MOST obvious, detracting from a perfect make-up and a pretty dress, when they are not cleaned and creamed regularly, when they are just patched with powder, if they are made up at all.

Throat and chin-conditioning belong with skin-conditioning. Exercise, massage and posture will postpone a crepey throat, and jowls and sags need never develop.

Try this treatment, after basting your throat with a rich oily cream. Take a prone position with feet raised and with a cushion fixed under your shoulders. Now, exercise that neck! Roll your head back and around, jut out your chin over and over, work your jaws open and shut. Repeat these motions with head turned left, then with head switched to the right.

When you can feel the stretching and pulling, you know your muscles are getting the message. Make sure they get a massage, too. Be firm about patting and slapping that chin-line.

A shin strap can help to hold that line, especially when jowls begin to jut. Apply a thick coat of cream first, then bind the chin with a ready-made strap, pushing the jowls up against the jaw. An old cotton stocking is another efficient chin strap.

Every waking (and sleeping) moment, keep your chin up with good posture. If your chin is on the increase already, sleep without a pillow on a firm mattress. Keep your head up, your chin level, when you walk; you'll be safer as well as straighter.

And, please, don't slump in soft easy chairs. If you can't resist their invitation to loaf in a curled-up position, train yourself to prefer a straight-backed chair.

Blaney Urges Study Of Water Needs

Sometime during the 1960s, a drought is to occur and a study by the Water Department on what could be a serious condition if it should happen has prompted Sanitary Engineer Franklin J. Blaney to offer to head a committee for reviewing and making a report on the situation.

The committee would include Blaney, a member of the Health Department, businessman, construction official, lawyer and a layman.

"Since the situation is serious, we should have a 'pool of brains' to prepare any recommendations which might be necessary," Blaney said.

The drought flow of Evitts Creek which feeds the two dams —Lakes Gordon and Koon—along with the runoff and springs, is far below what is needed.

Calculations based on periods of drought show an average daily use of 11,000,000 gallons a day. The sources of water—springs, runoff, seepage and groundwater —supply approximately 2,000,000 gallons a day during drought times and 30,000,000 over a long period during average times.

This water flows into the creek and directly into the dams.

During extreme hot weather, evaporation from the surface of the two lakes is greater than the yield of the creek and the city can lose 10 to 15 per cent of its supply through evaporation, Blaney said.

Leakage—water escaping from lines—accounts for 1,000,000 gallons a day but last fall steps were taken to correct this condition. Cold weather prevented completion of the project but it will be resumed when the weather breaks. Blaney said he is designing a repair band which will be used in this work.

Another source of loss which has been drastically reduced is "wash water" used in cleaning out filters. In this process, water is forced back (reversed) through the filter to wash out all impurities caught in the original filtering.

At one time, loss of water from this process, amounted to eight per cent of the water supply. In the past year, this has been reduced to one per cent, Blaney said, and the quality of water improved at the same time. In breaking down the percentage figure of waste to gallons, Blaney said that using 14.5 million gallons daily average, the loss of "wash water" a year ago amounted to 300,000 to 500,000 gallons of water. Today, that has been reduced to 50,000 to 90,000 gallons.

Conservatively looking at the situation, it is estimated that during a period of heavy drought and by pumping from Lake Gordon, the city would have a six-month water supply at the present rate of consumption.

During that six months, it is assumed that there will be no rainfall and lakes began the dry period in a full condition. However, it is to be further assumed that the lower the water level in the lakes through the process of pumping, the less desirable would become the quality of water until the point is reached near the bottom where the supply would be hardly fit for consumption because of stagnation, dead marine life and other allied causes.

Blaney, who has been studying the local water situation since coming here in June 1959, says that water is the most important single thing that a city has.

In his report, he notes that the daily average consumption of water is nearly 4,000,000 gallons over the average daily drought yield of Evitts Creek, the source of the local supply.

"We are using water faster than the average daily drought-period yield of Evitts Creek in the available storage. What makes the matter the more serious is the fact our consumption will go up during the summer months when our yield is down," he states.

Over a long period of time and during times of heavy yield (wet summers), the flow of Evitts Creek is more than adequate, so it is therefore the necessary conclusion, Blaney stated, that the excess water should be stored, preferably within the limits of the State of Maryland. (In other words, a third storage dam should be constructed downstream in Maryland).

Some additional water could be saved by raising the level of Lake Gordon by a few feet, he adds.

Some have suggested another source of supply such as the Savage River Dam as an answer to any problem which might occur here in the future, but the cost of such an undertaking is believed to be prohibitive, both from the standpoint of getting the water here and because it would require construction of another filtration plant mounting into the millions of dollars.

Blaney believes it would be better to exhaust the present source before branching out into a search for another. It would be less expensive to expand the present filtration plant and operate it with the same number of men.

The present plant has a designed capacity of 18,000,000 gallons a day. The two 36-inch mains into the city, Blaney estimates, are capable of transmitting 22,000,000 to 24,000,000 gallons a day and the filtration plant, if pushed, can produce that larger amount during peak consumption provided it does not make that demand for a full 24-hour period. Peak water loads vary. Between 9 a. m. and 3 p. m., the peak draw of 18,000,000 gallons is reached. This drops during the late afternoon and at night.

But regardless, average daily consumption is up from 11,000,000 gallons of two years ago to nearly 15,000,000 gallons today.

There are a number of reasons.

Consumption in Cumberland has increased because of gains in building and conversion to automatic washers, installation of more showers and the fact many have become two-car families.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's Works 7 on North Branch processed its own water from the Potomac River for a while, but Blaney says to the best of the city's knowledge, this was not satisfactory because of the unstable quality of the water. As a result it began buying all its water from the city and consumption increased almost 400 per cent.

Other customers of the city, Wiley Ford, Ridgeley, Cresaptown, LaVale and Valley Road, have also upped consumption.

Total usable capacity of Lakes Gordon and Koon is 3,077,000,000 gallons including losses by evaporation, wash water and leakage.

In the opinion of Blaney and based on present daily consumption, in a period of extreme drought the city will need a storage capacity of 4,320,000,000 gallons to fully meet its needs.

This in effect, means that the city needs another body of water or storage facility comparable in size to Lake Gordon.

During the 1954 drought here, the level of Lake Koon dropped 26 feet and Lake Gordon approximately five feet. Consumption then was not as great as today but if it had been, Lake Koon would have been emptied.

A possible answer to the storage problem would be this: Raise the height of Gordon Dam permanently; or, and the effect of this suggestion has not been fully studied, take some of the watershed roads and highways, dike them up, and increase the size of Gordon and its capacity.

Injured Men Still 'Critical'

The two young men badly injured in the one-car accident on Route 36 Saturday that claimed the life of Paul C. Barnard, 19, of Westernport, remained in critical condition.

Frederick Leo Keller, 25, Westernport, is still in "poor" condition in Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown.

Keller was taken to that hospital due to a spinal injury that required the services of a neurosurgeon.

The condition of Harold Grove, 19, also of Westernport, remained unchanged yesterday and hospital spokesmen said he was listed as being critical.

Surplus Food Budget Submitted

The budget for the surplus federal food program for the fiscal year starting July 1 is listed at $17,132.76 by Grant A. Wiebel, supervisor.

The budget includes $7,000 for salaries for Wiebel and two clerical assistants. Storage, handling of food and transportation is listed at $7,553.96 and office expenses of $2,478.80.

The budget under which the program is currently operating is $12,941.

Commissioner John T. Mason said Wiebel will meet with the board in a few days to give data on the number of persons receiving the food, the value of the foods donated by the federal government and similar facts.

Ann Landers . . .

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I started to read your column for laughs. Now, three years later, I find myself turning to you for advice.

A young girl came to work in this office a year ago. She's a beautiful little doll, sweet and refined, and everyone loves her. I should tell you she's 21. I am 30.

Last week she came to work looking sick and pale. She fainted at her desk. I drove her home. She sobbed out the story that she's pregnant, can't work much longer and doesn't know what to do.

The man responsible posed as a single fellow. He is married. The heel gave her a check for $1,000 to "get lost" which she tore up and threw in his face.

I'm seriously considering asking her to marry me. Is this too crazy for words or do you think it could work out?—THIN MAN

DEAR THIN: You sound like a jewel and a gem and I hope you won't make the mistake of marrying a girl out of pity.

You fail to say one word about your feelings toward her or hers for you. Unless you honestly believe the relationship has seeds that could flower into mutual love and respect, the marriage would be doomed. You'd do yourself (and her) a greater service by steering the girl to an agency which would see her through the difficult months ahead and arrange for adoption.

DEAR ANN: Why are wives always blamed when the marriage fails? I'm sick of articles on How To Keep Your Man Happy.

The articles say a woman shouldn't bore her husband with things that happen in the house, or with the kids. Why not? It's HIS house, too — and they'er HIS kids. He should be interested.

A woman is supposed to cater to a man's every whim, but let her ask him to fix the doorknob and he's too tired. She's supposed to flatter his ego and treat him like a little boy or he might run to some other woman who will.

If the average husband said to his wife "Honey, I love you," she'd probably faint from the shock. After the honeymoon most husbands forget to open doors, use awful table manners and they stop doing all the litle nice things that made them attractive during courtship.

You'll probably never print this because you always side with the men but I feel better already.—THE WIFE

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am one of four daughters. We are all married and have nice homes and families. My mother and dad are both in their 70's and in poor health. My sisters take turns having the folks for a few months at a time. My husband put his foot down and refuses to let the folks stay with us.

I feel guilty because I'm not able to do my share. My sisters have never criticized me openly but I know they must be saying and thinking plenty.

My husband is a very obstinate person and there's no changing his mind. He's a good husband and father, has no bad habits, and we get along fine — except for this one thing. Please tell me what to do.—R.S.V.P.

DEAR R.: You're living under a family dictatorship. My condolences. You should insist that you contribute financially to your parents to compensate for not being able to take them into your home.

Visit them often and relieve your sisters by sitting with the folks, baking and cooking what you can, and being helpful in general.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN: I started to read your column for laughs. Now, three years later, I find myself turning to you for advice.

A young girl came to work in this office a year ago. She's a beautiful little doll, sweet and refined, and everyone loves her. I should tell you she's 21. I am 30.

Last week she came to work looking sick and pale. She fainted at her desk. I drove her home. She sobbed out the story that she's pregnant, can't work much longer and doesn't know what to do.

The man responsible posed as a single fellow. He is married. The heel gave her a check for $1,000 to "get lost" which she tore up and threw in his face.

I'm seriously considering asking her to marry me. Is this too crazy for words or do you think it could work out?—THIN MAN

DEAR THIN: You sound like a jewel and a gem and I hope you won't make the mistake of marrying a girl out of pity.

You fail to say one word about your feelings toward her or hers for you. Unless you honestly believe the relationship has seeds that could flower into mutual love and respect, the marriage would be doomed. You'd do yourself (and her) a greater service by steering the girl to an agency which would see her through the difficult months ahead and arrange for adoption.

DEAR ANN: Why are wives always blamed when the marriage fails? I'm sick of articles on How To Keep Your Man Happy.

The articles say a woman shouldn't bore her husband with things that happen in the house, or with the kids. Why not? It's HIS house, too — and they'er HIS kids. He should be interested.

A woman is supposed to cater to a man's every whim, but let her ask him to fix the doorknob and he's too tired. She's supposed to flatter his ego and treat him like a little boy or he might run to some other woman who will.

If the average husband said to his wife "Honey, I love you," she'd probably faint from the shock. After the honeymoon most husbands forget to open doors, use awful table manners and they stop doing all the litle nice things that made them attractive during courtship.

You'll probably never print this because you always side with the men but I feel better already.—THE WIFE

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am one of four daughters. We are all married and have nice homes and families. My mother and dad are both in their 70's and in poor health. My sisters take turns having the folks for a few months at a time. My husband put his foot down and refuses to let the folks stay with us.

I feel guilty because I'm not able to do my share. My sisters have never criticized me openly but I know they must be saying and thinking plenty.

My husband is a very obstinate person and there's no changing his mind. He's a good husband and father, has no bad habits, and we get along fine — except for this one thing. Please tell me what to do.—R.S.V.P.

DEAR R.: You're living under a family dictatorship. My condolences. You should insist that you contribute financially to your parents to compensate for not being able to take them into your home.

Visit them often and relieve your sisters by sitting with the folks, baking and cooking what you can, and being helpful in general.

To learn the difference between a marriage that "settles down" and one that "gets dull," send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "What To Expect From Marriage," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Red Chinese Show Folly Of Weakness

If Russia or Red China were to grab off a sizable chunk of Alaska, no one would expect Washington to react by politely requesting a conference a month or two later with either Khrushchev or Chou En-lai. Immediate and drastic military action would be expected.

But the soft approach is the course taken by Prime Minister Nehru in the invasion of the Himalayas by neighboring Red China. After months of debate and even a few harsh words, Nehru has now suggested to China's Chou En-lai that they meet in New Delhi on April 20 to talk things over.

From this it might be assumed that India doesn't really care about the lost territory, or that it is so friendly to the Communists that it doesn't feel like making an issue of it, or that it is following Ghandi's principles of non-resistance. But all indications from an aroused India show that these aren't the reasons.

India does care, is bitter toward the Communists because of their grab, and isn't anxious to turn the other cheek. Why then the Nehru approach?

Could it not be that Nehru knows he doesn't have the military strength he must have to stand up to the Communists? That he realizes he must negotiate instead of fight?

If so, this points out the folly of the neutralist theory that with good intentions and weak defenses a nation can get along with the Communists. It shows the wisdom of the Western contention that one must deal from strength in any contacts with the Communists.

Nehru, who has lectured the West repeatedly that its insistence on maintaining large defense establishments was the wrong approach to the Communists, may now wish he had more armaments of his own.

These Days

A Mishmash

I have carefully read "Air Reserve Center Training Manual — Student Text — Reserve Non-Commissioned Officer Course—Continental Air Command." The issue of this which I read appeared in a small paper "U.S.A." It is a mishmash of clippings and citations, truths, half-digested material and tells the reader nothing of any very great significance.

If this manual is intended for high school graduates, it is inadequate anti-Communist material. I want to analyze it as an example of what should not be done.

The material deals with espionage and reaches this conclusion:

"Another rather foolish remark often heard is that Americans have a right to know what's going on. Most people realize the foolhardiness of such a suggestion. If a football team should start telling the other side the plays it planned to use, their opponents would sweep them off the field. It's the same in war—hot or cold; if we tell our secrets, we are likely to be beaten, and beaten badly."

Characteristic of the thinking that has gone into this pamphlet, this paragraph contains two separate ideas:

1. It is foolish for the American taxpayer to want to know how his money—with emphasis on the word, his—is being spent;

2. If the truth were known to the enemy, we should be beaten.

The conflict of ideas here is that the power of the budget, under our Constitution, rests in the House of Representatives as the place of origin for appropriations. Not a single item is secret. The taxpayer has the Constitutional right to know how that money is being spent and hearings are held before Congressional committees on this subject.

What needs to be kept secret are strategic and tactical matters and they are sometimes made available to the enemy by military officers in speeches, articles and testimony before Congressional committees.

It is not foolish for the taxpayer to ask questions. That is his civic duty.

Now we come to an unbelievable section of this manual. It is under a subhead, "Communism in Religion," but nothing in it refers to Communism in religion. Obviously that is impossible because Communism, or to use a more correct term, Marxism-Leninism, rejects religion, being atheistic, materialistic and pragmatic. What the author meant to say was that some persons connected with religious organizations were also associated with Communist-front organizations. That does not make religion Communist or any American sect, Marxist. It merely says that certain individuals have a dual and conflicting relationship.

Somehow, the Revised Standard Version of the Bible is brought into this as a form of anti-religious activity. The paragraph on this subject is short, condensed and nonsensical. After all the Bible was not originally written in English. The King James Version, revised or original, is a translation from Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek, just as the Vulgate is and can only be that. There are translations in all languages and some are better than others. Before we quarrel about the perfection of any translation, we must know Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek and the language into which they are translated. There is no Marxist translation of the Bible into any language.

Then there is a long discussion of the misbehavior of individual clergymen. Much of this data is taken from the various hearings of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, but it does not prove that Protestant Christianity should be discarded. I can agree that the judgment of Dr. John A. Mackey, retiring president of Princeton Theological Seminary, on Red China is unsound, but what does that prove about the Revised Standard Version of the Bible?

It is difficult to follow the logic of this and I wonder precisely what such a pamphlet would do to convince a young American that Communism is evil. It concludes on this note:

". . . We believe in the dignity of man—of the right of every individual to choose his manner of living, worship, his occupation, in short, everything that he does, so long as the rights of other individuals are respected. In contrast, the Communists believe the state to be supreme—in individual lives, in family life, in morals, in religion, in government, and in the economics of making a living."

But the manual has nothing to do with this conclusion. In fact, it is a negation of the rights of a worker in religion to pursue his conscience.

'Now All You Do Is Pull The Trigger'

Lawyers Amazed At Government's Handling Of Rep. Powell's Tax Case

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON – Lawyers following the Adam Clayton Powell income tax case are flabbergasted at the way the government is trying it. Skeptical attorneys say that while the administration undoubtedly doesn't want to "throw" the case against the Democratic Congressman from Harlem who urged all Negroes to vote for Ike in 1956, it is difficult to see how it could do it better even if it tried.

The Justice Department put one of its ablest young New York attorneys in charge of the case against Powell. But in his opening statement he told the jury that the government would prove frauds of "far greater magnitude" than those alleged in the three-count indictment, which only claimed that the Congressman from Harlem had evaded $3,063 in taxes on the 1951-52 incomes of himself and wife.

Attorneys following the case point out that to charge a defendant with crimes not charged in the indictment is reversible error, and that Powell's attorney has every justification for getting a mistrial.

The attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, one of the best in the business, has already laid the groundwork for such a motion and U. S. District Judge Frederick van Pelt Bryan has twice admonished the government attorney that he is going too far. However, he has reserved final decision.

Assistants Convicted

Morton S. Robson, the prosecuting attorney, understands trial law perfectly. He successfully tried Frankie Costello in his denaturalization case, has handled other important cases for the government. He's one of the best in the Justice Department's New York stable of attorneys.

However, the fact is that his colleague, Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas A. Bolan, has stated that on March 18, 1957 when he was in charge of the federal grand jury which wanted to indict Powell, he was ordered by Washington to abandon the grand jury investigation of Powell's taxes.

It was not until after publication of the above order a year later, in April, 1958, that a runaway grand jury did indict Powell.

It is a further fact that two of Powell's assistants in his Congressional office in Washington were convicted for tax evasion and a third indicted in salary kickback deals which necessarily involved Powell. This was in 1956. And only now, 1960, has he been brought to trial for alleged tax evasion in 1951-52.

Meanwhile Powell had called at the White House during the 1956 election campaign to work out a plan with Sherman Adams whereby he would switch the Negro vote to Ike. One of Powell's associates who was then present states that in return it was agreed that the White House would ask the Justice Department to call off the tax fraud case against him.

Dirty Water

After President Eisenhower vetoed a $90,000,000 program to clean up the nation's drinking water, spokesmen for the nation's cities and counties began trooping behind closed doors to urge the House Appropirations Committee to try for $50,000,000.

This is $30,000,000 more than the President is willing to spend on water pollution control. Yet his own health experts have warned that more, not less, money is needed to safeguard the public from sewage, filth, chemicals, and radioactive waste in the water they drink.

"Here we have the states and municipalities and the counties all supporting it," snorted Congressman John Fogarty, Rhode Island Democrat, at the closed-door hearing. "They are all for this new bill, and we could not get enough votes in Congress to override the President's veto."

He asked Bernard Hillenbrand, aggressive young director of the National Association of County officials, what he thought of the veto.

"Our general reaction," replied Hillenbrand, "was that the President seemed to consider these (sewage treatment plants) as expenditures whereas we consider them to be more in the nature of an investment. A water pollution control facility helping to purify the nation's water supply is a stimulus to industrial development."

"You think the President is making a big mistake, then," demanded Fogarty.

"Yes," agreed Hillenbrand. "We felt that the actual amount of money that is needed each year is $100,000,000 of federal funds."

"The federal government has power of income tax that local governments do not have," pointed out Congressman Winfield Denton, Indiana Democrat. "When the President vetoed that bill, I wonder if he knew the problem local governments are having. I am sure he did not want people to have dirty water, and our streams polluted."

"Our observation is that we have just about reached the limit under our present resources to finance these things," said Hillenbrand, speaking for hard-up counties. "We have constitutional limits established for our indebtedness."

The Congressman contended that the voters should be more concerned about drinking dangerous water than balancing the budget.

Note—Even Reader's Digest, a pro-Eisenhower magazine, has come out in its March issue with an article warning about the "danger in our drinking water."

Merry-Go-Round

Attention President Eisenhower: If your Secretary of the Treasury Bob Anderson brags that while attending a monetary conference in Salvador he smacked a golf ball an astounding 340 feet, ask him if it isn't true that the ball rolled most of the way down a very steep hill . . . The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) is working on a northern Negro boycott of stores with branches in both the North and the South. The boycott will first be aimed at Grants, Kresge's, Woolworth's and Belk's—unless their southern outlets serve Negroes at lunch counters. One New York boycott of a Woolworth store cut its business 90 per cent . . . Henry J. Kaiser Jr. is a chip off the old block. He's urging business groups to apply the same efficiency to labor relations that they have to automation . . . Ladies who plopped into the Senate visitors' gallery during the filibuster seemed less interested in the filibuster than in asking for Massachusetts' handsome Sen. Jack Kennedy.

Why Germany's Chancellor Adenauer Worries

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has come to Washington with the aim, almost publicly avowed, of pleading with the President to take a firm line at the summit on the great and agonizing problem of Berlin.

A full sixteen months have passed since Nikita S. Khrushchev opened the unending Berlin crisis with a roar of crude menace. It is very odd indeed, therefore, that the German Chancellor should hope to influence President Eisenhower's policy in any direction whatever. In a normal administration, there would no doubt at all, by now, about the President's position. And the Chancellor would of course know about that position and would have no further hope of changing it, whether for good or ill.

Yet the Chancellor plainly regards the President's position on Berlin as uncertain and subject to change. One reason for this, as previously reported in this space, is the highly equivocal way the President himself has talked about Berlin, even in the highest councils of the Western alliance.

At the Paris meeting in December, for instance, the President remarked to the other heads of state that Berlin's freedom must certainly be defended, but added that Berlin was indefensible except by an H-bomb war, which was unthinkable. This circular statement, getting exactly nowhere, would have upset and worried any man in the German Chancellor's shoes — even a much less suspicious man than Konrad Adenauer.

Yet it should also be noted that Adenauer's worries about Eisenhower are quite certainly multiplied many times over by still another element in the pre-summit situation. This is the attitude of the British.

It is fashionable in many quarters, here, and in Paris, and in Bonn, to condemn this British attitude with extreme severity. Certainly no one can admire the "Germans-are-beastly" campaign that is now being waged in London. It unpleasantly recalls the "Czechs-are-ghastly-people" campaign that was waged in London before Munich, which was simply the preliminary self-justification of the advocates of betrayal of Czechoslovakia.

Yet the actual British attitude on Berlin does not deserve such widespread condemnation. It starts with the President's second and third premises, that Berlin can only be defended by an H-bomb war, which is unthinkable. It goes on from there to advocate almost any kind of concession to Khrushchev, up to and including de facto recognition of East Germany, but not including surrender of the political freedom of the West Berliners. This may be an utterly wrong attitude, as most American policy-makers passionately believe. But it is at least straightforward rather than circular, coldly logical rather than vaguely optimistic.

The moment when this British attitude was most openly manifested was in the second round of last year's Foreign Ministers meeting on Berlin. Not long after the Foreign Ministers re-assembled at Geneva, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd disclosed to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter new instructions which he had just received from Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. These required Lloyd to propose new concessions to the Soviet viewpoint going far beyond the West's agreed "Geneva package."

Lloyd did not act on his instructions, because Herter told him in effect, "We've just asked Khrushchev for the weekend, so you'd better wait a bit." This was how the British learned of the Eisenhower invitation to Khrushchev a little before the other allies.

Since then, much effort has been devoted, in all the various working groups, to make sure that the British will not do in the future, at the summit, what Lloyd so nearly did at Geneva. The American policy-makers on the working level profess to be much encouraged by the results of these efforts. Yet the strong possibility remains that when and if the going gets rough at the summit, Prime Minister Macmillan will quickly revert to the policy outlined in his instructions to Lloyd at Geneva.

The existence of this strong possibility in turn raises some crucial questions that are as yet wholly unanswerable. What will the President do, if the Western united front is broken by a sudden British retreat? Will Eisenhower also retreat, and reform his front on the line marked out by Prime Minister Macmillan? Or will Eisenhower stand firm, alone if need be, and fight the issue out on the ground he has chosen?

These questions are all the more troubling, because of the signs that the President himself has not fully thought through his terrible, quite possibly impending choice between surrender and a risk of war. No wonder, then, that Chancellor Adenauer has come to plead for firmness, and to beg for hard commitments on the problem of Berlin.

LITERATURE — This year's crop of presidential aspirants has been likened to baseball players, football players, automobiles and missiles. However, it took a woman to give them book titles.

The woman in question is Rep. Katherine St. George, New York Republican. She dealt only with the Democratic candidates, of course, and said the titles were rejected by leading publishers "on the ground that the manuscripts were too factual to become political best sellers."

The St. George list:

"One Man's Family," by Jack Kennedy; "For 2 Cents Plain," by Hubert Humphrey; "Rebel Without a Cause," by Wayne Morse; "Grimm's Fairy Tales," by Paul Butler; "Come North With Me," by Lyndon Johnson; "My Brother's Keeper," by Bobby Kennedy; "Great Expectations," by Stuart Symington; "Vanity Fair," by Jack Kennedy's barber; "Letters for All Occasions," by Harry Truman, and "Hateful Thoughts for Happy Occasions," by the editors of the Democratic Digest.

GREAT AUTHORITY—At a recent session of the Supreme Court, Justice Felix Frankfurter quoted Prof. Archibald Cox of the Harvard Law School, in dissenting from an opinion in a labor case written by Justice William J. Brennan Jr.

Frankfurter termed Cox "one of the most experienced students of labor law" in quoting him in opposition to Brennan's decision.

In the very next case, Brennan again wrote the decision. This time it was Brennan who quoted Professor Cox, calling him "a close student of our national labor relations laws."

Frankfurter and Brennan are the two Harvard Law School graduates on the high court.

The Persian Room darkens. The tall draperies draw to a close. The band falls silent. The clink of fork against plate stops. Three hundred pairs of eyes swing to a small door beside the dance floor. It bursts open and a tall, slender blonde comes through. Thirteen pink, blue and yellow spotlights pick her up and the audience breaks into a surf of applause.

Hildegarde is on. She is laughing and lovely, the epitome of femininity. She wears a rich gold and white brocaded gown with matching stole, and she holds a microphone in a dainty kerchief, petalled outward like a flower. Her dainty feet carry her close to the tables of diners, and she sings to them "Darling, Je Vous Aime Beaucoup" and Massenet's "Elergy" and "Li'l Marlene" and others, gaily flirtatious or sadly romantic.

She is a one-woman show, as always, and she holds her audience for 70 minutes. Hildegarde joshes the men at the ringside table, calls greetings to celebrities, makes a quick change to black velvet and a sable stole, and leaves with an ovation.

It has been a long climb for the grocer's daughter. Once, she was a gawky kid in New Holstein, Wisconsin. In school, she was Miss Hildegard Loretta Sell. After school, she helped in the store, weighing sugar, doling out cans of condensed milk. She had dreams. But who hasn't?

Hildegarde and her two sisters studied music. The girls had the example of a mother who was a church organist and a father who played drums. Hildegarde studied further at St. John's Cathedral and, in time, became one of the most intensely religious personalities in show business.

The road to the top was never easy. She played piano as the only girl in a 12-piece orchestra; she was one of four girls in an old vaudeville act called Jerry and Her Baby Grands. She was a piano accompanist for a couple of baseball players: Mickey Cochrane and Charley Grimm.

Always, Hildegarde was clawing, scratching, climbing her way to the top. She met Anna Sosenko. This woman had no chance of making it herself, but she knew all the signposts on the road, and could read them. Anna stood behind Hildegarde, and, through years of nagging, threatening, ordering, fashioned the gawky kid into a preening bird of paradise.

Together, they scaled the heights. Hildegarde sang at the wedding of the Duke of Kent; whispered "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" to King Gustav of Sweden; sang Anna's composition, "Darling Je Vous Aime Beaucoup" at the jubilee of George V of England; became the idol of Paris; sang private concerts for the President of France, M. Albert LeBrun; came back to America in triumph.

They were close, Hildegarde and Anna. But they split some years ago and very few people know why. Hildegarde lifted her nose a notch higher and went on alone. Today, she spends almost all her offstage time studying singing, or reading religious books. Recently, she helped three young seminarians through to the priesthood.

Her charities are multitudinous, and cover more than one religion. Her old gowns go to nuns, and are made into vestments. Much of her mail is from charitable organizations begging help from her or else they perish. She gives, and she asks no publicity for it.

This makes her a theatrical schizophrenic, who is gay and Frenchy on the nightclub floor, and who, alone with her old Negro maid, seriously seeks salvation. A third side is Hildegarde the businesswoman. This one earns about $200,000 a year, not counting the income from oil wells named after her.

In her one-woman show, she is conscious of being the idol of millions of schoolteacherish women, who think of her as everything they would like to be. She is also witty. Recently, a man shouted that he would like to hear her sing "Mack The Knife." "I don't know the words," she shouted back, "but I'll sing Jack the Fork for you."

Romance? She says she had three love affairs in her life, and that two of the men died. No one knows. Today, Hildegarde is 54, looks thirtyish, has a figure like Miss America, and is one of the best-dressed women in the world.

She moves from city to city, forever on tour. She has no home, no man, no children. Friends? That depends on what city she is in. Hildegarde is on top, but she hasn't even got an address . . .

The Wonder Drugs And The Common Cold

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most colds respond to bed rest and the use of fruit juices and steam inhalations. Distress is relieved by simple medications such as aspirin, in combination with a decongestant and an antihistaminic agent. This is the fastest and safest treatment. In addition, the infection remains at home and is not passed along to others on the bus or at the office, plant, store, or school.

What about an antibiotic such as penicillin or erythromycin or perhaps one of the sulfonamides? These drugs do not affect the viruses of colds and are not recommended unless fever persists for two or more days or complications are developing. In such instances, the antibiotics or sulfa drugs are effective against a wide range of respiratory micro-organisms.

But they are far from perfect. These products are effective against bacteria like streptococci and staphylococci and will work wonders in sore throat and nasal congestion caused by these organisms. But they will not kill the viruses responsible for the flu or the common cold.

Most cold victims are wasting their money on antibiotics. They may get better despite this treatment but it is surprising how often these drugs prolong the duration of a respiratory infection, especially if bacteria are involved. This is not the fault of the antibiotic but the victim.

A sore throat or nasal cold develops and the person takes penicillin, erythromycin, or tetracycline—hoping to get well quickly. On the third day he feels so well the medicine is stopped. Symptoms return within 24 hours, and the procedure is repeated but the results are not as good as previously. The total time required to get well is longer than it would have been if the individual had gone to bed and used conservative remedies.

The antibiotics are wonder drugs but they must be used properly or not at all. Once a suitable antibiotic is started, it should be continued until the infection is gone.

ARTERY HARDENING

E. M. N. writes. Is stroke due to hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

Yes, in the majority of instances. It also may follow hemorrhage into the brain from blood vessels that are weakened through imperfections (aneurysm) or injuries. Many of us associate high blood pressure with strokes but before the blood vessels in the brain break or become obstructed because of the increased tension, they become hardened and narrowed. A normal vessel rarely ruptures.

EFFECT OF PILLS

Mrs. J. B. writes: When I take pills to curb appetite, my eyes blur. Do you think I'm allergic to these tablets?

REPLY

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

A night club comedian was laying the egg of all times. Only one person in the audience dug his humor at all, but this one certainly howled after each terrible joke. Then came one sally so atrocious that even the one admirer couldn't go for it. The crestfallen comedian walked over to his one rooter and grumbled, "What's the matter, jerk? Laugh it up, will you? You're ruining my act!"

A magazine editor who is constantly worried that he's getting too fat, received a fearful jolt the other afternoon. His new overcoat wouldn't button in the middle. His secretary finally took pity on him and confessed that the two fresh female assistants had carefully moved all the buttons two inches to the right.

Mrs. Walter Rosa suspects that the scales at her butcher's are not exactly accurate. "What makes me suspicious is this," she reports. "I was there the other day and didn't buy a thing and it weighed four pounds!"

Red Chinese Show Folly Of Weakness

If Russia or Red China were to grab off a sizable chunk of Alaska, no one would expect Washington to react by politely requesting a conference a month or two later with either Khrushchev or Chou En-lai. Immediate and drastic military action would be expected.

But the soft approach is the course taken by Prime Minister Nehru in the invasion of the Himalayas by neighboring Red China. After months of debate and even a few harsh words, Nehru has now suggested to China's Chou En-lai that they meet in New Delhi on April 20 to talk things over.

From this it might be assumed that India doesn't really care about the lost territory, or that it is so friendly to the Communists that it doesn't feel like making an issue of it, or that it is following Ghandi's principles of non-resistance. But all indications from an aroused India show that these aren't the reasons.

India does care, is bitter toward the Communists because of their grab, and isn't anxious to turn the other cheek. Why then the Nehru approach?

Could it not be that Nehru knows he doesn't have the military strength he must have to stand up to the Communists? That he realizes he must negotiate instead of fight?

If so, this points out the folly of the neutralist theory that with good intentions and weak defenses a nation can get along with the Communists. It shows the wisdom of the Western contention that one must deal from strength in any contacts with the Communists.

Nehru, who has lectured the West repeatedly that its insistence on maintaining large defense establishments was the wrong approach to the Communists, may now wish he had more armaments of his own.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

A Mishmash

I have carefully read "Air Reserve Center Training Manual — Student Text — Reserve Non-Commissioned Officer Course—Continental Air Command." The issue of this which I read appeared in a small paper "U.S.A." It is a mishmash of clippings and citations, truths, half-digested material and tells the reader nothing of any very great significance.

If this manual is intended for high school graduates, it is inadequate anti-Communist material. I want to analyze it as an example of what should not be done.

The material deals with espionage and reaches this conclusion:

"Another rather foolish remark often heard is that Americans have a right to know what's going on. Most people realize the foolhardiness of such a suggestion. If a football team should start telling the other side the plays it planned to use, their opponents would sweep them off the field. It's the same in war—hot or cold; if we tell our secrets, we are likely to be beaten, and beaten badly."

Characteristic of the thinking that has gone into this pamphlet, this paragraph contains two separate ideas:

1. It is foolish for the American taxpayer to want to know how his money—with emphasis on the word, his—is being spent;

2. If the truth were known to the enemy, we should be beaten.

The conflict of ideas here is that the power of the budget, under our Constitution, rests in the House of Representatives as the place of origin for appropriations. Not a single item is secret. The taxpayer has the Constitutional right to know how that money is being spent and hearings are held before Congressional committees on this subject.

What needs to be kept secret are strategic and tactical matters and they are sometimes made available to the enemy by military officers in speeches, articles and testimony before Congressional committees.

It is not foolish for the taxpayer to ask questions. That is his civic duty.

Now we come to an unbelievable section of this manual. It is under a subhead, "Communism in Religion," but nothing in it refers to Communism in religion. Obviously that is impossible because Communism, or to use a more correct term, Marxism-Leninism, rejects religion, being atheistic, materialistic and pragmatic. What the author meant to say was that some persons connected with religious organizations were also associated with Communist-front organizations. That does not make religion Communist or any American sect, Marxist. It merely says that certain individuals have a dual and conflicting relationship.

Somehow, the Revised Standard Version of the Bible is brought into this as a form of anti-religious activity. The paragraph on this subject is short, condensed and nonsensical. After all the Bible was not originally written in English. The King James Version, revised or original, is a translation from Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek, just as the Vulgate is and can only be that. There are translations in all languages and some are better than others. Before we quarrel about the perfection of any translation, we must know Hebrew, Aramaic and Greek and the language into which they are translated. There is no Marxist translation of the Bible into any language.

Then there is a long discussion of the misbehavior of individual clergymen. Much of this data is taken from the various hearings of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, but it does not prove that Protestant Christianity should be discarded. I can agree that the judgment of Dr. John A. Mackey, retiring president of Princeton Theological Seminary, on Red China is unsound, but what does that prove about the Revised Standard Version of the Bible?

It is difficult to follow the logic of this and I wonder precisely what such a pamphlet would do to convince a young American that Communism is evil. It concludes on this note:

". . . We believe in the dignity of man—of the right of every individual to choose his manner of living, worship, his occupation, in short, everything that he does, so long as the rights of other individuals are respected. In contrast, the Communists believe the state to be supreme—in individual lives, in family life, in morals, in religion, in government, and in the economics of making a living."

But the manual has nothing to do with this conclusion. In fact, it is a negation of the rights of a worker in religion to pursue his conscience.

Lawyers Amazed At Government's Handling Of Rep. Powell's Tax Case

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON – Lawyers following the Adam Clayton Powell income tax case are flabbergasted at the way the government is trying it. Skeptical attorneys say that while the administration undoubtedly doesn't want to "throw" the case against the Democratic Congressman from Harlem who urged all Negroes to vote for Ike in 1956, it is difficult to see how it could do it better even if it tried.

The Justice Department put one of its ablest young New York attorneys in charge of the case against Powell. But in his opening statement he told the jury that the government would prove frauds of "far greater magnitude" than those alleged in the three-count indictment, which only claimed that the Congressman from Harlem had evaded $3,063 in taxes on the 1951-52 incomes of himself and wife.

Attorneys following the case point out that to charge a defendant with crimes not charged in the indictment is reversible error, and that Powell's attorney has every justification for getting a mistrial.

The attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, one of the best in the business, has already laid the groundwork for such a motion and U. S. District Judge Frederick van Pelt Bryan has twice admonished the government attorney that he is going too far. However, he has reserved final decision.

Assistants Convicted

Morton S. Robson, the prosecuting attorney, understands trial law perfectly. He successfully tried Frankie Costello in his denaturalization case, has handled other important cases for the government. He's one of the best in the Justice Department's New York stable of attorneys.

However, the fact is that his colleague, Assistant U. S. Attorney Thomas A. Bolan, has stated that on March 18, 1957 when he was in charge of the federal grand jury which wanted to indict Powell, he was ordered by Washington to abandon the grand jury investigation of Powell's taxes.

It was not until after publication of the above order a year later, in April, 1958, that a runaway grand jury did indict Powell.

It is a further fact that two of Powell's assistants in his Congressional office in Washington were convicted for tax evasion and a third indicted in salary kickback deals which necessarily involved Powell. This was in 1956. And only now, 1960, has he been brought to trial for alleged tax evasion in 1951-52.

Meanwhile Powell had called at the White House during the 1956 election campaign to work out a plan with Sherman Adams whereby he would switch the Negro vote to Ike. One of Powell's associates who was then present states that in return it was agreed that the White House would ask the Justice Department to call off the tax fraud case against him.

Dirty Water

After President Eisenhower vetoed a $90,000,000 program to clean up the nation's drinking water, spokesmen for the nation's cities and counties began trooping behind closed doors to urge the House Appropirations Committee to try for $50,000,000.

This is $30,000,000 more than the President is willing to spend on water pollution control. Yet his own health experts have warned that more, not less, money is needed to safeguard the public from sewage, filth, chemicals, and radioactive waste in the water they drink.

"Here we have the states and municipalities and the counties all supporting it," snorted Congressman John Fogarty, Rhode Island Democrat, at the closed-door hearing. "They are all for this new bill, and we could not get enough votes in Congress to override the President's veto."

He asked Bernard Hillenbrand, aggressive young director of the National Association of County officials, what he thought of the veto.

"Our general reaction," replied Hillenbrand, "was that the President seemed to consider these (sewage treatment plants) as expenditures whereas we consider them to be more in the nature of an investment. A water pollution control facility helping to purify the nation's water supply is a stimulus to industrial development."

"You think the President is making a big mistake, then," demanded Fogarty.

"Yes," agreed Hillenbrand. "We felt that the actual amount of money that is needed each year is $100,000,000 of federal funds."

"The federal government has power of income tax that local governments do not have," pointed out Congressman Winfield Denton, Indiana Democrat. "When the President vetoed that bill, I wonder if he knew the problem local governments are having. I am sure he did not want people to have dirty water, and our streams polluted."

"Our observation is that we have just about reached the limit under our present resources to finance these things," said Hillenbrand, speaking for hard-up counties. "We have constitutional limits established for our indebtedness."

The Congressman contended that the voters should be more concerned about drinking dangerous water than balancing the budget.

Note—Even Reader's Digest, a pro-Eisenhower magazine, has come out in its March issue with an article warning about the "danger in our drinking water."

Merry-Go-Round

Attention President Eisenhower: If your Secretary of the Treasury Bob Anderson brags that while attending a monetary conference in Salvador he smacked a golf ball an astounding 340 feet, ask him if it isn't true that the ball rolled most of the way down a very steep hill . . . The Congress of Racial Equality (CORE) is working on a northern Negro boycott of stores with branches in both the North and the South. The boycott will first be aimed at Grants, Kresge's, Woolworth's and Belk's—unless their southern outlets serve Negroes at lunch counters. One New York boycott of a Woolworth store cut its business 90 per cent . . . Henry J. Kaiser Jr. is a chip off the old block. He's urging business groups to apply the same efficiency to labor relations that they have to automation . . . Ladies who plopped into the Senate visitors' gallery during the filibuster seemed less interested in the filibuster than in asking for Massachusetts' handsome Sen. Jack Kennedy.

Why Germany's Chancellor Adenauer Worries

By Joseph Alsop

WASHINGTON

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has come to Washington with the aim, almost publicly avowed, of pleading with the President to take a firm line at the summit on the great and agonizing problem of Berlin.

A full sixteen months have passed since Nikita S. Khrushchev opened the unending Berlin crisis with a roar of crude menace. It is very odd indeed, therefore, that the German Chancellor should hope to influence President Eisenhower's policy in any direction whatever. In a normal administration, there would no doubt at all, by now, about the President's position. And the Chancellor would of course know about that position and would have no further hope of changing it, whether for good or ill.

Yet the Chancellor plainly regards the President's position on Berlin as uncertain and subject to change. One reason for this, as previously reported in this space, is the highly equivocal way the President himself has talked about Berlin, even in the highest councils of the Western alliance.

At the Paris meeting in December, for instance, the President remarked to the other heads of state that Berlin's freedom must certainly be defended, but added that Berlin was indefensible except by an H-bomb war, which was unthinkable. This circular statement, getting exactly nowhere, would have upset and worried any man in the German Chancellor's shoes — even a much less suspicious man than Konrad Adenauer.

Yet it should also be noted that Adenauer's worries about Eisenhower are quite certainly multiplied many times over by still another element in the pre-summit situation. This is the attitude of the British.

It is fashionable in many quarters, here, and in Paris, and in Bonn, to condemn this British attitude with extreme severity. Certainly no one can admire the "Germans-are-beastly" campaign that is now being waged in London. It unpleasantly recalls the "Czechs-are-ghastly-people" campaign that was waged in London before Munich, which was simply the preliminary self-justification of the advocates of betrayal of Czechoslovakia.

Yet the actual British attitude on Berlin does not deserve such widespread condemnation. It starts with the President's second and third premises, that Berlin can only be defended by an H-bomb war, which is unthinkable. It goes on from there to advocate almost any kind of concession to Khrushchev, up to and including de facto recognition of East Germany, but not including surrender of the political freedom of the West Berliners. This may be an utterly wrong attitude, as most American policy-makers passionately believe. But it is at least straightforward rather than circular, coldly logical rather than vaguely optimistic.

The moment when this British attitude was most openly manifested was in the second round of last year's Foreign Ministers meeting on Berlin. Not long after the Foreign Ministers re-assembled at Geneva, British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd disclosed to Secretary of State Christian A. Herter new instructions which he had just received from Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. These required Lloyd to propose new concessions to the Soviet viewpoint going far beyond the West's agreed "Geneva package."

Lloyd did not act on his instructions, because Herter told him in effect, "We've just asked Khrushchev for the weekend, so you'd better wait a bit." This was how the British learned of the Eisenhower invitation to Khrushchev a little before the other allies.

Since then, much effort has been devoted, in all the various working groups, to make sure that the British will not do in the future, at the summit, what Lloyd so nearly did at Geneva. The American policy-makers on the working level profess to be much encouraged by the results of these efforts. Yet the strong possibility remains that when and if the going gets rough at the summit, Prime Minister Macmillan will quickly revert to the policy outlined in his instructions to Lloyd at Geneva.

The existence of this strong possibility in turn raises some crucial questions that are as yet wholly unanswerable. What will the President do, if the Western united front is broken by a sudden British retreat? Will Eisenhower also retreat, and reform his front on the line marked out by Prime Minister Macmillan? Or will Eisenhower stand firm, alone if need be, and fight the issue out on the ground he has chosen?

These questions are all the more troubling, because of the signs that the President himself has not fully thought through his terrible, quite possibly impending choice between surrender and a risk of war. No wonder, then, that Chancellor Adenauer has come to plead for firmness, and to beg for hard commitments on the problem of Berlin.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

LITERATURE — This year's crop of presidential aspirants has been likened to baseball players, football players, automobiles and missiles. However, it took a woman to give them book titles.

The woman in question is Rep. Katherine St. George, New York Republican. She dealt only with the Democratic candidates, of course, and said the titles were rejected by leading publishers "on the ground that the manuscripts were too factual to become political best sellers."

The St. George list:

"One Man's Family," by Jack Kennedy; "For 2 Cents Plain," by Hubert Humphrey; "Rebel Without a Cause," by Wayne Morse; "Grimm's Fairy Tales," by Paul Butler; "Come North With Me," by Lyndon Johnson; "My Brother's Keeper," by Bobby Kennedy; "Great Expectations," by Stuart Symington; "Vanity Fair," by Jack Kennedy's barber; "Letters for All Occasions," by Harry Truman, and "Hateful Thoughts for Happy Occasions," by the editors of the Democratic Digest.

GREAT AUTHORITY—At a recent session of the Supreme Court, Justice Felix Frankfurter quoted Prof. Archibald Cox of the Harvard Law School, in dissenting from an opinion in a labor case written by Justice William J. Brennan Jr.

Frankfurter termed Cox "one of the most experienced students of labor law" in quoting him in opposition to Brennan's decision.

In the very next case, Brennan again wrote the decision. This time it was Brennan who quoted Professor Cox, calling him "a close student of our national labor relations laws."

Frankfurter and Brennan are the two Harvard Law School graduates on the high court.

The Wonder Drugs And The Common Cold

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Most colds respond to bed rest and the use of fruit juices and steam inhalations. Distress is relieved by simple medications such as aspirin, in combination with a decongestant and an antihistaminic agent. This is the fastest and safest treatment. In addition, the infection remains at home and is not passed along to others on the bus or at the office, plant, store, or school.

What about an antibiotic such as penicillin or erythromycin or perhaps one of the sulfonamides? These drugs do not affect the viruses of colds and are not recommended unless fever persists for two or more days or complications are developing. In such instances, the antibiotics or sulfa drugs are effective against a wide range of respiratory micro-organisms.

But they are far from perfect. These products are effective against bacteria like streptococci and staphylococci and will work wonders in sore throat and nasal congestion caused by these organisms. But they will not kill the viruses responsible for the flu or the common cold.

Most cold victims are wasting their money on antibiotics. They may get better despite this treatment but it is surprising how often these drugs prolong the duration of a respiratory infection, especially if bacteria are involved. This is not the fault of the antibiotic but the victim.

A sore throat or nasal cold develops and the person takes penicillin, erythromycin, or tetracycline—hoping to get well quickly. On the third day he feels so well the medicine is stopped. Symptoms return within 24 hours, and the procedure is repeated but the results are not as good as previously. The total time required to get well is longer than it would have been if the individual had gone to bed and used conservative remedies.

The antibiotics are wonder drugs but they must be used properly or not at all. Once a suitable antibiotic is started, it should be continued until the infection is gone.

ARTERY HARDENING

E. M. N. writes: Is stroke due to hardening of the arteries?

REPLY

Yes, in the majority of instances. It also may follow hemorrhage into the brain from blood vessels that are weakened through imperfections (aneurysm) or injuries. Many of us associate high blood pressure with strokes but before the blood vessels in the brain break or become obstructed because of the increased tension, they become hardened and narrowed. A normal vessel rarely ruptures.

EFFECT OF PILLS

Mrs. J. B. writes: When I take pills to curb appetite, my eyes blur. Do you think I'm allergic to these tablets?

REPLY

No. Unpleasant side reactions follow the use of many drugs. Bring this symptom to the attention of your physician because you may have a coexisting eye condition.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

The Persian Room darkens. The tall draperies draw to a close. The band falls silent. The clink of fork against plate stops. Three hundred pairs of eyes swing to a small door beside the dance floor. It bursts open and a tall, slender blonde comes through. Thirteen pink, blue and yellow spotlights pick her up and the audience breaks into a surf of applause.

Hildegarde is on. She is laughing and lovely, the epitome of femininity. She wears a rich gold and white brocaded gown with matching stole, and she holds a microphone in a dainty kerchief, petalled outward like a flower. Her dainty feet carry her close to the tables of diners, and she sings to them "Darling, Je Vous Aime Beaucoup" and Massenet's "Elergy" and "Li'l Marlene" and others, gaily flirtatious or sadly romantic.

She is a one-woman show, as always, and she holds her audience for 70 minutes. Hildegarde joshes the men at the ringside table, calls greetings to celebrities, makes a quick change to black velvet and a sable stole, and leaves with an ovation.

It has been a long climb for the grocer's daughter. Once, she was a gawky kid in New Holstein, Wisconsin. In school, she was Miss Hildegard Loretta Sell. After school, she helped in the store, weighing sugar, doling out cans of condensed milk. She had dreams. But who hasn't?

Hildegarde and her two sisters studied music. The girls had the example of a mother who was a church organist and a father who played drums. Hildegarde studied further at St. John's Cathedral and, in time, became one of the most intensely religious personalities in show business.

The road to the top was never easy. She played piano as the only girl in a 12-piece orchestra; she was one of four girls in an old vaudeville act called Jerry and Her Baby Grands. She was a piano accompanist for a couple of baseball players: Mickey Cochrane and Charley Grimm.

Always, Hildegarde was clawing, scratching, climbing her way to the top. She met Anna Sosenko. This woman had no chance of making it herself, but she knew all the signposts on the road, and could read them. Anna stood behind Hildegarde, and, through years of nagging, threatening, ordering, fashioned the gawky kid into a preening bird of paradise.

Together, they scaled the heights. Hildegarde sang at the wedding of the Duke of Kent; whispered "Did You Ever See a Dream Walking?" to King Gustav of Sweden; sang Anna's composition, "Darling Je Vous Aime Beaucoup" at the jubilee of George V of England; became the idol of Paris; sang private concerts for the President of France, M. Albert LeBrun; came back to America in triumph.

They were close, Hildegarde and Anna. But they split some years ago and very few people know why. Hildegarde lifted her nose a notch higher and went on alone. Today, she spends almost all her offstage time studying singing, or reading religious books. Recently, she helped three young seminarians through to the priesthood.

Her charities are multitudinous, and cover more than one religion. Her old gowns go to nuns, and are made into vestments. Much of her mail is from charitable organizations begging help from her or else they perish. She gives, and she asks no publicity for it.

This makes her a theatrical schizophrenic, who is gay and Frenchy on the nightclub floor, and who, alone with her old Negro maid, seriously seeks salvation. A third side is Hildegarde the businesswoman. This one earns about $200,000 a year, not counting the income from oil wells named after her.

In her one-woman show, she is conscious of being the idol of millions of schoolteacherish women, who think of her as everything they would like to be. She is also witty. Recently, a man shouted that he would like to hear her sing "Mack The Knife." "I don't know the words," she shouted back, "but I'll sing Jack the Fork for you."

Romance? She says she had three love affairs in her life, and that two of the men died. No one knows. Today, Hildegarde is 54, looks thirtyish, has a figure like Miss America, and is one of the best-dressed women in the world.

She moves from city to city, forever on tour. She has no home, no man, no children. Friends? That depends on what city she is in. Hildegarde is on top, but she hasn't even got an address . . .

County Board Acts On Health Unit Budget

Commissioner John T. Mason yesterday announced that the Allegany County Board of Commissioners had acted on the budget for the Health Department for the fiscal year starting July 1 and cut the amount of county funds by $3,232.78.

The county had been asked for $91,528.74 and the board shaved several items to make the county's participation $88,295.96.

Mason said two public health nurses who are retiring will not be replaced.

In the mental health services the commissioners curtailed the number of days for psychiatric clinic to two with the clinician being paid $5,000. In the current budget the amount of the psychiatrist's salary was $8,800, according to Commissioner Mason.

The travel allowance in two areas of the Health Department was cut a total of $762.

The commissioners included $7,000 for a polio vaccine program in the schools and also $3,000 for various vaccines in clinics.

The overall budget for the health agency for the coming fiscal year will be $226,528.74. The state will provide $138,232.78 in matching funds while matching funds provided by the county will total $86,535.96.

Keyser Kiwanis Club Reviews Town Expansion

Anderson Notes Need For Growth

KEYSER — I. Fred Anderson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and a member of the Housing Committee of Keyser, spoke on "Major Expansion in Keyser," at the Keyser Kiwanis Club meeting Wednesday evening. He was introduced by Henry Hornack, chairman of business and public affairs for club.

Mr. Anderson said "the expansion in Keyser will be the first since the city took over South Keyser in 1912. The new border will run from slightly above Congressman Harley Staggers' bridge on New Creek and west to include Carskadon Lane, Potomac College Farm, crossing Thunder Head Run near White Farms.

"A low rent housing project which will improve South Keyser is under consideration. The improvement will give Keyser a great bonding capacity," he observed.

"The population of Keyser in the present set-up is about 6300 and will expand to about 8500 in the new set-up."

David Nuzum of Potomac State College then spoke on what the improvements will mean to the individual affected. He said, "as it is Keyser is now a class seven city. Taxes may go higher but this will be absorbed by the insurance savings, paved streets, city water, fire and police protection."

An open forum followed. Joseph Wimer was song leader with Robert Whitlach at the piano. Donald Heare gave the invocation.

Presbyterians At Keyser Plan New Church

KEYSER—Important decisions on the proposed building program of the Keyser Presbyterian Church will be made Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at a specially called congregational meeting.

Dr. E. E. Church, chairman of the planning committee, will present recommendations regarding the dimensions and architect's drawings, and regarding finances. A special committee on financing is headed by Dr. T. T. Huffman and Attorney N. Howard Rogers.

A few years ago the church purchased property at State and Mineral Streets, and has since purchased additional adjoining property. Plans have been drawn by Architect Hugh Giffin, A.I.A. of Philadelphia, and accumulated funds have been invested.

Every church member is urged to be present. The meeting will be of great interest and of crucial significance in setting the date for construction of a new church.

Frostburg Merchants Plan More Active Organization

FROSTBURG — Lowell Sowers Sr., of the Public Relations Department at Frostburg State Teachers College, spoke at a recent meeting of the Frostburg Merchants Association in the social room of Salem United Church of Christ.

A dinner was served by the ladies of the church, followed by a business session at which Edward P. Flanigan, recently elected president, took charge.

James Attig, secretary, read two letters. The first was from Edmund C. Mester, executive assistant to Gov. Millard Tawes, who thanked the association for asking the governor to reconsider the appropriation for added funds for the two dormitories at the college. The second letter from R. Bowen Hardesty, president of FSTC, had been written to City Council requesting that the campus be considered as a business area and that plans be made for snow removal and additional cindering there.

Hardesty stated that the bi-weekly payroll at the college amounts to $28,000 which is a considerable size. He pointed out that he was not entering any complaints due to the recent snow storms and that the proposition had been under study for some time. He also said that there are currently 1,200 people on the college campus who travel the Frostburg streets and that the enrollment of the college is now moving towards the 1,500 to 2,500 mark and will add further traffic in years to come.

Flanigan announced that the board had decided on seven permanent committees for the group. A chairman will be selected for each committee and he in turn will select the members to work with him. Announcement of the completed committees will be made as soon as possible.

James H. Swadley Jr., president, said 238 people had subscribed to shares in the Mill Creek Improvement Company and that stock subscription will be closed with the sale of an additional 14 shares.

Mr. Snyder advises he will be at bridge site today and will give me further report on progress."

The telegram was received Wednesday. The bridge span in Jackson County is being dismantled for use at the Buzzard Ford bridge and will be erected after the present abutment is shored up. The public meeting scheduled for March 19 has been cancelled.

Keyser Kiwanis Club Reviews Town Expansion

Anderson Notes Need For Growth

KEYSER — I. Fred Anderson, president of the Chamber of Commerce, Rotary Club and a member of the Housing Committee of Keyser, spoke on "Major Expansion in Keyser," at the Keyser Kiwanis Club meeting Wednesday evening. He was introduced by Henry Hornack, chairman of business and public affairs for club.

Mr. Anderson said "the expansion in Keyser will be the first since the city took over South Keyser in 1912. The new border will run from slightly above Congressman Harley Staggers' bridge on New Creek and west to include Carskadon Lane, Potomac College Farm, crossing Thunder Head Run near White Farms.

"A low rent housing project which will improve South Keyser is under consideration. The improvement will give Keyser a great bonding capacity," he observed.

"The population of Keyser in the present set-up is about 6300 and will expand to about 8500 in the new set-up."

David Nuzum of Potomac State College then spoke on what the improvements will mean to the individual affected. He said, "as it is Keyser is now a class seven city. Taxes may go higher but this will be absorbed by the insurance savings, paved streets, city water, fire and police protection."

An open forum followed. Joseph Wimer was song leader with Robert Whitlach at the piano. Donald Heare gave the invocation.

Presbyterians At Keyser Plan New Church

KEYSER—Important decisions on the proposed building program of the Keyser Presbyterian Church will be made Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at a specially called congregational meeting.

Dr. E. E. Church, chairman of the planning committee, will present recommendations regarding the dimensions and architect's drawings, and regarding finances. A special committee on financing is headed by Dr. T. L. Huffman and Attorney N. Howard Rogers.

A few years ago the church purchased property at State and Mineral Streets, and has since purchased additional adjoining property. Plans have been drawn by Architect Hugh Giffin, A.I.A. of Philadelphia, and accumulated funds have been invested.

Every church member is urged to be present. The meeting will be of great interest and of crucial significance in setting the date for construction of a new church.

Frostburg Merchants Plan More Active Organization

FROSTBURG — Lowell Sowers Sr., of the Public Relations Department at Frostburg State Teachers College, spoke at a recent meeting of the Frostburg Merchants Association in the social room of Salem United Church of Christ.

A dinner was served by the ladies of the church, followed by a business session at which Edward P. Flanigan, recently elected president, took charge.

James Attig, secretary, read two letters. The first was from Edmund C. Mester, executive assistant to Gov. Millard Tawes, who thanked the association for asking the governor to reconsider the appropriation for added funds for the two dormitories at the college. The second letter from R. Bowen Hardesty, president of FSTC, had been written to City Council requesting that the campus be considered as a business area and that plans be made for snow removal and additional cindering there.

Hardesty stated that the bi-weekly payroll at the college amounts to $28,000 which is a considerable size. He pointed out that he was not entering any complaints due to the recent snow storms and that the proposition had been under study for some time. He also said that there are currently 1,200 people on the college campus who travel the Frostburg streets and that the enrollment of the college is now moving towards the 1,500 to 2,500 mark and will add further traffic in years to come.

Flanigan announced that the board had decided on seven permanent committees for the group. A chairman will be selected for each committee and he in turn will select the members to work with him. Announcement of the completed committees will be made as soon as possible.

Maple Syrup Season Is Sweetest Time For Score Of States And In Canada

By FRANK WATSON
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND — Motorists traveling through New England, the Middle West or Canada this month will enjoy an attraction found only in North America—the maple syrup festival season.

Thousands of visitors will watch farmers gather buckets of sap from maple trees—average yield is from five to 15 gallons a tap—and boil off the sap, turning it into syrup, sugar, butter, cream, syrup-on-snow taffy and other delicacies.

The Meyersdale, Pa., syrup festival, slated for April 1, 2 and 3 is second in importance only to the Geauga county festival at Chardon, 30 miles from Cleveland. The Chardon festival, which follows a week later, draws half a million visitors from all parts of the country.

Visitors can see syrup-gathering at 500 farms in the Chardon area where some 200,000 maple trees are tapped. They will buy approximately 75,000 gallons of syrup, while watching antique shows, horse-pulling, cake-baking and wood-cutting contests, concerts and parades.

The Meyersdale festival, 50 miles southeast of Johnstown, Pa., features the crowning of Queen Maple, banquets, balls, parades, oldtime fiddler concerts, square dancing and taffy pulling.

Vermont Is Leader

Vermont is the leading syrup-producing state by a wide margin, but doesn't have a state festival. Even so, the many sugar camps—like those at Morgan and Caan—provide for parties, especially those who like sugar-on-snow.

In these, snow is packed in barrels and placed in deep freeze lockers. Later the snow is put into large soup plates and hot syrup is spooned over the snow. The chewy syrup is then wound around a fork for eating.

Some one thousand producers attend maple syrup schools in New York state, which ranks behind Vermont. One of the state's showplaces is a sugar bush plant at Cooperstown, not far from the Baseball Hall of Fame.

Other states holding festivals are Wisconsin, Michigan, Maryand, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Minnesota. Smaller producers are Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Connecticut, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Virginia and West Virginia.

Canada Top Producer

Canada, however, is a larger producer — by about one-third — than the United States. Canada exports almost two-thirds as much as is produced in the United States. The province of Quebec produces about 85 per cent of the Canadian product.

The season varies from place to place and from year to year. The time is ripe when warm days alternate with cool nights and winter starts to break up.

A shortage of labor has caused a downward trend in maple syrup production since World War I, but there is no shortage of trees. New York has tapped less than three per cent of some 73 million tappable trees.

Incidentally, only two of the 13 species of maple trees give sap of any use and these are found only in the United States and Canada.

A farmer has to boil down about 35 gallons of sap to get one gallon of syrup. Life begins at 40 for the trees because they don't produce good flows of sap until then.

Today, on many farms, plastic tubes collect the sap from taps and carry it to storage tanks or the evaporator. Precision instruments like the hydrometer and refractometer are turning it into a more highly-mechanized business.

However, there still are places where maple syrup buffs can stand near the old-fashioned kettles and watch the sap boil away into a tasty maple syrup that goes well with hot pancakes and sausages.

Typical Scene At Sugar Time

This scene will be repeated many times in the maple sugar country, shortly after the sap starts to run and weather begins to get warmer. Every member of the family on farms where maple sugar and syrup are produced take part in the annual harvest.

Maple Syrup Season Is Sweetest Time For Score Of States And In Canada

By FRANK WATSON
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND — Motorists traveling through New England, the Middle West or Canada this month will enjoy an attraction found only in North America—the maple syrup festival season.

Thousands of visitors will watch farmers gather buckets of sap from maple trees—average yield is from five to 15 gallons a tap—and boil off the sap, turning it into syrup, sugar, butter, cream, syrup-on-snow taffy and other delicacies.

The Meyersdale, Pa., syrup festival, slated for April 1, 2 and 3 is second in importance only to the Geauga county festival at Chardon, 30 miles from Cleveland. The Chardon festival, which follows a week later, draws half a million visitors from all parts of the country.

Visitors can see syrup-gathering at 500 farms in the Chardon area where some 200,000 maple trees are tapped. They will buy approximately 75,000 gallons of syrup, while watching antique shows, horse-pulling, cake-baking and wood-cutting contests, concerts and parades.

The Meyersdale festival, 50 miles southeast of Johnstown, Pa., features the crowning of Queen Maple, banquets, balls, parades, oldtime fiddler concerts, square dancing and taffy pulling.

Vermont Is Leader

Vermont is the leading syrup-producing state by a wide margin, but doesn't have a state festival. Even so, the many sugar camps—like those at Morgan and Caan—provide for parties, especially those who like sugar-on-snow.

In these, snow is packed in barrels and placed in deep freeze lockers. Later the snow is put into large soup plates and hot syrup is spooned over the snow. The chewy syrup is then wound around a fork for eating.

Some one thousand producers attend maple syrup schools in New York state, which ranks behind Vermont. One of the state's showplaces is a sugar bush plant at Cooperstown, not far from the Baseball Hall of Fame.

Other states holding festivals are Wisconsin, Michigan, Maryland, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Minnesota. Smaller producers are Kentucky, Maine, Maryland, Connecticut, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Virginia and West Virginia.

Canada Top Producer

Canada, however, is a larger producer — by about one-third — than the United States. Canada exports almost two-thirds as much as is produced in the United States. The province of Quebec produces about 85 per cent of the Canadian product.

The season varies from place to place and from year to year. The time is ripe when warm days alternate with cool nights and winter starts to break up.

A shortage of labor has caused a downward trend in maple syrup production since World War I, but there is no shortage of trees. New York has tapped less than three per cent of some 73 million tappable trees.

Incidentally, only two of the 13 species of maple trees give sap of any use and these are found only in the United States and Canada.

A farmer has to boil down about 35 gallons of sap to get one gallon of syrup. Life begins at 40 for the trees because they don't produce good flows of sap until then.

Today, on many farms, plastic tubes collect the sap from taps and carry it to storage tanks or the evaporator. Precision instruments like the hydrometer and refractometer are turning it into a more highly-mechanized business.

However, there still are places where maple syrup buffs can stand near the old-fashioned kettles and watch the sap boil away into a tasty maple syrup that goes well with hot pancakes and sausages.

Typical Scene At Sugar Time

This scene will be repeated many times in the maple sugar country, shortly after the sap starts to run and weather begins to get warmer. Every member of the family on farms where maple sugar and syrup are produced take part in the annual harvest.

Sunny Skies Start Thaw In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Sunny skies and rising temperatures Thursday melted snow that was hindering driving on many West Virginia roads. The State Road Commission reported all roads clear.

Earlier Thursday, driving conditions on many roads in the Eastern Panhandle was hazardous because of a new snow storm that left up to 12 inches of snow.

However, the mercury rose as high as 52 degrees in some sections of the state Thursday afternoon and the sun shone brightly.

The Charleston Weather Bureau said there was a chance of scattered snow flurries in the northern portion of the state Friday but that's about all the snow that is expected to fall.

It will be cloudy over much of the state Friday but the sun is expected to break through in some sections. Friday's highs will range in the upper 30's and low 40's.

Congressman Pays Tribute To Mine Rescue Teams

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John M. Slack Jr. (D-W. Va.) paid tribute Thursday to rescue teams that tried for eight days to reach 18 miners entombed in a mine near Logan, W. Va.

He said in a House speech that their courage "branded the untruth" to statements that the coal miner is "shiftless" and afraid to migrate from home when he loses his job.

"Their superhuman efforts have met only disappointment," he said.

However, Slack said that the work done by the miners proved "there are no human beings superior to the men of Holden."

"These men are literally without fear. They worked around the clock—exposed to blinding smoke, 130-degree heat, and the deadly fumes of carbon monoxide gas."

Slack said that in recent years some have charged that unemployed miners "are looking for a federal handout, that they are shiftless, and should migrate from their homes to seek work elsewhere, rather than wait for economic development."

He made the statement in urging passage of an economic development bill.

He added: "The men of Logan have this very week branded the untruth of such comments in the steaming fire of the Holden mine.

"There is no more demanding and dangerous way of life than mining and the miner loves the mountains in which he was born. When next you hear talk of depressed areas, remember these men."

Sunny Skies Start Thaw In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—Sunny skies and rising temperatures Thursday melted snow that was hindering driving on many West Virginia roads. The State Road Commission reported all roads clear.

Earlier Thursday, driving conditions on many roads in the Eastern Panhandle was hazardous because of a new snow storm that left up to 12 inches of snow.

However, the mercury rose as high as 52 degrees in some sections of the state Thursday afternoon and the sun shone brightly.

The Charleston Weather Bureau said there was a chance of scattered snow flurries in the northern portion of the state Friday but that's about all the snow that is expected to fall.

It will be cloudy over much of the state Friday but the sun is expected to break through in some sections. Friday's highs will range in the upper 30's and low 40's.

Congressman Pays Tribute To Mine Rescue Teams

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John M. Slack Jr. (D-W. Va.) paid tribute Thursday to rescue teams that tried for eight days to reach 18 miners entombed in a mine near Logan, W. Va.

He said in a House speech that their courage "branded the untruth" to statements that the coal miner is "shiftless" and afraid to migrate from home when he loses his job.

"Their superhuman efforts have met only disappointment," he said.

However, Slack said that the work done by the miners proved "there are no human beings superior to the men of Holden."

"These men are literally without fear. They worked around the clock—exposed to blinding smoke, 130-degree heat, and the deadly fumes of carbon monoxide gas."

Slack said that in recent years some have charged that unemployed miners "are looking for a federal handout, that they are shiftless, and should migrate from their homes to seek work elsewhere, rather than wait for economic development."

He made the statement in urging passage of an economic development bill.

He added: "The men of Logan have this very week branded the untruth of such comments in the steaming fire of the Holden mine.

"There is no more demanding and dangerous way of life than mining and the miner loves the mountains in which he was born. When next you hear talk of depressed areas, remember these men."

Allegany, Northern And LaSalle In Action Tonight

Campers Face Bladensburg High Cagers

Surrattsville Tests Huskies; Explorers Meet John Carroll

Allegany High School's Campers and Northern High School's Huskies will compete in the semi-final round of the Maryland public high school basketball tournament at College Park and LaSalle High School's Explorers will play a quarter final round game in the 7th annual Knights of Columbus Tournament at Georgetown University tonight.

The Campers have been the winningest tournament team in Maryland and will be participating in the state event for the 14th time in 27 years. Allegany has copped 11 titles — eight prior to 1940 when open tournaments were held and three in 13 years since class tournaments started in 1947. No school in Maryland can come close to matching this record.

Campers Face Mustangs

Coach Chester G. Payne's Allegany quint is slated to face the Bladensburg High Mustangs of Prince Georges County in a Class A semi-final tonight at 7:30 at Cole Field House, University of Maryland. This is the fifth of six games on the opening day's program involving Class A, B and C schools.

Allegany has won 16 of 23 games while the Blades have copped 19 of 22. The Prince Georges County team is sparked by Jay Buckley, 6-foot-10 center, who is touted as being one of the outstanding players in the Washington Metropolitan area this season, and Tommy Barrett, another 6-footer, who is regarded as a fine outside shot.

The Campers' last appearance in the College Park event was in 1956 when they lost to Northwestern of Hyattsville in the finals. Allegany last won the title in 1954 when it knocked off Annapolis and Bethesda-Chevy Chase, the defending champion in this year's tourney. In 1953 Allegany got to the finals but lost to Montgomery Blair's Blazers of Silver Spring.

Tonight's second Class A semi-final brings together Milford Mill of Baltimore County and Bethesda-Chevy Chase of Montgomery County at 9 o'clock.

Winners of these two contests will tangle in the finals Saturday at 9 o'clock.

Northern Is First

Northern High School's Huskies hold the distinction of being the first team from Garrett County ever to qualify for the state tourney.

Coach Alvin Jones' Huskies whipped Middletown and Hancock to get a shot at the state Class B crown after a poor season during which they won only 4 of 16 contests.

The Huskies are slated to face Surrattsville High School in a Class B semi-final at 6 p.m. today.

Allegany county teams have won eight of the last 11 Class B state tities and Northern will try to uphold that reputation for the western section of the state.

Three afternoon games are on tap at College Park as follows:

1:00—Poolesville vs. North East (Class C semi-final).

2:30—Francis Scott Key vs. Easton (Class B semi-final).

4:00—Walkersville vs. Crisfield (Class C semi-final).

The Class B final is set for Saturday at 7:30 and will be preceded by the Class C title tilt at 6 o'clock.

LaSalle Tackles "Giant"

LaSalle High's Explorers are rated as the "underdogs" tonight when they face John Carroll High School of Washington, defending champions and winner of 48 consecutive games, in the first round of the K. of C. tournament at the capital at 8:30 p.m.

There is a consolation round connected to this tourney so LaSalle if defeated tonight will still be eligible to play on Saturday.

The Explorers of Coach George Geatz will be engaging in their 25th game of the campaign. They have won 22 and lost two.

The Washington tourney gets under way at 5:30 with St. Catherine's of Racine, Wis., meeting Loyola High of Batlimore. At 7 p.m., St. John's Cadets of Washington, D.C., will oppose Archbishop Stepanic of New York. In the final first round game at 10:15 St. James of Chester, Pa., will meet St. Gregory's of Shawnee, Okla.

Semi-finals in the K. of C. event are billed for Saturday while the finals are carded for Sunday at 2:30 p.m., preceded by a consolation contest.

LaSalle In 14th

This is LaSalle's 14th tournament. The Explorers have won only once in the past 13 and that was in the Eastern States Catholic Interscholastic at Newport, R.I., in 1944.

Chips Off The Block

Seven Preakness winners now at stud have sons which are eligible for the 84th running of the race at Pimlico on May 21. The former champions are Citation, Alsab, Count Fleet, Hill Prince, Bimelech, Polynesian and Hasty Road.

Park Place Disqualified For Sunday School Final

St. Luke's Champion, Presbyterians Play Trinity Meth. Today

Park Place Methodist's team has been disqualified as a contender for the playoff title in the American Division of the Sunday School Basketball League and also forfeited its right to the regular season championship as the result of the disclosure that one of its players was overage.

St. Luke's Lutheran, which finished the regular season in second place, was declared champion of the American division, replacing Park Place Methodist in first place.

Action was taken on the protest last night at a meeting of the league at the YMCA.

Park Place voluntarily forfeited after the overage charge was brought against one of its players.

The disqualification brought two teams back into the playoffs, namely, First Presbyterian and Trinity Methodist, who were beaten by Park Place. Presbyterian and Trinity Methodist will play today at 6:30 at the "Y" and the winner will meet Trinity Lutheran in the final at 3:30 on Saturday.

In the National Division finale at 2 p. m., Saturday, St. Paul's will play Centenary.

Playoffs Under Way In "Y" Men's League

Old Furnace, St. Luke's, Kingsley and the Cumberland Globes advanced to the semi-finals in the YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League by winning opening round games last night at the "Y."

Old Furnace beat Zion Reformed, 64-37, St. Luke's won via the forfeit route from Ridgeley, Kingsley topped St. John's, 41-36 and the Globes eliminated the Y.M.C.A., 66-50.

In semi-finals today, Old Furnace plays St. Luke's at 7:30 p.m., and the Globes oppose Kingsley at 8:30 p.m.

The final game is set for Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Bradley Beats Bonnies, 82-71, Reaches Finals

Providence Downs Utah State, 68-62

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Sophomore Chet Walker, feared drugged before the game, scored 27 points in 23 minutes of play Thursday night and fired top-seeded Bradley into the finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament with an 82-71 decision that snapped St. Bonaventure's 18-game winning streak.

Unseeded Providence joined Bradley in the final, blowing a 10-point halftime lead before storming back behind Johnny Egan, Len Wilkens and Jim Hadnot for a 68-62 victory over second-seeded Utah State. The double-header drew a capacity crowd of 18,496 to Madison Square Garden, where the nationally televised final will be played at 4 p.m. (EST) Saturday.

Report To Police

Walker, a 6-foot-7 sophomore, from Benton Harbor, Mich., who leads Bradley in scoring, drank a glass of orange juice delivered to his midtown hotel room by an unknown person Thursday. He became sick shortly thereafter and Coach Chuck Orsborn reported the incident to police. A test of the juice turned up no suspicious elements but the outcome was not known until after the game. Meanwhile, Orsborn kept shuttling Walker in and out of the lineup for examination and treatment and the youngster responded with a brilliant performance when he was on the court. Bradley's Al Saunders also drank the juice but was not affected.

The Providence Friars, who raced into a 36-26 lead at the half, lost their touch in the first eight minutes after the intermission, and Utah State fought back to a 42-42 tie.

In another three minutes the Aggies built a 49-47 lead before the Friars from Rhode Island found themselves and regained the lead.

They built it to 57-51, saw that chopped to 57-56, then pulled away as Hadnot hit five points and clutch guys Egan and Wilkens two apiece in the last three minutes.

Win 11th In Row

It was the 11th victory in a row and the 24th in 28 games for the Friars who lost to Bradley 57-55 at Peoria during the regular season.

Wilkens led the Friars with 18 points. Egan had 16 and Hadnot 10, plus 13 big rebounds. Cornell Green and Dick Schofield had 19 apiece for the Aggies who wound up with a 23-5 record. Utah State ranked eighth in the final Associated Press poll, while Providence was pegged 14th.

With Walker's play limited, another sophomore, 6-foot-5 Mack Herndon of Chicago, gave the Braves a big helping hand with 22 points, 16 of them in the second half. Between the two big sophs, St. Bonaventure gradually withered, despite another big night by the Stith brothers, Tom and Sam.

Tom Stith Gets 34

Tom, a 6-foot-5 junior who was runnerup to Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson in the national scoring race, had 34 points while Sam the 6-foot-2 senior, who has been stealing the show here this week, added 20. In three games in the NIT, Tom has scored 86 points and Sam 84.

Move Made To Sell Syracuse NBA Club

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — A move was underway Thursday night to sell the Syracuse Nationals in the National Basketball Association.

Emil Colozzi, a former vice president and director of the club, said he was trying to get the backing of 51 per cent of the stockholers to put the Nats on the market for $300,000.

A Los Angeles group was considered the most interested buyer.

Club President Don Biasone, however, was cold to the idea and said, "Let him (Colozzi) go ahead and try."

The move to sell came only a day after Paul Seymour resigned as coach of the Nats.

Allegany, Northern And LaSalle In Action Tonight

Campers Face Bladensburg High Cagers

Surrattsville Tests Huskies; Explorers Meet John Carroll

Allegany High School's Campers and Northern High School's Huskies will compete in the semi-final round of the Maryland public high school basketball tournament at College Park and LaSalle High School's Explorers will play a quarter final round game in the 7th annual Knights of Columbus Tournament at Georgetown University tonight.

The Campers have been the winningest tournament team in Maryland and will be participating in the state event for the 14th time in 27 years. Allegany has copped 11 titles — eight prior to 1940 when open tournaments were held and three in 13 years since class tournaments started in 1947. No school in Maryland can come close to matching this record.

Campers Face Mustangs

Coach Chester G. Payne's Allegany quint is slated to face the Bladensburg High Mustangs of Prince Georges County in a Class A semi-final tonight at 7:30 at Cole Field House, University of Maryland. This is the fifth of six games on the opening day's program involving Class A, B and C schools.

Allegany has won 16 of 23 games while the Blades have copped 19 of 22. The Prince Georges County team is sparked by Jay Buckley, 6-foot-10 center, who is touted as being one of the outstanding players in the Washington Metropolitan area this season, and Tommy Barrett, another 6-footer, who is regarded as a fine outside shot.

The Campers' last appearance in the College Park event was in 1956 when they lost to Northwestern of Hyattsville in the finals. Allegany last won the title in 1954 when it knocked off Annapolis and Bethesda-Chevy Chase, the defending champion in this year's tourney. In 1953 Allegany got to the finals but lost to Montgomery Blair's Blazers of Silver Spring.

Tonight's second Class A semi-final brings together Milford Mill of Baltimore County and Bethesda-Chevy Chase of Montgomery County at 9 o'clock.

Winners of these two contests will tangle in the finals Saturday at 9 o'clock.

Northern Is First

Northern High School's Huskies hold the distinction of being the first team from Garrett County ever to qualify for the state tourney.

Coach Alvin Jones' Huskies whipped Middletown and Hancock to get a shot at the state Class B crown after a poor season during which they won only 4 of 16 contests.

The Huskies are slated to face Surrattsville High School in a Class B semi-final at 6 p.m. today.

Allegany county teams have won eight of the last 11 Class B state tities and Northern will try to uphold that reputation for the western section of the state.

Three afternoon games are on tap at College Park as follows:

1:00—Poolesville vs. North East (Class C semi-final).

2:30—Francis Scott Key vs. Easton (Class B semi-final).

4:00—Walkersville vs. Crisfield (Class C semi-final).

The Class B final is set for Saturday at 7:30 and will be preceded by the Class C title tilt at 6 o'clock.

LaSalle Tackles "Giant"

LaSalle High's Explorers are rated as the "underdogs" tonight when they face John Carroll High School of Washington, defending champions and winner of 48 consecutive games, in the first round of the K. of C. tournament at the capital at 8:30 p.m.

There is a consolation round connected to this tourney so LaSalle if defeated tonight will still be eligible to play on Saturday.

The Explorers of Coach George Geatz will be engaging in their 25th game of the campaign. They have won 22 and lost two.

The Washington tourney gets under way at 5:30 with St. Catherine's of Racine, Wis., meeting Loyola High of Batlimore. At 7 p.m., St. John's Cadets of Washington, D.C., will oppose Archbishop Stepanic of New York. In the final first round game at 10:15 St. James of Chester, Pa., will meet St. Gregory's of Shawnee, Okla.

Semi-finals in the K. of C. event are billed for Saturday while the finals are carded for Sunday at 2:30 p.m., preceded by a consolation contest.

LaSalle In 14th

This is LaSalle's 14th tournament. The Explorers have won only once in the past 13 and that was in the Eastern States Catholic Interscholastic at Newport, R.I., in 1944.

Chips Off The Block

Seven Preakness winners now at stud have sons which are eligible for the 84th running of the race at Pimlico on May 21. The former champions are Citation, Alsab, Count Fleet, Hill Prince, Bimelech, Polynesian and Hasty Road.

Park Place Disqualified For Sunday School Final

St. Luke's Champion, Presbyterians Play Trinity Meth. Today

Park Place Methodist's team has been disqualified as a contender for the playoff title in the American Division of the Sunday School Basketball League and also forfeited its right to the regular season championship as the result of the disclosure that one of its players was overage.

St. Luke's Lutheran, which finished the regular season in second place, was declared champion of the American division, replacing Park Place Methodist in first place.

Action was taken on the protest last night at a meeting of the league at the YMCA.

Park Place voluntarily forfeited after the overage charge was brought against one of its players.

The disqualification brought two teams back into the playoffs, namely, First Presbyterian and Trinity Methodist, who were beaten by Park Place. Presbyterian and Trinity Methodist will play today at 6:30 at the "Y" and the winner will meet Trinity Lutheran in the final at 3:30 on Saturday.

In the National Division finale at 2 p. m., Saturday, St. Paul's will play Centenary.

Playoffs Under Way In "Y" Men's League

Old Furnace, St. Luke's, Kingsley and the Cumberland Globes advanced to the semi-finals in the YMCA Senior Men's Basketball League by winning opening round games last night at the "Y."

Old Furnace beat Zion Reformed, 64-37, St. Luke's won via the forfeit route from Ridgeley, Kingsley topped St. John's, 41-36 and the Globes eliminated the Y.M.C.A., 66-50.

In semi-finals today, Old Furnace plays St. Luke's at 7:30 p.m., and the Globes oppose Kingsley at 8:30 p.m.

The final game is set for Saturday at 7:30 p.m.

Cresaptown Plans Baseball Meeting

A meeting of the Cresaptown baseball organization will be held tonight at 7 o'clock at the Fire Hall in Cresaptown.

All persons interested are invited to attend.

The organization sponsors two teams in the Pen-Mar Little League and one team in the Bi-State Pony League.

Bradley Beats Bonnies, 82-71, Reaches Finals

Providence Downs Utah State, 68-62

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Sophomore Chet Walker, feared drugged before the game, scored 27 points in 23 minutes of play Thursday night and fired top-seeded Bradley into the finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament with an 82-71 decision that snapped St. Bonaventure's 18-game winning streak.

Unseeded Providence joined Bradley in the final, blowing a 10-point halftime lead before storming back behind Johnny Egan, Len Wilkens and Jim Hadnot for a 68-62 victory over second-seeded Utah State. The double-header drew a capacity crowd of 18,496 to Madison Square Garden, where the nationally televised final will be played at 4 p.m. (EST) Saturday.

Report To Police

Walker, a 6-foot-7 sophomore, from Benton Harbor, Mich., who leads Bradley in scoring, drank a glass of orange juice delivered to his midtown hotel room by an unknown person Thursday. He became sick shortly thereafter and Coach Chuck Orsborn reported the incident to police. A test of the juice turned up no suspicious elements but the outcome was not known until after the game. Meanwhile, Orsborn kept shuttling Walker in and out of the lineup for examination and treatment and the youngster responded with a brilliant performance when he was on the court. Bradley's Al Saunders also drank the juice but was not affected.

The Providence Friars, who raced into a 36-26 lead at the half, lost their touch in the first eight minutes after the intermission, and Utah State fought back to a 42-42 tie.

In another three minutes the Aggies built a 49-47 lead before the Friars from Rhode Island found themselves and regained the lead.

They built it to 57-51, saw that chopped to 57-56, then pulled away as Hadnot hit five points and clutch guys Egan and Wilkens two apiece in the last three minutes.

Win 11th In Row

It was the 11th victory in a row and the 24th in 28 games for the Friars who lost to Bradley 57-55 at Peoria during the regular season.

Wilkens led the Friars with 18 points. Egan had 16 and Hadnot 10, plus 13 big rebounds. Cornell Green and Dick Schofield had 19 apiece for the Aggies who wound up with a 23-5 record. Utah State ranked eighth in the final Associated Press poll, while Providence was pegged 14th.

With Walker's play limited, another sophomore, 6-foot-5 Mack Herndon of Chicago, gave the Braves a big helping hand with 22 points, 16 of them in the second half. Between the two big sophs, St. Bonaventure gradually withered, despite another big night by the Stith brothers, Tom and Sam.

Tom Stith Gets 34

Tom, a 6-foot-5 junior who was runnerup to Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson in the national scoring race, had 34 points while Sam the 6-foot-2 senior, who has been stealing the show here this week, added 20. In three games in the NIT, Tom has scored 86 points and Sam 84.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — Rained out of their scheduled exhibition game with Milwaukee at Bradenton, the Dodgers played a squad game Thursday afternoon, which ended when storm warnings were posted in the sixth inning.

The Reisers edged the Bryants, 6-4, with Ed Roebuck the winning pitcher and Johnny Podres the loser. Podres gave up two runs on four hits in their innings, while Roebuck allowed two hits, one run and a walk.

One of the hits off Roebuck was a 425-foot home run by Willie Davis, the rookie of the year and most valuable player in the California League (Reno) last year.

Kuenn To Play

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI)—Harvey Kuenn and Charley Maxwell, Detroit Tiger outfield stars held back in spring training because of prolonged holdouts, are scheduled for their first exhibition action Friday against the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Tigers and Cardinals were rained out at St. Petersburg Thursday.

Rain Halts Cards

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI) — Experiencing their third straight postponement, the St. Louis Cardinals Thursday missed their first practice of the spring because of heavy rain that kept them off Al Lang field.

To make up for the loss of competitive action, General Manager Bing Devine, who previously had arranged a B team game for Friday at Clearwater against Philadelphia, hopefully added another "B" contest there for next Monday.

Phils Go South

CLEARWATER, Fla. (UPI) — Rained out of their exhibition game for the third straight day, the Phillies headed south for a workout Thursday.

Manager Eddie Sawyer transported the players by bus to Palmetto, Fla., to the local high school field for a workout.

The heavy rains of the past few days have made the field at Jack Russell Stadium a quagmire, and it may not be usable for another couple of days.

Braves Wield Axe

BRADENTON, Fla. (UPI)—The Milwaukee Braves made their first squad cut of the spring Thursday, sending six young players to farm clubs.

Catcher Ron Henry was turned over to the Louisville affiliate, which also is training here; pitchers Tony Cloninger, Denver LeMaster and Larry Maxie, infielder Denis Menke and first baseman - outfielder Len Gabrielson were shipped to the minor league camp at Waycross, Ga., for assignment. None was on the Braves' roster.

Move Made To Sell Syracuse NBA Club

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (UPI) — A move was underway Thursday night to sell the Syracuse Nationals in the National Basketball Association.

Emil Colozzi, a former vice president and director of the club, said he was trying to get the backing of 51 per cent of the stockholers to put the Nats on the market for $500,000.

A Los Angeles group was considered the most interested buyer.

Club President Don Biasone, however, was cold to the idea and said, "Let him (Colozzi) go ahead and try."

The move to sell came only a day after Paul Seymour resigned as coach of the Nats.

Romney Is Favorite In Morgantown Class AA Tourney

Clendenin Is Opening Foe Of Pioneers

Meet Today At 2; Piedmont To Play In Morning Game

By JERRY GOULD
United Press International

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — The 47th West Virginia high school basketball tournament opens Friday morning at Mountaineer Fieldhouse with definite favorites in two divisions and a toss-up in the third.

Unbeaten Romney is given the edge in Class AA and Ansted in Class A. In the "big" school Class AAA section, Montgomery, Huntington and Parkersburg all are capable of carrying off the title won last year by South Charleston.

The busy first - day schedule opens Friday at 9 a.m. when Class A teams begin their first round. Class AA activity follows in the afternoon and Class AAA games at night.

Piedmont In Opener

The schedule:

Class A—9 a.m.: Paden City (21-4) vs. Piedmont (19-5), 10:45 a.m.: Rainelle (18-6) vs. Ansted (23-1).

Class AA —2 p.m.: Romney (25-0) vs Clendenin (19-6), 3:45 p.m.: Oceana (23-1) vs. Clay-Battelle (17-7).

Class AAA —7:30 p.m.: Parkersburg (17-5) vs. Elkins (14-10), 9:15 p.m.: Huntington (21-1) vs. Montgomery (24-0).

The Class A and Class AA finals are Saturday afternoon and the Class AAA title game Saturday night.

Montgomery, ranked No. 1 this season by the UPI Board of Coaches, and Huntington are expected to provide the first round feature action while the Romney -Clendenin contest could produce the next best tussle.

Hampered By Illness

Both Montgomery and Huntington will be hampered by illness and injury to regulars. Larry (Butch) Ballard of Montgomery has been battling the flu and 6-foot-5 Huntington center Bob Barrett has been sidelined with a knee injury.

However, both are expected to see at least some action in the Friday night finale.

Romney is sparked by All-Stater Bill Maphis who has averaged over 33 points a game this season and 27.1 in his four varsity seasons.

Win 15 Straight

Clendenin has won 15 consecutive games and that string includes victories over both Charleston and Stonewall Jackson. It also beat strong Huntington Vinson in the Class AA regionals.

Ansted isn't accustomed to losing and won the old Class B tournament in 1958 while Parkersburg was capturing the old Class A honor.

In the past three seasons, the Highlanders have amassed a 72-2 record and have been in the state tournament each year.

Ansted has more than ample height in 6-8 junior Mason Fox at center and Sonny and Bill Alport, both 6-4, at forwards. Its sparkplug is 5-9 Larry Miller, a regular for three seasons.

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP)—The San Francisco Giants staged a three-run eighth inning rally to defeat the Boston Red Sox 4-3 Thursday.

It was the first loss in five Cactus League exhibition baseball starts for the Red Sox.

Right fielder Orlando Cepeda crashed a two-run double to left to highlight the Giants eighth. Then Willie Kirland singled home Cepeda for the winning run.

California Is 3-Point Choice Over Cincinnati

Ohio State Rated 6 Points Over NYU In NCAA Semi-Final

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Defending champion California was installed Thursday as a three-point favorite to whip Cincinnati and Ohio State was rated six points over New York University in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball playoffs Friday night.

San Francisco, playing host to its first national cage tournament, was going slightly ga-ga over the tournament—with hopes pinned on the home-area Golden Bears.

The huge Cow Palace, which seats around 16,000 has been sold out for a month and Thursday scalpers were asking—and getting —as high as $50 for a pair of seats. The trouble was, they complained, that they couldn't get enough of them to supply the demand.

The first game, between Ohio State and NYU, is slated to start at 10:30 p.m. e.s.t. The second at 12:30 a.m. e.s.t. The California - Cincinnati game will be televised regionally — with the NCAA lifting its ban on televising after thousands of northern Californians protested they couldn't get tickets.

Leaned Towards California

The championship game Saturday night, between Friday night's winners, also will be televised.

While the professional oddsmakers leaned toward California and Ohio State for the finals, the coaches of all four teams agreed that there couldn't be a favorite in this foursome.

All four clubs worked out in the Cow Palace Thursday as the players stretched their legs on the glossy hard-court there. California has played there before—but not this year. The newcomers even tried throwing a ball as high as the ceiling — but none could reach it.

Cincinnati Coach George Smith wouldn't predict the outcome of the Bearcats' battle with California.

Bears Won Last Year

"All I can say is that we are here to do a job," said Smith.

The underdog Golden Bears upset Cincinnati in this same spot last year and then went on to win the crown.

Mantle Injury Is Only Scare

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) —Mickey Mantle's knee injury turned out to be nothing more than a scare.

Dr. Sydney Gaynor, team physician for the New York Yankees, gave this report Thursday after the $65,000-a-year outfielder underwent X-rays of his right knee at a hospital here.

Mantle's knee became inflamed during workouts and Mickey feared it might be a recurrence of the injury he suffered in the 1951 World Series, resulting in an operation.

"The X-rays show negative," Dr. Gaynor said. "That is, there are no bone chips and no pathology. It's more a scare than anything else."

Chisox Score Third Shutout

Orioles Lose In Tenth, 3-2

Rookie Posada's Hit Wins For K.C.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Rookie Leo Posada's single with two out in the tenth inning drove in Wayne Terwilliger and gave the Kansas City Athletics a 3-2 victory Thursday over the Baltimore Orioles in an exhibition baseball game.

Terwilliger was on third base via a leadoff walk off right-hander John Anderson, Russ Snyder's sacrifice and an advancing infield roller by Bill Tuttle.

The Orioles' 11 - hit offensive against Ray Herbert, Don Larsen and John Tsitouris could produce only two fourth inning scores on successive doubles by Gene Woodling and Gus Triandos and Dave Nicholson's single.

Woodling had three hits in as many at-bats and Nicholson and John Powell had two each for the Birds.

The win was Kaycee's fourth in six starts. The Orioles, who won their first three in a row, now stand at 3-3.

Giants File Suit In Flowers' Case

TUPELO, Miss. (UPI)—A federal court suit was filed Thursday against All-America fullback Charles Flowers of the University of Mississippi to keep him from playing football with any pro team other than the New York Giants.

The law firm of Lumpkin, Holland & Ray served papers on Flowers at Oxford, Miss.

Flowers declined to discuss the case.

Also named defendant along with Flowers was the Los Angeles Chargers, the team for which Flowers wants to play.

The court action would enjoin Flowers from playing football with any team other than the Giants. The suit attempts to restrain the Los Angeles Chargers from interfering with the contract which Flowers signed with the Giants.

Flowers has been quoted as saying that he would not play for the Giants.

James Finds Bull-Pen Duty O. K. - With The Yankees!

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Seldom does a rookie pitcher come up to the big leagues as a bullpen, not a starting, hopeful.

However, such is the case of John James, a 165-pound righthander who is expected to stick with the Yankees this year — strictly in relief.

The 26-year-old "youngster," with seven years minor league ball behind him, was one of the hottest things in the minors last year as he did bullpen duty for Richmond, saving 19 games, winning nine games and losing six and sporting an earned-run average of 1.91.

Everybody, from Casey Stengel on down, is impressed with this boyish-looking righthander and, while James would rather be a starting pitcher, he's satisfied to stay on the firemen's brigade if he can stick with the Yanks.

Ed Lopat worked with James at Richmond and helped him become more than just a thrower. "He showed me the change of pace and taught me how to keep the ball down," says James.

A starting pitcher in his early days in baseball, James has been virtually on relief since 1955. He did make four starts in 1957, at Richmond, and won three of them, all by 1 to 0 scores.

James played three sports in high school in Los Angeles but he admits he was "lousy" as a pitcher—won only three games in three years. At Southern California he played little baseball. He had shown enough on the sandlots, however, and he took a Yankee offer of $1,500.

In his first season, he had a 14-9 record at Boise, then moved on up to Modesto, Binghamton and Richmond. He pitched one game for the Yankees in 1958.

BOWIE, Md., March 17 (AP) —Mrs. Fred Finkenstaedt's Exodo liked the watery going of the Bowie Race Track today and won the featured $4,000 St. Patrick's Day Purse by an easy 4½ lengths.

The crowd of 7,308 had put most of its money on Montpelier's Nahodah and Shoestring Stable's Ashlar, a stakes performer.

Nahodah finished second and Ashlar was fourth behind Young Warrior.

Exodo slopped around the three-quarters of a mile in the good time of 1:12 with Philip Grimm in the saddle. The winner's payoffs were $9.80, $3.80 and $2.80.

Although Jockey Bobby Corle couldn't get Ashlar moving, he was the riding star of the program by winning three of the nine races. He rode both winners in the $76.20 daily double.

The Bedford county (Pa.) jockey has booted home 14 winners at the current meeting.

Romney Is Favorite In Morgantown Class AA Tourney

Clendenin Is Opening Foe Of Pioneers

Meet Today At 2; Piedmont To Play In Morning Game

By JERRY GOULD
United Press International

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — The 47th West Virginia high school basketball tournament opens Friday morning at Mountaineer Fieldhouse with definite favorites in two divisions and a toss-up in the third.

Unbeaten Romney is given the edge in Class AA and Ansted in Class A. In the "big" school Class AAA section, Montgomery, Huntington and Parkersburg all are capable of carrying off the title won last year by South Charleston.

The busy first - day schedule opens Friday at 9 a.m. when Class A teams begin their first round. Class AA activity follows in the afternoon and Class AAA games at night.

Piedmont In Opener

The schedule:

Class A—9 a.m.: Paden City (21-4) vs. Piedmont (19-5), 10:45 a.m.: Rainelle (18-6) vs. Ansted (23-1).

Class AA —2 p.m.: Romney (25-0) vs Clendenin (19-6), 3:45 p.m.: Oceana (23-1) vs. Clay-Battelle (17-7).

Class AAA —7:30 p.m.: Parkersburg (17-5) vs. Elkins (14-10), 9:15 p.m.: Huntington (21-1) vs. Montgomery (24-0).

The Class A and Class AA finals are Saturday afternoon and the Class AAA title game Saturday night.

Montgomery, ranked No. 1 this season by the UPI Board of Coaches, and Huntington are expected to provide the first round feature action while the Romney-Clendenin contest could produce the next best tussle.

Hampered By Illness

Both Montgomery and Huntington will be hampered by illness and injury to regulars. Larry (Butch) Ballard of Montgomery has been battling the flu and 6-foot-5 Huntington center Bob Barrett has been sidelined with a knee injury.

However, both are expected to see at least some action in the Friday night finale.

Romney is sparked by All-Stater Bill Maphis who has averaged over 33 points a game this season and 27.1 in his four varsity seasons.

Win 15 Straight

Clendenin has won 15 consecutive games and that string includes victories over both Charleston and Stonewall Jackson. It also beat strong Huntington Vinson in the Class AA regionals.

Ansted isn't accustomed to losing and won the old Class B tournament in 1958 while Parkersburg was capturing the old Class A honor.

In the past three seasons, the Highlanders have amassed a 72-2 record and have been in the state tournament each year.

Ansted has more than ample height in 6-8 junior Mason Fox at center and Sonny and Bill Alport, both 6-4, at forwards. Its sparkplug is 5-9 Larry Miller, a regular for three seasons.

California Is 3-Point Choice Over Cincinnati

Ohio State Rated 6 Points Over NYU In NCAA Semi-Final

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Defending champion California was installed Thursday as a three-point favorite to whip Cincinnati and Ohio State was rated six points over New York University in the semifinals of the NCAA basketball playoffs Friday night.

San Francisco, playing host to its first national cage tournament, was going slightly ga-ga over the tournament—with hopes pinned on the home-area Golden Bears.

The huge Cow Palace, which seats around 16,000 has been sold out for a month and Thursday scalpers were asking—and getting—as high as $50 for a pair of seats. The trouble was, they complained, that they couldn't get enough of them to supply the demand.

The first game, between Ohio State and NYU, is slated to start at 10:30 p.m. e.s.t. The second at 12:30 a.m. e.s.t. The California - Cincinnati game will be televised regionally — with the NCAA lifting its ban on televising after thousands of northern Californians protested they couldn't get tickets.

Leaned Towards California

The championship game Saturday night, between Friday night's winners, also will be televised.

While the professional oddsmakers leaned toward California and Ohio State for the finals, the coaches of all four teams agreed that there couldn't be a favorite in this foursome.

All four clubs worked out in the Cow Palace Thursday as the players stretched their legs on the glossy hard-court there. California has played there before—but not this year. The newcomers even tried throwing a ball as high as the ceiling — but none could reach it.

Cincinnati Coach George Smith wouldn't predict the outcome of the Bearcats' battle with California.

Bears Won Last Year

"All I can say is that we are here to do a job," said Smith.

The underdog Golden Bears upset Cincinnati in this same spot last year and then went on to win the crown.

Mantle Injury Is Only Scare

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Mickey Mantle's knee injury turned out to be nothing more than a scare.

Dr. Sydney Gaynor, team physician for the New York Yankees, gave this report Thursday after the $65,000-a-year outfielder underwent X-rays of his right knee at a hospital here.

Mantle's knee became inflamed during workouts and Mickey feared it might be a recurrence of the injury he suffered in the 1951 World Series, resulting in an operation.

"The X-rays show negative," Dr. Gaynor said. "That is, there are no bone chips and no pathology. It's more a scare than anything else."

Chisox Score Third Shutout

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP)—Rookie pitchers Ed Hobaugh, Gary Peters and Stover McIlwain gave Washington one hit Thursday as the Chicago White Sox defeated the Senators 1-0. It was the third shutout victory by the Sox and their fifth in six Grapefruit League baseball games.

Steve Korcheck had the only Washington hit — an infield single to deep short.

Orioles Lose In Tenth, 3-2

Rookie Posada's Hit Wins For K.C.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Rookie Leo Posada's single with two out in the tenth inning drove in Wayne Terwilliger and gave the Kansas City Athletics a 3-2 victory Thursday over the Baltimore Orioles in an exhibition baseball game.

Terwilliger was on third base via a leadoff walk off right-hander John Anderson, Russ Snyder's sacrifice and an advancing infield roller by Bill Tuttle.

The Orioles' 11 - hit offensive against Ray Herbert, Don Larsen and John Tsitouris could produce only two fourth inning scores on successive doubles by Gene Woodling and Gus Triandos and Dave Nicholson's single.

Woodling had three hits in as many at-bats and Nicholson and John Powell had two each for the Birds.

The win was Kaycee's fourth in six starts. The Orioles, who won their first three in a row, now stand at 3-3.

Former Prisoner Of Japanese Believes In Putting Brotherhood Ideal To Work

By LOUIS CASSELS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "I figure," said Col. Paul Rusch, "that this brotherhood of man deal is not something you talk about, but something you do."

He was perched on the edge of a hotel room chair, a bald, stubby man of 60, with a cigaret drooping incongruously from his cherubic face. He was trying to explain, in the earthy vernacular of a retired army officer, how he came to be the most effective and beloved Christian missionary in postwar Japan.

Rusch has been a devout Episcopal layman all his life. But he never had the vaguest notion of becoming a missionary. "I got hooked into this thing before I quite realized what was happening," he said.

The "hooking" began way back in 1925, when Rusch went to Japan on what was to be a brief business trip. He stayed for 17 years, teaching economics at St. Paul's University. After Pearl Harbor, he was interned for six months and then repatriated to the United States. He entered the U.S. Army as an intelligence officer and in 1945 he found himself back in Tokyo as a member of Gen. Douglas MacArthur's staff.

Japan was destitute, its people hungry and disillusioned. Rusch felt that as a Christian, he had a direct personal obligation to help these former enemies — and to help them in a practical way.

So Rusch set out to be helpful to the Japanese. He decided their most urgent need was to increase food production. At that time, 85 per cent of Japan's total land area was regarded too rocky and mountainous for farming.

Rusch, who was born and reared in hilly Kentucky farm country, obtained a lease on 857 acres of unused mountain land in the Kyosato section, 70 miles west of Tokyo. With his own salary, and contributions from other American Army and Navy personnel, he bought a second-hand bulldozer and began clearing the land. He drafted his service friends to work over the weekends putting in roads, buildings and barns.

By 1948, Rusch was operating a successful demonstration farm and showing the local Japanese families they could grow corn, pumpkins, string beans and dozens of other food crops. He called his pilot center the Kyosato Educational Experiment Project —KEEP for short.

From the outset, KEEP was much more than a demonstration farm. The first building Rusch completed was a chapel, which he named St. Andrew's Church. He recruited a young Japanese Christian minister from Tokyo to serve as its pastor. Soon he opened a small hospital, also staffed by Japanese doctors and nurses.

In 1949, Rusch came home to America to seek funds for expansion of KEEP. He traveled across the country speaking to Episcopal church groups about this project. He asked for cash contributions — and for old golfballs, which he knew he could sell for a handsome price in newly golf - conscious Japan. He went back to Japan with $12,000 for KEEP.

KEEP has been growing ever since. In 1952, Rusch began bringing in American breeds of cattle and chickens, which — in spite of dire predictions — have thrived in the Japanese mountains.

Today there is a briskly growing cattle and poultry industry in rural Japan. Rusch has a simple system of spreading the new wealth. KEEP gives a farmer 10 chickens to begin his flock. The farmer pays for them by agreeing to give 10 of his own chickens to his neighbor as soon as his flock is well established.

St. Andrew's Church now has nearly 1,000 members, and has established five "mission stations" in nearby communities. The hospital has 20 beds, modern surgical facilities, and an outpatient clinic that treated 10,000 persons last year. There is a traveling rural library, and a conference center to which farmers come from all over Japan to learn the new methods.

AMISHMEN SERVING 5-DAY PRISON TERMS—Nine Amish fathers, opponents of violence and advocates of the simple life, huddle in a West Chester, Pa., courtroom after being sentenced to 5-day prison terms for refusing to pay fines for not sending their children to a new high school because, they say, the school is "too worldly." Their children have been attending classes for three hours every Tuesday in a farmhouse-school.

85 DAYS ARE HOLIDAYS

NEW YORK (UPI) — Eighty-five days out of 1960's total of 366 are holidays somewhere in the United States and its possessions, the Manufacturers Trust Co. reports.

And these 85 days do not include the 52 Sundays which fall in every year. However, only 11 of these holidays are observed in New York City.

Whistle Of Love

ZOMBA, Nyasaland (UPI) — The strange beast of the Nyasaland rain forest which fell madely in love with a blue tractor was identified Thursday as a subspecies of a chimpanzee.

The "ufiti" sat fascinated and eavesdropped whenver human beings appeared but it went into raptures of joy when the whistle blew on a blue tractor working in the jungle.

This is a photo of the greatest advance in whisky blending in 25 years. Taking the same fine whiskies always reserved for Schenley, we now put them through a completely new and costly blending step. They are whirled in a specially-designed vat by stainless steel blades rotating at a constant speed and literally whipped into a smoothness never before attainable. Bids On Seeds Are Asked By West Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The State Purchasing Department said Thursday it would open bids March 28 on $10,000 worth of garden seeds to be used by the state's unemployed families to grow their own food.

The seed will be put into about 5,000 kits that will be distributed to the needy families.

Bids will be received on lettuce, carrot, radish, kale, beet, collard and bean seeds and onion sets that will be put into the kits.

Gov. Cecil H. Underwood last week advanced the agriculture department $15,000 from his contingent fund to get the gardening program under way.

Agriculture Commissioner John T. Johnson will meet Monday with West Virginia Agriculture Extension Service Representatives to discuss further details of the program. Johnson said the service may be able to set up a distribution center in each county.

The gardening program was approved by the recent Legislature but it provided no money for it until after July 1, and by then many crops will be in the later stages of development.

Court Is Asked To Uphold Low Farm Tax Rate

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The state argued in the Court of Appeals Thursday that a tax break for farmers in suburban areas is necessary to provide a "breathing period" in rapidly expanding urbanization.

The state attempted to convince the high court that a Maryland law permitting lower tax assessments on agricultural land is reasonable and serves a public purpose.

Before granting the state attorney general's office an opportunity to reargue its case, the high court ruled last Jan. 19 that the tax break did not meet the two requirements of a valid exemption.

John M. Jones Jr., assistant attorney general, in his reargument, said 3,700 farmers in the Baltimore - Washington metropolitan areas receive the tax break.

He said 1,300 farmers were affected in Baltimore County, 692 in Howard, 1,250 in Montgomery and 500 in Prince Georges.

Many of these farmers, he said, will be forced to sell their land to developers if their land is not assessed solely at its agricultural value.

The tax break also serves a public purpose, he added, in keeping a food supply near the cities and in preventing "so - called open spaces" from being grabbed up for development purposes.

Jones admitted that probably in the long run the farm land will be absorbed by developments, but the tax exemption will provide time for better planning urban expansion.

In attempting to overcome the high court's objection that the exemption only affects a special group of farmers, Jones compared it with drought benefits given farmers.

This is an example of a tax benefit, he said, which is not given to all farmers but only the ones affected by drought. He added that by the year 2000 every farmer in the state may be faced with the same problem now facing farmers in urban areas.

Jones asked the high court to send the case back to Howard County Circuit Court for further proceedings if it did not reverse its original ruling.

By remanding the case, he said, it would give the state a better opportunity to show the tax exemption serves a public purpose.

Charles E. Hogg, representing a group of Howard County property owners, maintained the court was correct in ruling the tax break unconstitutional.

He argued it is an unreasonable exemption to a special group of farmers.

the Vatican to help Kung Ping-Mei in carrying out traitorous activities, and Chen Chen-Min, Chang Hsi-Pin, and 13 others, to form the nucleus and set up a traitorous counter - revolutionary clique and carried out a series of traitorous activities in an organized and planned way through the religious institutions under their control.

"James Edward Walsh, the veteran United States imperialist spy who personally directed the Kung Ping-Mei counter-revolutionary clique, came to China in 1948 when the Chinese Peoples Revolution was approaching victory and the Chiang Kai-shek reactionary rule was on the verge of total collapse. Dispatched by United States imperialists and the Vatican, he came to China together with Cardinal Francis Spellman, United States imperialist, to make counter-revolutionary "emergency" arrangements with a view to undermine the Chinese Peoples Revolution cause.

Sabotage Claimed

"Walsh was left in China as the secretary-general of the 'Catholic Central Bureau.' Being in direct control of this reactionary organization, he directed the counter - revolutionary elements hidden in the Catholic Church to carry out sabotage activities.

"Due to active support by United States imperialists the traitorous counter - revolutionary clique headed by Kung Ping-Mei under the cloak of religion persisted in its efforts to undermine the various political movements in the country and the implementation of state policies, laws and decrees.

"It persisted in its efforts to sabotage the anti-imperialist and patriotic movements of China all over the country, persecuted patriotic Catholics, invented and circulated rumors, advocated aggressive war by United States imperialists, undermined the peace movement, colluded with and offered shelter to imperialist spies, and collected restricted state information, harbored special agents and counter-revolutionaries, worked to undermine the land reform movement and the movement to suppress counter-revolution, set up secret counter-revolutionary organizations and trained special agents, incited young people to flee the country, secretly stored arms and ammunition, and maintained clandestine radio communications and coordinated their actions with United States imperialist aggression and the efforts by the Chiang Kai-shek gang to make a comeback.

"Crimes Were Very Serious"

"Their crimes were very serious. For example, they collected espionage information on the number, equipment, logistic support and . . . air radio messages of the Chinese Peoples Volunteers in Korea and on China's national defense industries.

"This traitorous counter-revolutionary clique also actively helped the counter-revolutionary organization, the "Revolution Party of National Salvation," to establish counter-revolutionary bases in the villages near Shanghai and plotted armed uprisings. Arms, ammunition, radio communication equipment and reactionary flags of the Kung Min-tang hidden by these counter - revolutionists in churches and schools under their control were found when the ring was unearthed by the public security organization. In addition, this traitorous counter-revolutionary clique secretly set up prisons in the churches to persecute Catholics. A Catholic nun was shut up in a church prison for ten months.

"The court has meted out to the accused the punishment they deserve in accordance with the regulations of the Chinese Peoples Republic on punishment for counter-revolutionary . . . and taking into account the concrete case of the culprits and their expressions of repentance. Kung Ping-Mei was sentenced to imprisonment and deprivation of political rights for life. (Sentences of the other 13 varied from five to 20 years.)

"All the arms, ammunition, radio communications equipment, gold, United States currency, and other things found in the possession of the culprits were confiscated. The court also announced that the terms of imprisonment were to be counted from the date of trial and the number of days of detention before the passing of sentence would be deducted from the terms of the sentences."

"All the arms, ammunition, radio communications equipment, gold, United States currency, and other things found in the possession of the culprits were confiscated. The court also announced that the terms of imprisonment were to be counted from the date of trial and the number of days of detention before the passing of sentence would be deducted from the terms of the sentences."

The Garden of Eden has traditionally been placed in Mesopotamia, the latter name being from the Greek meaning "Land Between the Rivers."

East made a brilliant recovery from his partner's inept opening attack to sink an aggresively bid four no trump contract today.

North rates a demerit for each of his bids. Holding 17 high card points with evenly balanced distribution, he has virtually the classic requirements for a one no trump opening, a choice which obviates any rebid problems. South properly responded with two no trump to his partner's one club bid, and North now committed the further indiscretion of inviting a slam. The raise to four no trump asks South to bid six if his original response was based on maximum values. Inasmuch as North has 17 points and the most his partner can have is 15 there can be no reasonable chance for a slam. South, of course, declined the invitation since he has only 13 points.

Against four no trump, West opened the three of hearts which would not have been our choice. With an entryless holding we prefer to help establish partner's suit and therefore favor either a spade or a diamond lead. South permitted the heart opening to ride around to his hand and East put in the nine, not wishing to surrender control of the suit.

A club was led to the nine in dummy and East once more played low. This had the effect of forcing declarer to open up one of the other suits. South returned to his hand with a diamond to repeat the club finesse. East captured dummy's ten with the queen and returned a second diamond. When he got in with the ace of clubs he cleared the diamonds to establish a thirteener. South still had to drive out the ace of hearts which enabled East to cash the setting trick.

Had West led either a spade or a diamond originally, declarer would never had had a chance. But once the heart was opened, it was necessary for East to execute his ducking maneuvers in order to elicit South's aid in recovering the lost timing.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—As much as I disliked "Sweet Bird of Youth," I realized when I saw the Tennessee Williams play in New York that Geraldine Page was giving one of the all-time great performances of the theatre. Little wonder that Hal Wallis was crowing when he called me from New York to say that he has Geraldine signed for "Summer and Smoke," another movie excursion into Tennessee Williams.

What's more, Hal has Laurence Harvey set to co-star with Miss Page, Larry playing the part created on Broadway by Paul Newman. The third glittering name on producer Wallis' package is British Peter Glenville to direct. It won't go until December because that is as soon as Hal could get Harvey.

Miss Page's tests for the movie were made soon after she arrived in Los Angeles for "Sweet Bird of Youth" at the Biltmore. Hal says they are greater than her stage work—but maybe he's prejudiced.

There soon will be an important TV announcement out of MGM, and I hope I'm not jumping the gun. I have just heard that the studio has made one of the biggest literary coups in years. MGM's London representative has closed, or is about to close a big deal with the famous British mystery writer Agatha Chritie for all the rights to a long list of her books and short stories, to convert them into TV properties.

Agatha wrote "Witness for the Prosecution," which was a great mystery story, and if you like mystery tales, and who doesn't occasionally, you'll like Agatha Christie, who like old wine gets better with the years.

A tired but happy Betty Hutton telephoned to say she had been rehearsing all day with her mother, Mabel, her sister Marian, and her two daughters Lindsay and Candy.

"We are doing my life story," said Betty. "The kids play Marian and me, and Mother strums a guitar. I think it will be the best TV show we've ever had. Mother is loving every minute of it, and so are the children. Marian and I are taking it in our stride."

Well, I agree with Betty that it's a novel idea to say the least. It will be shown in June.

Interesting that Maria Schell, who is doing "Ninotchka" for David Susskind on TV in New York, has never seen Garbo in this famous comedy about Russia. "Sometimes I think I should see it," Maria said, "but then if I see Garbo I'm afraid I'd never have the courage to follow her. I think I should give my own interpretation and not try to copy Miss Garbo."

I told Maria (who will be seen in this show April 20) that sad as it seems, many of the younger generation do not even know Garbo and she could never be accused of imitation.

Maria will be met by her husband in New York and she will be there eight weeks filming this spectacular.

What a surprise if Ava Gardner comes here for the Academy Awards! Yet Bea Gardner, Ava's sister and companion who planed into Hollywood a few days ago, tells me she wouldn't be surprised if Ava arrives in time for our big night.

Bea said she left Ava in Madrid with her own little circle of friends, although she has sold her house there. "Ava will go to London soon," said Bea, "and will take at least six months vacation now that she has finished her movie 'Temptation' in Rome for Nunnally Johnson."

Despite the tug it must have been to move out of his home with Hope Lange and the children, Don Murray went ahead with his rehearsals on "Alas, Babylon," a dramatic bomb yarn, for Playhouse 90. Don is a serious minded boy and you can bet he is taking this hard.

If the actors strike ends soon (and pray it does) Don returns to 20th to complete "One Foot in Hell." This picture ends his contract with 20th Century-Fox and then his friends expect he will go to Sardinia, the locale of the refugee camp in which he has put so much of his money and effort.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

What Happened To The Reform?

Already CBS is almost sold out for next year. Mostly, the program schedule is what might be described as quality junk. Well, perhaps junk is too strong a word. There will be an almost uninterrupted flow of bread and butter programs — situation comedy, shoot-em-ups, quizzes. There will be almost no serious programming worth mentioning. What ever happened to the great reform wave that was supposed to sweep the beach clean?

It's business as usual all over Madison Avenue. The clamor is dying down. The industry is firmly back in the hands of the advertising agencies and the breakfast food companies who are sturdily underestimating everyone's intelligence but their own. The schedule will be full of darling little husband and wife shows in which the children are adorable little monsters. There will be another underwater show. There will be something like twelve more Westerns—just when we thought that madness was dying down. There will not be on single new regular dramatic program of any serious nature.

In an excellent article in the current "McCall's" magazine, Clare Boothe Luce, a murderously accurate phrase-maker, calls television "Everyman's Scheherazade" and titles her article Part One—"A Thousand Nights of Terror and Violence." There'll be another one this month.

"Today there are twenty-seven Westerns and twenty whodunits on the weekly programs of the major networks," Mrs. Luce writes. "For a thousand and more nights, from sea to shining sea, their chilling hordes have passed before the eyes of forty-two and a half million American families. Among their evil numbers are safeblowers, brainblowers, convicts, extortioners, counterfeiters, blackmailers, thugs, gangsters, stool pigeons, hoodlums, savages, cattle rustlers, trigger happy cowpokes, lynchers, jailbreakers, adventurers, drunks, drug addicts, pushers, pads, panderers pimps housebreakers, home-breakers, arsonists, sadists, psychopaths, prostitutes, rapists, maniacs, and murderers — all the lice and scum, damned and doomed dregs of humanity, giving an advanced course for young and old in all the techniques of crime and the modes of violence."

It's a terrifying list and Mrs. Luce got it by doing what television critics seldom do and network executives and ad agency people never do — that is, look at the bread and butter programming — the programming that goes on year in year out. "Restless Gun" the year after, "Gunsmoke" in its twelfth year, the old movies in their thirtieth year.

The Harris committee recommends that fixing quiz programs be made a crime which is like outlawing cattle-rustling. It's a good thought but the time for such action is past. If the Harris committee wants to know what is really wrong with television, it ought to stop interviewing witnesses and look at that monstrous box for a week.

CBS promised an hour long program of public affairs — either culture or news documentary. This has been watered down to twenty-six weeks. NBC promised "World Wide 60," a program of very high cultural aspiration, and this program is on the air, though its achievements are not up to its aims. ABC went its usual cynical way — making money.

But the general level of programing has been changed not at all. The imbalance of the program structure is getting worse rather than better and next fall, there are going to be far fewer specials which gave some respite to the cowboys and gangsters. It'll be a crying bloody shame if the great quiz and payola scandal is allowed simply to die down, leaving the general program schedule in the hands of the old folks and the twelve-year-olds which is where it is now.

Three New Fishing Ponds To Open Soon

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Three new fishing ponds will open soon under Maryland's "Operation Fishpond."

The Game and Inland Fish Commission reports two ponds in Anne Arundel County have been donated by Hubert T. Plummer of Mitchellville and one in Calvert County by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hutchins of Owings.

The two Anne Arundel ponds, about for miles south of Odenton, are now open to the public but a parking lot and additional grading work remain to be completed. They cover a total of 3.2 acres.

Charles H. Milton Jr., regional fish culturist, says the Owings pond is being designed and the land transaction is in its final stage.

"Operation Fishpond" is designed to make Maryland highways a wide road to fishing pleasure. It's a cooperative program between the Game and Inland Fish Commission and the State Roads Commission with an assist from communities and sportsmen.

HOLLYWOOD

By Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—As much as I disliked "Sweet Bird of Youth," I realized when I saw the Tennessee Williams play in New York that Geraldine Page was giving one of the all-time great performances of the theatre. Little wonder that Hal Wallis was crowing when he called me from New York to say that he has Geraldine signed for "Summer and Smoke," another movie excursion into Tennessee Williams.

What's more, Hal has Laurence Harvey set to co-star with Miss Page, Larry playing the part created on Broadway by Paul Newman. The third glittering name on producer Wallis' package is British Peter Glenville to direct. It won't go until December because that is as soon as Hal could get Harvey.

Miss Page's tests for the movie were made soon after she arrived in Los Angeles for "Sweet Bird of Youth" at the Biltmore. Hal says they are greater than her stage work—but maybe he's prejudiced.

There soon will be an important TV announcement out of MGM, and I hope I'm not jumping the gun. I have just heard that the studio has made one of the biggest literary coups in years. MGM's London representative has closed, or is about to close a big deal with the famous British mystery writer Agatha Chritie for all the rights to a long list of her books and short stories, to convert them into TV properties.

Agatha wrote "Witness for the Prosecution," which was a great mystery story, and if you like mystery tales, and who doesn't occasionally, you'll like Agatha Christie, who like old wine gets better with the years.

A tired but happy Betty Hutton telephoned to say she had been rehearsing all day with her mother, Mabel, her sister Marian, and her two daughters Lindsay and Candy.

"We are doing my life story," said Betty. "The kids play Marian and me, and Mother strums a guitar. I think it will be the best TV show we've ever had. Mother is loving every minute of it, and so are the children. Marian and I are taking it in our stride."

Well, I agree with Betty that it's a novel idea to say the least. It will be shown in June.

Interesting that Maria Schell, who is doing "Ninotchka" for David Susskind on TV in New York, has never seen Garbo in this famous comedy about Russia. "Sometimes I think I should see it," Maria said, "but then if I see Garbo I'm afraid I'd never have the courage to follow her. I think I should give my own interpretation and not try to copy Miss Garbo."

I told Maria (who will be seen in this show April 20) that sad as it seems, many of the younger generation do not even know Garbo and she could never be accused of imitation.

Maria will be met by her husband in New York and she will be there eight weeks filming this spectacular.

What a surprise if Ava Gardner comes here for the Academy Awards! Yet Bea Gardner, Ava's sister and companion who planed into Hollywood a few days ago, tells me she wouldn't be surprised if Ava arrives in time for our big night.

Bea said she left Ava in Madrid with her own little circle of friends, although she has sold her house there. "Ava will go to London soon," said Bea, "and will take at least six months vacation now that she has finished her movie 'Temptation' in Rome for Nunnally Johnson."

Despite the tug it must have been to move out of his home with Hope Lange and the children, Don Murray went ahead with his rehearsals on "Alas, Babylon," a dramatic bomb yarn, for Playhouse 90. Don is a serious minded boy and you can bet he is taking this hard.

If the actors strike ends soon (and pray it does) Don returns to 20th to complete "One Foot in Hell." This picture ends his contract with 20th Century-Fox and then his friends expect he will go to Sardinia, the locale of the refugee camp in which he has put so much of his money and effort.

Television and Radio

by John Crosby

What Happened To The Reform?

Already CBS is almost sold out for next year. Mostly, the program schedule is what might be described as quality junk. Well, perhaps junk is too strong a word. There will be an almost uninterrupted flow of bread and butter programs — situation comedy, shoot-em-ups, quizzes. There will be almost no serious programming worth mentioning. What ever happened to the great reform wave that was supposed to sweep the beach clean?

It's business as usual all over Madison Avenue. The clamor is dying down. The industry is firmly back in the hands of the advertising agencies and the breakfast food companies who are sturdily underestimating everyone's intelligence but their own. The schedule will be full of darling little husband and wife shows in which the children are adorable little monsters. There will be another underwater show. There will be something like twelve more Westerns—just when we thought that madness was dying down. There will not be on single new regular dramatic program of any serious nature.

In an excellent article in the current "McCall's" magazine, Clare Boothe Luce, a murderously accurate phrase-maker, calls television "Everyman's Scheherazade" and titles her article Part One—"A Thousand Nights of Terror and Violence." There'll be another one this month.

"Today there are twenty-seven Westerns and twenty whodunits on the weekly programs of the major networks," Mrs. Luce writes. "For a thousand and more nights, from sea to shining sea, their chilling hordes have passed before the eyes of forty-two and a half million American families. Among their evil numbers are safeblowers, brainblowers, convicts, extortioners, counterfeiters, blackmailers, thugs, gangsters, stool pigeons, hoodlums, savages, cattle rustlers, trigger happy cowpokes, lynchers, jailbreakers, adventurers, drunks, drug addicts, pushers, pads, panderers pimps housebreakers, home-breakers, arsonists, sadists, psychopaths, prostitutes, rapists, maniacs, and murderers — all the lice and scum, damned and doomed dregs of humanity, giving an advanced course for young and old in all the techniques of crime and the modes of violence."

It's a terrifying list and Mrs. Luce got it by doing what television critics seldom do and network executives and ad agency people never do — that is, look at the bread and butter programming — the programming that goes on year in year out, "Restless Gun" the year after, "Gunsmoke" in its twelfth year, the old movies in their thirtieth year.

The Harris committee recommends that fixing quiz programs be made a crime which is like outlawing cattle-rustling. It's a good thought but the time for such action is past. If the Harris committee wants to know what is really wrong with television, it ought to stop interviewing witnesses and look at that monstrous box for a week.

CBS promised an hour long program of public affairs — either culture or news documentary. This has been watered down to twenty-six weeks. NBC promised "World Wide 60," a program of very high cultural aspiration, and this program is on the air, though its achievements are not up to its aims. ABC went its usual cynical way — making money.

But the general level of programing has been changed not at all. The imbalance of the program structure is getting worse rather than better and next fall, there are going to be far fewer specials which gave some respite to the cowboys and gangsters. It'll be a crying bloody shame if the great quiz and payola scandal is allowed simply to die down, leaving the general program schedule in the hands of the old folks and the twelve-year-olds which is where it is now.

Three New Fishing Ponds To Open Soon

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Three new fishing ponds will open soon under Maryland's "Operation Fishpond."

The Game and Inland Fish Commission reports two ponds in Anne Arundel County have been donated by Hubert T. Plummer of Mitchellville and one in Calvert County by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hutchins of Owings.

The two Anne Arundel ponds, about for miles south of Odenton, are now open to the public but a parking lot and additional grading work remain to be completed. They cover a total of 3.2 acres.

Charles H. Milton Jr., regional fish culturist, says the Owings pond is being designed and the land transaction is in its final stage.

"Operation Fishpond" is designed to make Maryland highways a wide road to fishing pleasure. It's a cooperative program between the Game and Inland Fish Commission and the State Roads Commission with an assist from communities and sportsmen.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, Reese I. Diehl, who departed this life one year ago, March 18th, 1959.
Your memory is as fresh today
As in the hour you passed away.
Sadly missed by his wife,
MARIE DIEHL.

In memory of our dear father, son and brother, Richard W. Keller, who died 4 years ago today, March 18, 1956.
Our loved one's gone from us away,
To dwell in Heaven through endless day.
How sad it was to see him go,
And leave us here who loved him so.
Our home has now a vacant place,
A silent voice, an absent face.
We know his smile we'll see no more,
Until we reach that Golden Shore.
Missed by his daughter Connie, his mother, brothers & sisters.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during our recent bereavement at the loss of our dear Mother. We wish to especially thank Rev. McCloud for his comforting words and Rev. Emerick for his sacred selections.
THE ELEANORA WINTER FAMILY.

We desire to express our sincere appreciation to all our relatives and friends for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our husband and father, Gideon Reitz, Westernport. We especially thank the Kelly-Mansfield Post 52 Piedmont American Legion, the National Guard of Keyser, those who sent flowers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of my husband, Reese I. Diehl, who departed this life one year ago, March 18th, 1959.
Your memory is as fresh today
As in the hour you passed away.
Sadly missed by his wife,
MARIE DIEHL

In memory of our dear father, son and brother, Richard W. Keller, who died 4 years ago today, March 18, 1956.
Our loved one's gone from us away,
To dwell in Heaven through endless day.
How sad it was to see him go,
And leave us here who loved him so.
Our home has now a vacant place,
A silent voice, an absent face.
We know his smile we'll see no more,
Until we reach that Golden Shore.
Missed by his daughter Connie, his mother, brothers & sisters.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere appreciation to our friends and neighbors for their kindness to us during our recent bereavement at the loss of our dear Mother. We wish to especially thank Rev. McCloud for his comforting words and Rev. Emerick for his sacred selections.
THE ELEANORA WINTER FAMILY.

We desire to express our sincere appreciation to all our relatives and friends for their kindness to us during the illness and following the death of our husband and father, Gideon Reitz, Westernport. We especially thank the Kelly-Mansfield Post 82 Piedmont American Legion, the National Guard of Keyser, those who sent flowers and those who donated the use of their cars for the funeral.
MRS. DAISY REITZ and MRS. ETHEL HAGGERTY.

BRADENTON, Fla. — Chuck Dressen, who is back as a manager in the major leagues, also is back in good voice and in the home of the Brave Chuck makes like a Brave and indicates the Milwaukee club will win it this year, and should have won it last year.

Chuck denies some of the things he reportedly said about the Dodgers, his former club, but does say—"I think we have a better team than the Dodgers, man for man, and I think we can beat the Giants, too, if nothing happens to our boys in the way of injuries."

Dressen admits the Dodgers are a "good" ball club, but "I don't think that owners of this club would trade one club against the other." Dressen hedges a bit on trying to compare the pitching staffs of the Braves and the Dodgers except to state that "we have more veteran pitchers but we must have more than two 20-game winners."

Some comment was made last year that the Braves may have become a bit too complacent, and Dressen has a word for that.

"I have my opinions on last year," he says, "and I'm going to push these boys. They get paid big money here and I don't expect any trouble if I push them. The veterans won't resent being pushed—they better not! This club has the biggest payroll in either league."

Dressen's discussion of his team's chances accented running, which the Braves haven't done. And one guy he would like to see run more—and the fellow himself wants to do just that—is Hank Aaron, who already has approached Chuck about running.

"I've always said Aaron is the best hitter in baseball," says Chuck, "and I've said that Willie Mays of the Giants is the best all-around player because of his daring and running—but Aaron could come close."

Aaron's name has been mentioned in the second base problem, which everyone says the Braves have because of Red Schoendienst's status. Of this Dressen says: "I don't think we're going to have any trouble at second. And I don't plan to play Aaron there. Schoendienst is my man; he's strong and he's doing everything asked of him.

"I know Red can play now. He won't play every day but I've a program worked out for him. We were going to make a trade to guard us at second. However, this Chuck Cottier (up from Louisville) looks good and Mel Roach says his leg is okay."

The new Brave boss feels that Bill Bruton will do better this year and that he expects to get help from Juan Pizzaro, Carlton Willey and Joey Jay.

"Pizzaro said he was going to do better for me," explains Dressen, "and Coach Whit Wyatt says that Willey looks the best he's ever appeared."

The Braves of 1960 are just about the same team as last year when they blew the pennant to the Dodgers in that playoff.

Among young pitchers who may help are Ron Piche, a relief specialist from Louisville; Bob Hartman, up from Louisville; Don Nottebart, who won 18 for the same club; Winston Brown, who was 15-14 for Sacramento, and Carl Green, who's been in baseball for eight years but has spent four years in the Navy.

The catching is the same with Del Crandall and Stan Lopata, and Dressen indicated he didn't like Del's hitting into so many double-plays last year.

"I'll have to work on that," the manager says.

John Demerit, from Jacksonville, and Lee Maye, who did well at Louisville, are new outfielders being given a look.

CAPSULE COMMENT
On Milwaukee Braves

Finish last year—Second.
Pitching—Good, as always.
Infield—Problem at second if Red Schoendienst hasn't come back all the way.
Outfield—Could use help.
Power—Hank Aaron and Ed Mathews—plenty!
Overall—Could be the team to beat, as usual.

NEXT—The Philadelphia Phils.

Braves, Under New Boss, Could Be National League Team To Beat

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in a series on the major league teams.

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

BRADENTON, Fla. — Chuck Dressen, who is back as a manager in the major leagues, also is back in good voice and in the home of the Brave Chuck makes like a Brave and indicates the Milwaukee club will win it this year, and should have won it last year.

Chuck denies some of the things he reportedly said about the Dodgers, his former club, but does say—"I think we have a better team than the Dodgers, man for man, and I think we can beat the Giants, too, if nothing happens to our boys in the way of injuries."

Dressen admits the Dodgers are a "good" ball club, but "I don't think that owners of this club would trade one club against the other." Dressen hedges a bit on trying to compare the pitching staffs of the Braves and the Dodgers except to state that "we have more veteran pitchers but we must have more than two 20-game winners."

Some comment was made last year that the Braves may have become a bit too complacent, and Dressen has a word for that.

"I have my opinions on last year," he says, "and I'm going to push these boys. They get paid big money here and I don't expect any trouble if I push them. The veterans won't resent being pushed—they better not! This club has the biggest payroll in either league."

Dressen's discussion of his team's chances accented running, which the Braves haven't done. And one guy he would like to see run more—and the fellow himself wants to do just that—is Hank Aaron, who already has approached Chuck about running.

"I've always said Aaron is the best hitter in baseball," says Chuck, "and I've said that Willie Mays of the Giants is the best all-around player because of his daring and running—but Aaron could come close."

Aaron's name has been mentioned in the second base problem, which everyone says the Braves have because of Red Schoendienst's status. Of this Dressen says: "I don't think we're going to have any trouble at second. And I don't plan to play Aaron there. Schoendienst is my man; he's strong and he's doing everything asked of him.

"I know Red can play now. He won't play every day but I've a program worked out for him. We were going to make a trade to guard us at second. However, this Chuck Cottier (up from Louisville) looks good and Mel Roach says his leg is okay."

The new Brave boss feels that Bill Bruton will do better this year and that he expects to get help from Juan Pizzaro, Carlton Willey and Joey Jay.

"Pizzaro said he was going to do better for me," explains Dressen, "and Coach Whit Wyatt says that Willey looks the best he's ever appeared."

The Braves of 1960 are just about the same team as last year when they blew the pennant to the Dodgers in that playoff.

Among young pitchers who may help are Ron Piche, a relief specialist from Louisville; Bob Hartman, up from Louisville; Don Nottebart, who won 18 for the same club; Winston Brown, who was 15-14 for Sacramento, and Carl Green, who's been in baseball for eight years but has spent four years in the Navy.

The catching is the same with Del Crandall and Stan Lopata, and Dressen indicated he didn't like Del's hitting into so many double-plays last year.

"I'll have to work on that," the manager says.

John Demerit, from Jacksonville, and Lee Maye, who did well at Louisville, are new outfielders being given a look.

CAPSULE COMMENT
On Milwaukee Braves

Finish last year—Second.
Pitching—Good, as always.
Infield—Problem at second if Red Schoendienst hasn't come back all the way.
Outfield—Could use help.
Power—Hank Aaron and Ed Mathews—plenty!
Overall—Could be the team to beat, as usual.

NEXT—The Philadelphia Phils.

Market's String Of Four Straight Advances Halted

NEW YORK (UPI) — The four-day stock market rally ran aground upon the shoals of neglect Thursday.

Volume slipped to 2,140,000 shares, the lightest trading day since last Columbus Day — Oct. 12, 1959 — when only 1,750,000 shares changed hands. Trading on Wednesday totaled 2,960,000.

The market however, met some mild support around the close and was able to close well above the day's lows. The pressure was on those groups which led the list in its latest advance — steels, oils, chemicals, electronics and rails.

Brokers now were saying that the recent rally, which enabled the market to string together four gains in a row, began without any signs (such as a severe selling climax), or any indication that forceful liquidation had finally dissipated.

Also, it was noted, the four consecutive advances had carried the market into an area of anticipated resistance that left many stocks vulnerable to some near-term profit-taking.

The decline also snapped a string of six consecutive gains for the rail average. Baltimore & Ohio reported a loss in February and closed off more than a point after being down 2 at its worst. Louisville & Nashville lost a point and Illinois Central more than a half.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Market's String Of Four Straight Advances Halted

NEW YORK (UPI) — The four-day stock market rally ran aground upon the shoals of neglect Thursday.

Volume slipped to 2,140,000 shares, the lightest trading day since last Columbus Day — Oct. 12, 1959 — when only 1,750,000 shares changed hands. Trading on Wednesday totaled 2,960,000.

The market however, met some mild support around the close and was able to close well above the day's lows. The pressure was on those groups which led the list in its latest advance — steels, oils, chemicals, electronics and rails.

Brokers now were saying that the recent rally, which enabled the market to string together four gains in a row, began without any signs (such as a severe selling climax), or any indication that forceful liquidation had finally dissipated.

Also, it was noted, the four consecutive advances had carried the market into an area of anticipated resistance that left many stocks vulnerable to some near-term profit-taking.

The decline also snapped a string of six consecutive gains for the rail average. Baltimore & Ohio reported a loss in February and closed off more than a point after being down 2 at its worst. Louisville & Nashville lost a point and Illinois Central more than a half.

Chinese Reds Call Bishop Walsh Spy

"Under Detention," Says Peiping

Peiping Radio, official voice of Red China, yesterday denounced Maryknoll Bishop James E. Walsh of Cumberland as the ringleader of a U.S. spy network, 14 of whose alleged members were sentenced yesterday to prison terms ranging from five years to life.

Bishop Walsh, a native of Cumberland, has been under house arrest since October 1958. At last reports he was in a hospital. Yesterday's broadcast said only that he is "under detention," but did not say where or for how long.

The broadcast said a "traitorous counter-revolutionary clique" headed by one Bishop Kung Ping-Mei, had been guilty of "collusion with the imperialists and treason against the motherland under the cloak of religion . . ."

Kung Gets Life

The broadcast said Kung, tried by the Shanghai intermediate people's court, was sentenced to life imprisonment and 13 others described as "major culprits of the clique" were simultaneously sentenced to jail sentences ranging from 5 to 20 years.

Peiping said public trials were held March 16 and 17 and these showed that "using the cloak of religion, this traitorous counter-revolutionary clique was organized under a scheme of the U.S. imperialists and the Vatican to subvert the Chinese People's Democratic Regime."

The broadcast said the defendants were "unable to deny" the charges.

It said Kung Ping-Mei "set himself up firmly against Communism and the people" by taking up the post of bishop of the Shanghai Diocese in August 1950.

Charges Bishop Was Spy

It said Kung was "under a plan worked out by the U.S. spy, James Edward Walsh, secretary general of the reactionary organization of the 'Catholic Central Bureau,' and Antonio Riberi, an imperialist element hidden in the Catholic Church in China with approval of the Vatican."

The broadcast identified Riberi as a former minister from the Vatican to Nationalist China, later expelled by the Reds.

The text of the broadcast follows:

"A traitorous counter-revolutionary clique headed by Kung Ping-Mei, hidden under the cloak of religion, has been tried by the Shanghai Intermediate Peoples Court and sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment. The chief culprit, Kung Ping-Mei, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Thirteen other major culprits of the clique were simultaneously sentenced to imprisonment ranging from five to 20 years.

"At the trial it was shown that, using the cloak of religion, this traitorous counter-revolutionary clique was organized under a scheme of the United States imperialists and the Vatican to subvert the Chinese Peoples Democratic Regime. Punishment of these counter-revolutionaries is another serious blow against the United States scheme to subvert the Chinese Peoples Democratic Regime.

"The case of this traitorous counter-revolutionary clique hidden inside the Catholic Church was brought to a head on September 8, 1955, by the public security authorities in Shanghai. In accordance with the public prosecution instituted by the Branch Peoples Procuratorate of Shanghai, the Intermediate Peoples Court held public trials between March 16 and 17 this year before more than 500 spectators of various circles in Shanghai.

"Unable To Deny"

"The court heard a statement by the defendants and the defense of the advocate, examined the large body of evidence showing their counter-revolutionary activities, heard witnesses, and studied data exposing the crime submitted by the masses, and passed the judgment on March 17.

"Confronted by the mass of conclusive evidence of their crimes, the accused were unable to deny the charges. The court pointed out in its judgment: 'The traitorous counter-revolutionary clique headed by the accused, Kung Ping-Mei, was an important tool of the imperialists for subversion against the Peoples Democratic Regime of our country. Their collusion with the imperialists and treason against the motherland under the cloak of religion constituted serious crimes of high treason.'

"Imperialist special agent Kumg Ping-Mei, who has all along set himself firmly against Communism and the people, took up the post of Bishop of the Shanghai Diocese in August 1950, under a plan worked out by United States Spy James Edward Walsh, secretary general of the reactionary organization of the Catholic Central Bureau, and Antonio Riberi, an imperialist element hidden in the Catholic Church in China — formerly the 'minister' of the Vatican to the Chiang Kai-shek . . . clique and expelled from China — and with the approval of the Vatican.

Bishop Accused

"Then, under the personal instructions of the United States spy James Edward Walsh, United States national now under detention, the imperialist elements, Anton Riberi, Fernand Lacretelle, French national formerly member of the Shanghai Jesuit Society, Kung Ping-Mei drew together Chin Lu-hsien who had undergone a long period of reactionary training and had been sent back to Shanghai by

Bright Sun, Warm Weather Help Melt Snow

All Highways Reported Clear

A bright sun and warming temperatures teamed up yesterday to melt just about all of the nearly seven inches of snow which was dumped on Cumberland and the surrounding section Wednesday.

The mercury rose to 44 degrees yesterday, the highest during the month of March, according to Robert R. Golden, weather observer at Constitution Park.

Road crews of Allegany and Garrett counties also were aided by the bright, warm sun and all highways were reported open and clear. Men and trucks were kept busy through the night working on highways, which were then hazardous.

Mercury Hits 44

Mr. Golden said yesterday's reading of 44 degrees was the highest this month, while the low yesterday was 26 degrees. At 6 p.m. yesterday the reading was still above freezing, at 40 degrees.

In Oakland yesterday, the high temperature was 40 degrees and the low was 23. R. L. Weber, weather observer there, said several more warm days like yesterday and the heavy accumulation of snow would soon disappear.

State Roads Commission crews opened a section of U.S. Route 219 yesterday morning, allowing buses to get through to Northern High School at Accident where over two hundred students, teachers and school employes were stranded.

Roads Clear

Garrett County schools were closed yesterday and those stranded overnight at Northern School left the school yesterday morning.

State Police detachments at Romney, W.Va., and Bedford, Pa., last night reported all roads in their respective states clear.

The weather forecast calls for partial clearing during the night and possible snow flurries today in this portion of the state. Temperatures will range from 25 to 35 degrees.

School Addition At East Side Is Opened

Ribbon-Cutting Ceremony Held

The last project in the current Allegany County school construction program, a new addition to Cumberland's East Side School, was officially opened last night with ribbon-cutting ceremonies witnessed by about 100 parents, teachers and patrons.

This new addition, including five classrooms, health room, faculty room, toilet facilities and the remodeling of an old classroom for the principal's office, was built by the John I. Vandegrift Company, local contractors.

Vandegrift was awarded the contract last June 24 on a low bid of $126,895 submitted to the County Board of Education. This figure does not include architect fees and the cost of purchasing the land for the addition.

Traces History

Mrs. Norma Manges, program chairman of the East Side PTA, traced the history of the school during the brief ceremonies last night. She said the predecessor to the present school was the Lindnerville School, a two-room frame institution.

Construction of a seven-room new East Side School for $70,000 was started in 1921 and completed in 1923. In 1928, a six-room addition was built for the school at the intersection of East and Reynolds streets at a cost of $40,000.

The campaign which resulted in the construction of the latest East Side addition was started in 1956 with the appointment of a PTA building committee. John B. McFarland Jr., present PTA president, was a member of that building committee.

Supervisor Snips Ribbon

Miss Elizabeth I. Flake, one of the three supervisors of elementary education in Allegany County, snipped the ribbon which officially opened the East Side addition on McKaig's Hill last night. The addition actually has been in use since about the second week in February.

Before the official opening last night, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster was called upon for remarks. He traced the procedure that must be followed before a school can become a reality. It first must be established that population trends show that a need exists. Then the superintendent must inform the Board of Education, which approves the project. The Board of County Commissioners also must be informed and approve, because the commissioners must provide the needed funds. Then, legislative action is necessary to authorize a bond issue to finance the work.

Mr. Webster told the East Side parents and patrons that a well-equipped school makes it easier to present a good school program. However, what is most important is what goes on within the school. Then he asked several questions about the school program. Does it help children to help themselves? Do the pupils take pride in learning without developing conceit? Does the program develop good attitudes?

He concluded that East Side School already offered a good program but will be able to offer a better program in a better building.

Miss Agnes Lauder of Lonaconing, principal of East Side School, told her audience that she was "truly grateful and happy" that the school addition has become a reality.

State DAR Winners Announced

Mrs. R. Finley Thompson, 540 Rose Hill Avenue, state chairman for the D.A.R. Good Citizen Committee, said last night that the annual contest has been won by Barbara Levin of Milford Mill High School, Baltimore County.

Honorable mention awards will go to Bonnie Joe Ayers of Smithburg High School, Washington County; and to Jane Bucky Wantz of Francis Scott Key High School, New Windsor, Carroll County.

The winner, a native of Baltimore, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Levin. She plans to enter the University of Maryland in September to major in journalism.

Mrs. Thompson said 16 counties were represented in this year's Daughters of American Revolution Good Citizen competition, with 65 schools and several hundred Maryland girls participating. In Allegany and Garrett counties, Cresap Chapter DAR sponsored the annual event with five high schools taking part.

State judges for the contest included Miss Olive Simpson, retired, history department, Allegany High School, Cumberland; Mrs. E. Winifred Opgrande, speech department, Washington College, Chestertown; and Miss Katherine Sherrill, dean of Hood College, Frederick.

Evans Posts Bond

Myrl Stanley Evans, 47, of Williams Road, yesterday was released on $3,000 bond pending action of the April term of the grand jury on a charge of incest.

School Addition Is Opened

Street Repair Bids Are Due On March 28

Lump Sum Prices Will Be Requested

Bids for the resurfacing of nine city streets will be opened by the Mayor and Council on March 28 at 10 a.m.

Advertisements requesting bids on the projects will be published here Saturday and Monday. They call for leveling, patching and resurfacing of each street with a two-inch blacktop wearing course.

Areas involved are on Bedford, Franklin, Frederick and Independence streets, Kelly Boulevard, Oldtown Road and Valley, Washington and Williams streets.

Specifications covering the work are being prepared and will be available Monday from the City Engineering Department.

Ordinances authorizing the street improvements and providing that costs be shared equally by the city and abutting property owners were adopted at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Action on similar ordinances for Fayette Street and Wempe Drive were tabled until Monday.

The specifications for the work call for lump sum bids in all cases, in accordance with a policy adopted by the Mayor and Council last year.

Bids may provide a test of the bidding policy.

Previously, virtually all construction bids were awarded on a unit basis, under which a contractor was paid for the exact amount of work done.

For instance, if a contractor had to excavate 100 yards of dirt for a foundation and the plans called for 90 yards, he was paid for the extra work in accordance with the price quoted for earth excavation in his bid. If the excavation amounted to 80 yards, he was paid only for that amount at the price stated in his bid.

Under the lump sum bidding plan, a contractor bids a certain number of dollars for doing the work set up in the contract.

Man Sought In Virginia Jailed Here

A former Bedford, Pa., man who was arrested here yesterday on false pretense charges also is wanted by Virginia authorities for jumping bond and for larceny by confidence.

Being held in Allegany County Jail is Homer C. Growden, 40. Growden was arrested yesterday morning by City Police Officer James Brown, who was directing traffic in front of St. Mary's Catholic Church on Oldtown Road.

Growden is wanted here for obtaining $578.70 under false pretenses from the Cumberland Stockyards, and $20 from Andy's Tire Service on Williams Road.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police who is investigating the case here against Growden, said Trooper Stanley Lee of the Virginia State Police at Winchester contacted the LaVale barracks yesterday and said Growden is wanted there for jumping bond, and for larceny by confidence in the theft of a station wagon.

Sgt. Baker last night recovered the stolen vehicle and it is being held at the LaVale barracks.

Virginia State Police arrested Growden February 25 on the local warrants while Growden was a patient in a Winchester hospital with a fractured leg he sustained in an auto accident.

However, the next day when nurses went to Growden's room they found that he had fled during the night. It was learned later his wife had assisted him in getting his leg out of traction during the night hours.

Growden later was arrested again, taken before a Winchester magistrate and released on $1,000 bond.

Haylift Postponed

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—A project to airlift hay to Western Maryland deer, starving because of the snow, has been postponed again because of the weather.

This time it was low ceiling and poor visibility which kept the project on the ground, E.J. Day reported Thursday. Day is secretary of the South Mountain Rod and Gun club which donated the hay.

ABL Official Explains Development Of Rocketry

Dr. Richard P. Carter, technical assistant to the plant manager at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, traced the history and development of rocketry at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at Central YMCA.

He began his remarks by explaining that the ABL facilities actually were constructed by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company at the beginning of World War II. Eventually, from 1943 to 1945, this facility was operated by George Washington University for the U.S. Office of Scientific Research and Development.

Late in 1945, it was taken over by the Navy Department, which designated the Hercules Powder Company to operate it. Dr. Carter said there was good reason for the choice of Hercules, because this firm had made all of the rockets used by the United States in World War II. Hercules operated facilities in Virginia, Wisconsin and Kansas.

The history of rockets goes back to the 13th Century when they were developed by the Chinese, presumably as a "secret weapon" against the invading Mongols. The invaders were not stopped, however.

First use of rockets in this country stems from the War of 1812, Dr. Carter said. He emphasized that when Francis Scott Key wrote the Star Spangled Banner at Fort McHenry in Baltimore he mentioned the "rocket's red glare."

Modern development of rocketry in this country is believed to have started with Robert H. Goddard, who about 1909 was a professor of physics at Clark University in Massachusetts. His work was financed by the Smithsonian Institution.

German scientists were instrumental in much development of liquid rocketry during World War II. Since that war, many of these scientists have gone either to Russia or to the United States, where they have been instrumental in development of missiles and satellites.

Dr. Carter pointed out that it was appropriate for him to have been speaking to the Kiwanis Club yesterday. St. Patrick's Day was the second anniversary of the first successful launching of the Navy's Vanguard satellite, which is still circling the earth. The third stage rocket was made at ABL. This same rocket also was used in the launching of Pioneer V, the satellite which is orbiting around the sun. It was launched last Friday.

A native of Alderson, W. Va., Dr. Carter received a B.S. in chemical engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and his Ph.D. degree from Purdue University. Employed with Hercules since July 1, 1940, he has been at ABL since last May 1. He resides in Cresap Park with his wife and three children.

More Budgets Of Departments Get Approval

Some Reductions Made In Totals

More departmental budgets have been received and some of them have been approved by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

One of those approved was for State's Attorney James S. Getty. He had asked for $21,459 and the commissioners approved $21,330, which is $129 less than was sought. The approved total is $1,000 more than the $20,330 listed for the state's attorney in the current budget.

The approved total includes $17,300 salary for four employes in the office and $1,500 for a new automobile for the use of County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya. He presently is using a 1956 model car with 45,000 miles on its speedometer.

One of the few budgets lower than for the current year is the one approved for County Treasurer James S. Bishop of $3,600. That is $200 less than the figure for this year. The total includes $2,000 salary.

Another approved budget is $214,878.03, exactly what the County Welfare Department sought in county funds. The total welfare budget for 1960-61 is $1,413,248.20 but all of the rest comes from state and federal sources. The approved total is $13,818.18 more than last year.

The County Board of Election Supervisors has submitted a budget calling for expenditures of $39,311 in the fiscal year which starts July 1. That is $3,268 more than the $36,043 level of this year. The proposed budget total includes $30,828 in salaries, $19,140 for regular employes and $11,688 for poll workers. There is $4,333 for expenses and $1,050 in capital outlay.

Another budget, from a department which is self-sustaining, is $20,100 for the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners. This department's expenses are paid out of the fees for liquor licenses, which approximate $40,000 a year.

Appeals Court Affirms Ruling In Estate Case

The Maryland Court of Appeals in Annapolis yesterday affirmed an Allegany County Circuit Court decision which held the state could collect from the estate of Harry E. Kooken, who died while a patient at Springfield State Hospital.

"We think . . . it clear that the maintenance and care of one who is mentally incompetent was not intended to be an unconditional gift but was based instead on the expectation of future reimbursement upon the death of the incompetent, if the circumstances should then permit it," the high court said.

The department of mental hygiene has billed the estate for $7,423.

FiremenFind No Fire, No Garage

Twenty-three LaVale volunteer firemen raced two miles late yesterday to answer a fire alarm call to 939 Weires Avenue, only to find out that there was not only no fire, but that there was no such address.

Chief James H. Loar said someone identifying himself as "Mr. Davidson" telephoned the fire station at 6:55 p.m. to report a fire in a garage at the Weires Avenue address.

Firemen took two fire engines and an equipment truck to the scene, learned the address was false, then checked the neighborhood and found that no one knew of any fire.

"False alarms are a most serious crime," said Chief Loar. "Somebody can be hurt answering them. LaVale has a fire company it can be proud of. As chief I have a certain responsibility for the safety of the firemen, and I won't tolerate false alarms." He said anyone who is caught turning in a false alarm will be prosecuted.

Hit-Run Driver Gets 5 Months

Leroy E. Wilkinson Jr., 22, of Johnstown, Pa., who was arrested by Maryland State Police Wednesday after he fled from the scene of an accident, was fined $60 and sentenced to five months in the County Jail yesterday.

Magistrate Edward P. Flanigan of Frostburg found Wilkinson guilty of operating a vehicle, speed to great for existing conditions and failure to stop after an accident.

Magistrate Flanigan sentenced Wilkinson to 60 days for operating without a license, $10 for speed too great and $50 and three months for failing to stop after an accident. In addition to the jail terms imposed, Magistrate Flanigan ordered Wilkinson committed for 40 days in default of the fines.

Trooper Willis Foreman arrested Wilkinson in a private home after he had fled from an accident which occurred on U.S. Route 40 near the Crystal Drive-In Theatre.

The Pennsylvania driver struck the rear of a car operated by John T. Morris Jr., 20, of 1404 Frederick Street, and fled on foot from the accident.

Legion To Note Anniversary

Fort Cumberland Post 13, American Legion, will mark its 41st anniversary today with the initiation of 33 new members at 7:30 p.m. at the post home.

Commander Fred H. Anderson said John W. Sloan, past state department commander, and Daniel H. Burkhart, state adjutant, Baltimore, will attend tonight's ceremonies.

A buffet will be served after the initiation and a dance will be held starting at 9 p.m. Music will be by Joe Kessler's orchestra and entertainment by Dusty Shaver.

Members of the initiation team are Philmore F. Fleming, Paul C. Weisenmiller, Harold W. Davis, Thomas R. Farrell, Joseph Macon and Mr. Anderson. Mr. Anderson also will serve as master of ceremonies for the program.

The Legion post has extended invitations to the auxiliary of the post, Gold Star Mothers, Navy Mothers and the 8 & 40.

The local post had a membership goal of 1,000, which it surpassed, making it one of the largest Legion posts in the state.

Sandbag Cost Problem Is Unresolved

Rail Official Will Check And Report

A meeting called on the anniversary of the disastrous St. Patrick's Day flood bogged down temporarily on the issue of who is to pay the $2,040 needed to buy 12,000 sandbags to fill three gaps in the $18,100,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection system.

W. Fred Mowen, superintendent of the Western division of the Western Maryland Railway, last night said he was not in a position then to authorize any expenditure but will check with railway officials this morning and report the company decision today to city officials.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley, who is also to meet with town officials and report back, said Ridgeley would greatly appreciate it if the railway could buy the needed bags, and pledged that the community will supply manpower.

12,000 Needed

Officials have estimated that about 12,000 burlap bags must be on hand to use to fill major gaps in the walls or levees at the Western Maryland Railway bridge here, at the east end of the Ridgeley bridge and a big gap at the west end of the Ridgeley yards.

Fourteen tracks in all are involved. All are lower than flood walls or levees at the points and would have to be sandbagged to protect properties of the communities and the railroad.

There was general agreement last night, as officials of Cumberland, Ridgeley and the Western Maryland met, that the most suitable sandbags would be those treated against mildew as they would last twice as long as untreated bags.

Only one firm bid on such bags, and offered to supply 12,000 for $4,040 if paid for within 10 days.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech tried to get agreement on a compromise plan which provided that Cumberland would pay $684.56—which is a third of the cost of the 4,000 bags needed on the Maryland side.

Study Proposal

The proposal called for the Western Maryland to pay $1,000 toward sandbags needed in Ridgeley and for the Town of Ridgeley to pay $369.12.

It also called for Ridgeley to pay for the first 50 tons of sand and half the cost of other sand needed on the West Virginia side of the river.

Mayor Fryer said the town cannot buy the bags legally as there is no such item in the budget. He said the town believes that if it supplies manpower it will be doing its part.

Cumberland, Mayor Keech said, will pay its share for bags needed on the Maryland side of the line but does not think it should take care of the West Virginia side in view of the fact that Cumberland pays the full $32,000 annual maintenance cost of the entire project.

Sand On Hand

Getting sand here will be no problem, City Engineer C. R. Nuzum reported, as a local firm keeps more than will be needed in a bin at all times.

Plenty of trucks will be available to haul the bags. Ridgeley has pledged 12 truck for this, and Cumberland 10.

A number of positive steps were taken during the conference.

The first is that Mr. Nuzum, who heads the area flood protection plan, will meet with Ridgeley workers at their convenience, to explain what will be needed if a flood greater than the 1936 St. Patrick's Day deluge hits here.

Mr. Nuzum stressed that several hours of warning will be given prior to any flood emergency.

The city agreed, at the request of Mr. Mowen, to notify the chief train dispatcher of the Western Maryland Railway here as soon as a flood emergency is declared.

Mayor Fryer said the Town of Ridgeley will blow three-minute blasts on its fire siren to give the flood warning.

To Get Notice

Railway officials stressed that when Cumberland and Ridgeley sandbag the holes they will be protecting themselves and not necessarily protecting the railway.

Railway officials said they want to be consulted before any of their tracks are blocked.

All accepted the proposal made by Mr. Mowen that one set of tracks be left open until the last minute. There will be plenty of men on hand, it was agreed, to close the gaps.

Sidney L. George, division engineer, said the railway will have at least 40 men out in such an emergency and can get several hundred here in several hours if they are needed.

Boulevard Work Slated In April

Weather permitting, the Cumberland Contracting Company plans to resume work on the Industrial Boulevard early in April.

Company officials said work can start then if the ground is dry.

The contract began at the Evitts Creek Bridge and extended to West Street. All of the paving was completed, but the onset of winter halted work on guard rails and shoulders.

Chinese Reds Call Bishop Walsh Spy

"Under Detention," Says Peiping

Peiping Radio, official voice of Red China, yesterday denounced Maryknoll Bishop James E. Walsh of Cumberland as the ringleader of a U.S. spy network, 14 of whose alleged members were sentenced yesterday to prison terms ranging from five years to life.

Bishop Walsh, a native of Cumberland, has been under house arrest since October 1958. At last reports he was in a hospital. Yesterday's broadcast said only that he is "under detention," but did not say where or for how long.

The broadcast said a "traitorous counter-revolutionary clique" headed by one Bishop Kung Ping-Mei, had been guilty of "collusion with the imperialists and treason against the motherland under the cloak of religion . . ."

Kung Gets Life

The broadcast said Kung, tried by the Shanghai intermediate people's court, was sentenced to life imprisonment and 13 others described as "major culprits of the clique" were simultaneously sentenced to jail sentences ranging from 5 to 20 years.

Peiping said public trials were held March 16 and 17 and these showed that "using the cloak of religion, this traitorous counter-revolutionary clique was organized under a scheme of the U.S. imperialists and the Vatican to subvert the Chinese People's Democratic Regime."

The broadcast said the defendants were "unable to deny" the charges.

It said Kung Ping-Mei "set himself up firmly against Communism and the people" by taking up the post of bishop of the Shanghai Diocese in August 1950.

Charges Bishop Was Spy

It said Kung was "under a plan worked out by the U.S. spy, James Edward Walsh, secretary general of the reactionary organization of the 'Catholic Central Bureau,' and Antonio Riberi, an imperialist element hidden in the Catholic Church in China with approval of the Vatican."

The broadcast identified Riberi as a former minister from the Vatican to Nationalist China, later expelled by the Reds.

The text of the broadcast follows:

"A traitorous counter-revolutionary clique headed by Kung Ping-Mei, hidden under the cloak of religion, has been tried by the Shanghai Intermediate Peoples Court and sentenced to varying terms of imprisonment. The chief culprit, Kung Ping-Mei, was sentenced to life imprisonment. Thirteen other major culprits of the clique were simultaneously sentenced to imprisonment ranging from five to 20 years.

"At the trial it was shown that, using the cloak of religion, this traitorous counter-revolutionary clique was organized under a scheme of the United States imperialists and the Vatican to subvert the Chinese Peoples Democratic Regime. Punishment of these counter-revolutionaries is another serious blow against the United States scheme to subvert the Chinese Peoples Democratic Regime.

"The case of this traitorous counter-revolutionary clique hidden inside the Catholic Church was brought to a head on September 8, 1955, by the public security authorities in Shanghai. In accordance with the public prosecution instituted by the Branch Peoples Procuratorate of Shanghai, the Intermediate Peoples Court held public trials between March 16 and 17 this year before more than 500 spectators of various circles in Shanghai.

"Unable To Deny"

"The court heard a statement by the defendants and the defense of the advocate, examined the large body of evidence showing their counter-revolutionary activities, heard witnesses, and studied data exposing the crime submitted by the masses, and passed the judgment on March 17.

"Confronted by the mass of conclusive evidence of their crimes, the accused were unable to deny the charges. The court pointed out in its judgment: 'The traitorous counter-revolutionary clique headed by the accused, Kung Ping-Mei, was an important tool of the imperialists for subversion against the Peoples Democratic Regime of our country. Their collusion with the imperialists and treason against the motherland under the cloak of religion constituted serious crimes of high treason.'

"Imperialist special agent Kung Ping-Mei, who has all along set himself firmly against Communism and the people, took up the post of Bishop of the Shanghai Diocese in August 1950, under a plan worked out by United States Spy James Edward Walsh, secretary general of the reactionary organization of the Catholic Central Bureau, and Antonio Riberi, an imperialist element hidden in the Catholic Church in China — formerly the 'minister' of the Vatican to the Chiang Kai-shek . . . clique and expelled from China — and with the approval of the Vatican.

Bishop Accused

"Then, under the personal instructions of the United States spy James Edward Walsh, United States national now under detention, the imperialist elements, Anton Riberi, Fernand Lacretelle, French national formerly member of the Shanghai Jesuit Society, Kung Ping-Mei drew together Chin Lu-hsien who had undergone a long period of reactionary training and had been sent back to Shanghai by

Bright Sun, Warm Weather Help Melt Snow

All Highways Reported Clear

A bright sun and warming temperatures teamed up yesterday to melt just about all of the nearly seven inches of snow which was dumped on Cumberland and the surrounding section Wednesday.

The mercury rose to 44 degrees yesterday, the highest during the month of March, according to Robert R. Golden, weather observer at Constitution Park.

Road crews of Allegany and Garrett counties also were aided by the bright, warm sun and all highways were reported open and clear. Men and trucks were kept busy through the night working on highways, which were then hazardous.

Mercury Hits 44

Mr. Golden said yesterday's reading of 44 degrees was the highest this month, while the low yesterday was 26 degrees. At 6 p.m. yesterday the reading was still above freezing, at 40 degrees.

In Oakland yesterday, the high temperature was 40 degrees and the low was 23. R. L. Weber, weather observer there, said several more warm days like yesterday and the heavy accumulation of snow would soon disappear.

State Roads Commission crews opened a section of U.S. Route 219 yesterday morning, allowing buses to get through to Northern High School at Accident where over two hundred students, teachers and school employes were stranded.

Roads Clear

Garrett County schools were closed yesterday and those stranded overnight at Northern School left the school yesterday morning.

State Police detachments at Romney, W.Va., and Bedford, Pa., last night reported all roads in their respective states clear.

The weather forecast calls for partial clearing during the night and possible snow flurries today in this portion of the state. Temperatures will range from 25 to 35 degrees.

School Addition At East Side Is Opened

Ribbon-Cutting Ceremony Held

The last project in the current Allegany County school construction program, a new addition to Cumberland's East Side School, was officially opened last night with ribbon-cutting ceremonies witnessed by about 100 parents, teachers and patrons.

This new addition, including five classrooms, health room, faculty room, toilet facilities and the remodeling of an old classroom for the principal's office, was built by the John I. Vandegrift Company, local contractors.

Vandegrift was awarded the contract last June 24 on a low bid of $126,895 submitted to the County Board of Education. This figure does not include architect fees and the cost of purchasing the land for the addition.

Traces History

Mrs. Norma Manges, program chairman of the East Side PTA, traced the history of the school during the brief ceremonies last night. She said the predecessor to the present school was the Lindnerville School, a two-room frame institution.

Construction of a seven-room new East Side School for $70,000 was started in 1921 and completed in 1923. In 1928, a six-room addition was built for the school at the intersection of East and Reynolds streets at a cost of $40,000.

The campaign which resulted in the construction of the latest East Side addition was started in 1956 with the appointment of a PTA building committee. John B. McFarland Jr., present PTA president, was a member of that building committee.

Supervisor Snips Ribbon

Miss Elizabeth I. Flake, one of the three supervisors of elementary education in Allegany County, snipped the ribbon which officially opened the East Side addition on McKaig's Hill last night. The addition actually has been in use since about the second week in February.

Before the official opening last night, Superintendent of Schools Ralph R. Webster was called upon for remarks. He traced the procedure that must be followed before a school can become a reality. It first must be established that population trends show that a need exists. Then the superintendent must inform the Board of Education, which approves the project. The Board of County Commissioners also must be informed and approve, because the commissioners must provide the needed funds. Then, legislative action is necessary to authorize a bond issue to finance the work.

Mr. Webster told the East Side parents and patrons that a well-equipped school makes it easier to present a good school program. However, what is most important is what goes on within the school. Then he asked several questions about the school program. Does it help children to help themselves? Do the pupils take pride in learning without developing conceit? Does the program develop good attitudes?

He concluded that East Side School already offered a good program but will be able to offer a better program in a better building.

Miss Agnes Lauder of Lonaconing, principal of East Side School, told her audience that she was "truly grateful and happy" that the school addition has become a reality.

State DAR Winners Announced

Mrs. R. Finley Thompson, 540 Rose Hill Avenue, state chairman for the D.A.R. Good Citizen Committee, said last night that the annual contest has been won by Barbara Levin of Milford Mill High School, Baltimore County.

Honorable mention awards will go to Bonnie Joe Ayers of Smithburg High School, Washington County; and to Jane Bucky Wantz of Francis Scott Key High School, New Windsor, Carroll County.

The winner, a native of Baltimore, is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Levin. She plans to enter the University of Maryland in September to major in journalism.

Mrs. Thompson said 16 counties were represented in this year's Daughters of American Revolution Good Citizen competition, with 65 schools and several hundred Maryland girls participating. In Allegany and Garrett counties, Cresap Chapter DAR sponsored the annual event with five high schools taking part.

State judges for the contest included Miss Olive Simpson, retired, history department, Allegany High School, Cumberland; Mrs. E. Winifred Opgrande, speech department, Washington College, Chestertown; and Miss Katherine Sherrill, dean of Hood College, Frederick.

Evans Posts Bond

School Addition Is Opened

Street Repair Bids Are Due On March 28

Lump Sum Prices Will Be Requested

Bids for the resurfacing of nine city streets will be opened by the Mayor and Council on March 28 at 10 a.m.

Advertisements requesting bids on the projects will be published here Saturday and Monday. They call for leveling, patching and resurfacing of each street with a two-inch blacktop wearing course.

Areas involved are on Bedford, Franklin, Frederick and Independence streets, Kelly Boulevard, Oldtown Road and Valley, Washington and Williams streets.

Specifications covering the work are being prepared and will be available Monday from the City Engineering Department.

Ordinances authorizing the street improvements and providing that costs be shared equally by the city and abutting property owners were adopted at Monday's meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Action on similar ordinances for Fayette Street and Wempe Drive were tabled until Monday.

The specifications for the work call for lump sum bids in all cases, in accordance with a policy adopted by the Mayor and Council last year.

Bids may provide a test of the bidding policy.

Previously, virtually all construction bids were awarded on a unit basis, under which a contractor was paid for the exact amount of work done.

For instance, if a contractor had to excavate 100 yards of dirt for a foundation and the plans called for 90 yards, he was paid for the extra work in accordance with the price quoted for earth excavation in his bid. If the excavation amounted to 80 yards, he was paid only for that amount at the price stated in his bid.

Under the lump sum bidding plan, a contractor bids a certain number of dollars for doing the work set up in the contract.

Man Sought In Virginia Jailed Here

A former Bedford, Pa., man who was arrested here yesterday on false pretense charges also is wanted by Virginia authorities for jumping bond and for larceny by confidence.

Being held in Allegany County Jail is Homer C. Growden, 40. Growden was arrested yesterday morning by City Police Officer James Brown, who was directing traffic in front of St. Mary's Catholic Church on Oldtown Road.

Growden is wanted here for obtaining $578.70 under false pretenses from the Cumberland Stockyards, and $20 from Andy's Tire Service on Williams Road.

Sgt. William F. Baker, criminal investigator for the State Police who is investigating the case here against Growden, said Trooper Stanley Lee of the Virginia State Police at Winchester contacted the LaVale barracks yesterday and said Growden is wanted there for jumping bond, and for larceny by confidence in the theft of a station wagon.

Sgt. Baker last night recovered the stolen vehicle and it is being held at the LaVale barracks.

Virginia State Police arrested Growden February 25 on the local warrants while Growden was a patient in a Winchester hospital with a fractured leg he sustained in an auto accident.

However, the next day when nurses went to Growden's room they found that he had fled during the night. It was learned later his wife had assisted him in getting his leg out of traction during the night hours.

Growden later was arrested again, taken before a Winchester magistrate and released on $1,000 bond.

Haylift Postponed

HAGERSTOWN (AP)—A project to airlift hay to Western Maryland deer, starving because of the snow, has been postponed again because of the weather.

This time it was low ceiling and poor visibility which kept the project on the ground, E.J. Day reported Thursday. Day is secretary of the South Mountain Rod and Gun club which donated the hay.

ABL Official Explains Development Of Rocketry

Dr. Richard P. Carter, technical assistant to the plant manager at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory, traced the history and development of rocketry at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club yesterday at Central YMCA.

He began his remarks by explaining that the ABL facilities actually were constructed by the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company at the beginning of World War II. Eventually, from 1943 to 1945, this facility was operated by George Washington University for the U.S. Office of Scientific Research and Development.

Late in 1945, it was taken over by the Navy Department, which designated the Hercules Powder Company to operate it. Dr. Carter said there was good reason for the choice of Hercules, because this firm had made all of the rockets used by the United States in World War II. Hercules operated facilities in Virginia, Wisconsin and Kansas.

The history of rockets goes back to the 13th Century when they were developed by the Chinese, presumably as a "secret weapon" against the invading Mongols. The invaders were not stopped, however.

First use of rockets in this country stems from the War of 1812, Dr. Carter said. He emphasized that when Francis Scott Key wrote the Star Spangled Banner at Fort McHenry in Baltimore he mentioned the "rocket's red glare."

Modern development of rocketry in this country is believed to have started with Robert H. Goddard, who about 1909 was a professor of physics at Clark University in Massachusetts. His work was financed by the Smithsonian Institution.

German scientists were instrumental in much development of liquid rocketry during World War II. Since that war, many of these scientists have gone either to Russia or to the United States, where they have been instrumental in development of missiles and satellites.

Dr. Carter pointed out that it was appropriate for him to have been speaking to the Kiwanis Club yesterday. St. Patrick's Day was the second anniversary of the first successful launching of the Navy's Vanguard satellite, which is still circling the earth. The third stage rocket was made at ABL. This same rocket also was used in the launching of Pioneer V, the satellite which is orbiting around the sun. It was launched last Friday.

A native of Alderson, W. Va., Dr. Carter received a B.S. in chemical engineering from Virginia Polytechnic Institute and his Ph.D. degree from Purdue University. Employed with Hercules since July 1, 1940, he has been at ABL since last May 1. He resides in Cresap Park with his wife and three children.

More Budgets Of Departments Get Approval

Some Reductions Made In Totals

More departmental budgets have been received and some of them have been approved by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

One of those approved was for State's Attorney James S. Getty. He had asked for $21,459 and the commissioners approved $21,330, which is $129 less than was sought. The approved total is $1,000 more than the $20,330 listed for the state's attorney in the current budget.

The approved total includes $17,300 salary for four employes in the office and $1,500 for a new automobile for the use of County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya. He presently is using a 1956 model car with 45,000 miles on its speedometer.

One of the few budgets lower than for the current year is the one approved for County Treasurer James S. Bishop of $3,600. That is $200 less than the figure for this year. The total includes $2,000 salary.

Another approved budget is $214,878.03, exactly what the County Welfare Department sought in county funds. The total welfare budget for 1960-61 is $1,413,248.20 but all of the rest comes from state and federal sources. The approved total is $13,818.18 more than last year.

The County Board of Election Supervisors has submitted a budget calling for expenditures of $39,311 in the fiscal year which starts July 1. That is $3,268 more than the $36,043 level of this year. The proposed budget total includes $30,828 in salaries, $19,140 for regular employes and $11,688 for poll workers. There is $4,333 for expenses and $1,050 in capital outlay.

Another budget, from a department which is self-sustaining, is $20,100 for the Allegany County Board of Alcoholic Beverages License Commissioners. This department's expenses are paid out of the fees for liquor licenses, which approximate $40,000 a year.

Appeals Court Affirms Ruling In Estate Case

The Maryland Court of Appeals in Annapolis yesterday affirmed an Allegany County Circuit Court decision which held the state could collect from the estate of Harry E. Kooken, who died while a patient at Springfield State Hospital.

"We think . . . it clear that the maintenance and care of one who is mentally incompetent was not intended to be an unconditional gift but was based instead on the expectation of future reimbursement upon the death of the incompetent, if the circumstances should then permit it," the high court said.

The department of mental hygiene has billed the estate for $7,423.

FiremenFind No Fire, No Garage

Twenty-three LaVale volunteer firemen raced two miles late yesterday to answer a fire alarm call to 939 Weires Avenue, only to find out that there was not only no fire, but that there was no such address.

Chief James H. Loar said someone identifying himself as "Mr. Davidson" telephoned the fire station at 6:55 p.m. to report a fire in a garage at the Weires Avenue address.

Firemen took two fire engines and an equipment truck to the scene, learned the address was false, then checked the neighborhod and found that no one knew of any fire.

"False alarms are a most serious crime," said Chief Loar. "Somebody can be hurt answering them. LaVale has a fire company it can be proud of. As chief I have a certain responsibility for the safety of the firemen, and I won't tolerate false alarms." He said anyone who is caught turning in a false alarm will be prosecuted.

Hit-Run Driver Gets 5 Months

Leroy E. Wilkinson Jr., 22, of Johnstown, Pa., who was arrested by Maryland State Police Wednesday after he fled from the scene of an accident, was fined $60 and sentenced to five months in the County Jail yesterday.

Magistrate Edward P. Flanigan of Frostburg found Wilkinson guilty of operating a vehicle, speed to great for existing conditions and failure to stop after an accident.

Magistrate Flanigan sentenced Wilkinson to 60 days for operating without a license, $10 for speed too great and $50 and three months for failing to stop after an accident. In addition to the jail terms imposed, Magistrate Flanigan ordered Wilkinson committed for 40 days in default of the fines.

Trooper Willis Foreman arrested Wilkinson in a private home after he had fled from an accident which occurred on U.S. Route 40 near the Crystal Drive-In Theatre.

The Pennsylvania driver struck the rear of a car operated by John T. Morris Jr., 20, of 1404 Frederick Street, and fled on foot from the accident.

A buffet will be served after the initiation and a dance will be held starting at 9 p.m. Music will be by Joe Kessler's orchestra and entertainment by Dusty Shaver.

Members of the initiation team are Philmore F. Fleming, Paul C. Weisenmiller, Harold W. Davis, Thomas R. Farrell, Joseph Macon and Mr. Anderson. Mr. Anderson also will serve as master of ceremonies for the program.

The Legion post has extended invitations to the auxiliary of the post, Gold Star Mothers, Navy Mothers and the 8 & 40.

The local post had a membership goal of 1,000, which it surpassed, making it one of the largest Legion posts in the state.

Sandbag Cost Problem Is Unresolved

Rail Official Will Check And Report

A meeting called on the anniversary of the disastrous St. Patrick's Day flood bogged down temporarily on the issue of who is to pay the $2,040 needed to buy 12,000 sandbags to fill three gaps in the $18,100,000 Cumberland-Ridgeley flood protection system.

W. Fred Mowen, superintendent of the Western division of the Western Maryland Railway, last night said he was not in a position then to authorize any expenditure but will check with railway officials this morning and report the company decision today to city officials.

Mayor Charles H. Fryer of Ridgeley, who is also to meet with town officials and report back, said Ridgeley would greatly appreciate it if the railway could buy the needed bags, and pledged that the community will supply manpower.

12,000 Needed

Officials have estimated that about 12,000 burlap bags must be on hand to use to fill major gaps in the walls or levees at the Western Maryland Railway bridge here, at the east end of the Ridgeley bridge and a big gap at the west end of the Ridgeley yards.

Fourteen tracks in all are involved. All are lower than flood walls or levees at the points and would have to be sandbagged to protect properties of the communities and the railroad.

There was general agreement last night, as officials of Cumberland, Ridgeley and the Western Maryland met, that the most suitable sandbags would be those treated against mildew as they would last twice as long as untreated bags.

Only one firm bid on such bags, and offered to supply 12,000 for $4,040 if paid for within 10 days.

Mayor J. Edwin Keech tried to get agreement on a compromise plan which provided that Cumberland would pay $684.56—which is a third of the cost of the 4,000 bags needed on the Maryland side.

Study Proposal

The proposal called for the Western Maryland to pay $1,000 toward sandbags needed in Ridgeley and for the Town of Ridgeley to pay $369.12.

It also called for Ridgeley to pay for the first 50 tons of sand and half the cost of other sand needed on the West Virginia side of the river.

Mayor Fryer said the town cannot buy the bags legally as there is no such item in the budget. He said the town believes that if it supplies manpower it will be doing its part.

Cumberland, Mayor Keech said, will pay its share for bags needed on the Maryland side of the line but does not think it should take care of the West Virginia side in view of the fact that Cumberland pays the full $32,000 annual maintenance cost of the entire project.

Sand On Hand

Getting sand here will be no problem, City Engineer C. R. Nuzum reported, as a local firm keeps more than will be needed in a bin at all times.

Plenty of trucks will be available to haul the bags. Ridgeley has pledged 12 truck for this, and Cumberland 10.

A number of positive steps were taken during the conference.

The first is that Mr. Nuzum, who heads the area flood protection plan, will meet with Ridgeley workers at their convenience, to explain what will be needed if a flood greater than the 1936 St. Patrick's Day deluge hits here.

Mr. Nuzum stressed that several hours of warning will be given prior to any flood emergency.

The city agreed, at the request of Mr. Mowen, to notify the chief train dispatcher of the Western Maryland Railway here as soon as a flood emergency is declared.

Mayor Fryer said the Town of Ridgeley will blow three-minute blasts on its fire siren to give the flood warning.

To Get Notice

Railway officials stressed that when Cumberland and Ridgeley sandbag the holes they will be protecting themselves and not necessarily protecting the railway.

Railway officials said they want to be consulted before any of their tracks are blocked.

All accepted the proposal made by Mr. Mowen that one set of tracks be left open until the last minute. There will be plenty of men on hand, it was agreed, to close the gaps.

Sidney L. George, division engineer, said the railway will have at least 40 men out in such an emergency and can get several hundred here in several hours if they are needed.

Boulevard Work Slated In April

Weather permitting, the Cumberland Contracting Company plans to resume work on the Industrial Boulevard early in April.

Company officials said work can start then if the ground is dry.

The contract began at the Evitts Creek Bridge and extended to West Street. All of the paving was completed, but the onset of winter halted work on guard rails and shoulders.
